

A Noteworthy Attraction.

Friday night will be a noteworthy one in a theatrical way for Norfolk. Miss Adelaide Thurston in "Miss Ananias," a new comedy, has been declared one of the big hits of the season in Kansas City, where she played all last week, and Norfolk is fortunate to get her.

The company is an expensive one and Miss Thurston, who is ranked as one of the cleverest comedienne on the American stage today, will be a rich treat for Norfolk playgoers. From accounts in Kansas City papers, even more of a show is to be expected than Henry Woodruff last week in "The Genius."

Even in Kansas City, Miss Thurston's week was spoken of as a "noteworthy one," so that Norfolk may well know the attraction will be one of the best that ever has come to the Auditorium. A large out-of-town attendance is anticipated, as this will be one of the big events of the season and will be a show eminently worth coming to see.

Seats go on sale Thursday morning at The News business office, but mail orders mailed now will be reserved in the order of their receipt.

A Cohan & Harris Show.

"Miss Ananias" is a Cohan & Harris attraction, which in itself is enough to tell people familiar with things theatrical that it is of first rank. This is the first "trust" show that has come to Norfolk, being sent here by Klaw & Erlanger. This acquisition is one of the results of the settling of the theatrical war.

Here's what Frank A. Marshall in the Kansas City Journal had to say about the show a week ago Monday:

A most charming addition to the membership of the Ananias club was made at the Willis Wood last night when Miss Adelaide Thurston, a particularly effective actress in dainty comedy began a noteworthy week's engagement in Catherine Chisholm Cushing's very clever farce comedy, "Miss Ananias." Of course there isn't anything more Biblical than the name about it, but it would have been called, with strict regard for the laws of gender, "Miss Sapphira." It might much more appropriately be called "Such a Little Whopper," for the whole delightful affair hinges on one of the teeniest, whitest and most justifiable little fibs that a pretty woman ever told. Her lover, temporarily blind, thought she was 19 and had blue eyes and golden hair, whereas she was 33 and had brown eyes and brown hair. She let him think so until he was about to recover his sight, for "what could the poor girl do," since she loved him?

The basic situation is purely farcical and the chances for getting very much real sentiment over the footlights from behind such a situation are rather slender. While the tempo of the action might be quickened to advantage and while the whole thing would probably "go" better if the farcical element emphasized more strongly, there is much to be said in favor of the quieter methods employed by Miss Thurston and her unusually capable support. In fact the company is one of the very best seen here this season and every role is admirably played. There is not a weak spot in the cast and the acting alone is a dramatic delight. No cleaner or cleverer farce or comedy has been seen here this year. The play is most cleverly constructed and wittily written, its literary and dramatic craftsmanship being of a very high order. Acted so skillfully as it is, the piece is a gem in its way.

Miss Thurston, one of the faintest little comedienne of the day, who has a wide variety of artistic gifts, is deliciously convincing as Nancy Lyle, the girl who had already passed into spinstership through a handsome young fellow got thrown into her life by an automobile accident which temporarily blinded him and made him a patient in her cosy little home-hospital. Her sprightly manner makes him conjure up a picture of budding young womanhood and she fits in order to preserve the illusion and her own chances of happiness. A frisky old uncle, a breezy young cousin and a delightful old colored mammy help carry the deception to the funniest of farce comedy extremes until the inevitable denouement comes, only to bring the happiness which was aimed at from the first. A fussy old aunt and a most laughable old maid sister add not a little to the fun of the piece.

Augustus Phillips, an actor of sterling merit, plays the blinded young lover effectively. Marlon Kirby, who played with distinction Helen Ware's role in "The Third Degree," and is a gifted young player, is capital as the slinky young cousin, and Miss Laura Bennett, one of the best "mammas" of the stage, is inimitable as Mammy Chloe. Miss Edna Von Buelow is excellent as Mrs. Beckman, and A. S. Byron is clever as Mr. Beckman. Constance Glover is a screaming hit in an eccentric bit of character lasting about three minutes. Francis X. Lyon makes a very successful reporter and several other roles are well handled. Cohan & Harris have given a sumptuous setting.

Just Out of College.

At the Auditorium will be presented on Wednesday night for the first time in this city the latest and said to be the wittiest and most laughable comedy the famous humorist, George Ade, has yet written, "Just Out of College." The hero of the play is a young man who has just completed his course at college. He is without money, but what he is minus in this respect he makes up in nerve. He wants to get into business. He is going to do great things when he gets the opportunity. He is in love with the daughter of the man who is at the head of the pickle trust. The promoter of the trust gives the young man a chance to do something by lending him $20,000. With this he starts a rival pickle concern with a co-partner who knows all about pickles and the Binzo company prospers. At last the would-be father-in-law is forced to buy out the new company at a figure which leaves a handsome profit to the young man and he marries the daughter. Seats now on sale. Prices 25c, 50c, 75c and $1.

Mountain Lion Northeast of Neligh?

Neligh, Neb., Nov. 29.—Special to

The News: A report has been received on several occasions in this city during the past week, that the farmer in the vicinity of Willow, fourteen miles northeast of Neligh, have a mountain lion in their midst that is killing hogs whenever the opportunity presents.

The last report from that vicinity is that the neighborhood is greatly alarmed over the appearance of this vicious animal, and that one farmer came in sight of the lion as it had partly devoured one of his hogs, but as the farmer was unarmed the animal made good his escape. It is stated that several hunting parties have been formed to get rid of the monster, but so far have been unsuccessful, and on these raids not a glimpse has been seen of him.

It is thought by those in the Willow neighborhood that the lion had been driven down into this territory by the late forest fires of Minnesota. The rumor is to the effect that this prowling, hog-killing animal has made its home in that township for the past five or six weeks.

The insurgents are said to have been reinforced by bands from Parales to the number of 1,000. They have fortified positions at various points and lively fighting is expected when the campaign starts. Sunday's fight was the first real fight of the insurrection in this vicinity. Three hundred insurgents attacked the rear guard, numbering 150, of 400 government troops who were marching along the line of the Mexican and North Western (Chihuahua and Pacific) railroad. Haskell granted a parole to Tom Jones, a member of the Dalton-Doolin gang of outlaws, who has served sixteen years of a fifty-year sentence for the murder of Deputy United States Marshal Houston at Ingalls, Okla., in 1892. Jones, whose real name is Daugherty, comes of a good Texas family, and had joined the gang shortly before the battle with deputy marshals at Ingalls. He was asleep in a hotel when the fight began, but is alleged to have fired through a hole in the roof. He was captured, convicted of the murder of Houston and sentenced to fifty years. Bill Dalton always said that the three officers slain had been killed by the fire of the rest of the gang from a livery stable and that Daugherty was not guilty.

Army Joins the Enemy.

San Juan Del Sur, Nicaragua, Nov. 29.—Advices today from Tegucigalpa state that the Atlantic ports of Honduras and the department of Comayagua have been captured by revolutionists under the leadership of former President Manuel Bonilla. Government forces sent to retake them joined the enemy.

General Bonilla brought about an unsuccessful revolt against the government of President Davila last summer. Later he sought refuge in Guatemala, from which country he was deported. Recently he was reported to be in New Orleans organizing an expedition which was to attack the Atlantic coast of Honduras. Bonilla's cause was helped somewhat by the re-election of Jose Valladares, the governor of the island of Anapapa. The latter was recently deposed and came to this country.

Shot Down as He Walks.

New York, Nov. 29.—One of a group of four well dressed men, apparently all Americans, was shot dead as he walked along a Harlem street early today. According to the only known witness of the shooting, an occupant of a nearby apartment house on Manhattan street from which the group had just emerged, the man was shot by one of his companions.

Vincent R. Conlon, who saw the tragic happening, says that one member of the party dropped to the rear of the others as they were walking along the street. There was a flash, a shot and one of the men in the group fell on the sidewalk. The others leaned over the fallen man in an instant, then ran off. A policeman and an ambulance surgeon who were summoned found the man dead.

There was nothing about the murdered man to identify him. His clothing of good material and his hands indicated that he was unused to hard work. The mark of a Broadway tailor on his coat gave the police something to work on. The authorities instituted a widespread search for the dead man's companions.

LIVE STOCK MAN SUICIDES.

Will M. Reed of Hastings, in Debt and Bad Health, Ends Life. Hastings, Neb., Nov. 29.—Will M. Reed, for nearly seventeen years a stock dealer in this neighborhood, committed suicide last evening by shooting himself in his hotel room here. As the governors are to be at Frankfort only today, citizens crowded as much hospitality and entertainment into the short time as possible.

Sequel to Kidnaping.

New York, Nov. 29.—The kidnaping case originating five years ago in which the late Lieutenant Petrosino, who was murdered in Italy, played the part of investigator, is believed to have led indirectly to a bomb explosion in the early hours today which shook up three thickly populated blocks in New York and did extensive damage and created panic in the neighborhood.

The bomb exploded in the doorway of Bella Trinoria's saloon, in the heart of the Sicilian section of Elizabeth street. It completely wrecked the saloon, the front of which was blown inward, badly damaged adjacent stores, hurled sleepers in the tenements above from their beds and cracked windows for blocks around. The police reserves had their hands full quelling the panic stricken foreigners, who flocked to the streets by hundreds.

Francesco Le Barbera is the owner of the saloon. He had left the place about half an hour before the explosion. Today he gave the police his theory of the animus behind the outrage. About five years ago, he said, his son Pietro, 6 years old, was kidnaped and he has never heard from him. The police were notified and Lieutenant Petrosino worked on the case. Le Barbera received many letters threatening his life if a large sum of money was not paid for the return of the boy, but paid no attention to them, and it is believed by him that the kidnapers are now starting in their revenge.

THIS SHIP HAS GRIEF.

Crew Are All Prisoners Between Decks—What'll They Do? New York, Nov. 29.—The British freighter Clan McLean from the far east came to anchor in the shadow of the Statue of Liberty with half her crew prisoners between decks. Her captain took on several Spaniards at Gibraltar to replace Lascars who had proved troublesome and when they came in sight of America they refused to work. The officers had to drive the nuthreers back from the bridge by firing revolver shots over their heads and after working the ship into the shelter of the Delaware breakwater lay to for a fortnight until she could ship enough short-term men to make this port. The crew is a problem. They cannot well be landed without the co-operation of the immigration department and the ship cannot be worked while they are on board.

Tolstoy's Son in Bitter Letter.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 29.—Count Leo Tolstoy publishes a bitter denunciation of Count Tschertkoff, the intimate friend and literary agent of the late Count Tolstoy. The son declares that Tschertkoff was the worst enemy that his father had in all educated Russia and the civilized world and that he was directly guilty of the tragedy of Yasna Poliana.

"The malign influence of Tschertkoff," writes Count Leo, "caused the premature death of my father, his superhuman sufferings and the separation from his family." But for his literary agent, the son adds, his father would have lived for many years peacefully at Yasna Poliana with the family who loved him and whom he loved so devotedly.

The arrival of Tschertkoff was the beginning of the end.

A Santee Indian Dies from Exposure.

Niobrara, Neb., Nov. 29.—James Smith, a Santee Indian, living eight miles from this place on Lost creek, was found lying in a ditch by the roadside, about half way to his home from this town. He was brought to town, received medical aid, and internal injuries and some about the head were found. He lived only a few hours. An industrious Indian, he had raised a good crop of corn. Had brought a load here, disposed of it and became intoxicated before starting for home. He was probably thrown from his wagon and received injuries which caused his death, and he had no doubt lain out in the cold all night. A large bottle of whiskey was found in the road and his tent at some distance further on. This was his second trip to town in several months as he realized his weakness for liquor and stayed at home away from temptation.

BITTER PARLIAMENT FIGHT.

Struggle for New British Parliament is Already Begun. London, Nov. 29.—With the dissolution of parliament all formalities preliminary to the election of a new parliament January 31 were completed.

In Ireland the struggle is growing more bitter. A meeting of delegates representing every Ulster constituency was held in Belfast, at which a resolution was adopted on motion of a Presbyterian minister to draw up a solemn declaration refusing to pay rates or taxes imposed by a Dublin parliament or obey its decrees, while $50,000 was subscribed on the spot to organize the Ulstermen into regiments and purchase arms.

At night a monster unionist demonstration was held at Ulster hall, Belfast, an overflow meeting of 20,000 persons being held in the open air. Both aroused the greatest enthusiasm. Lord Londonderry declared that Americans enabled John Redmond to hold Asquith in the hollow of his hand. If a home rule parliament were established, he said, it might be found that Ulster would decline obedience to the law.

Sir Edward Carson, formerly solicitor general and conservative M. P. for Dublin university, said they never would consent to their country being sold for American dollars. Walter Hume Long, unionist M. P. for Strand, spoke in the same strain and other speakers advocated stern resistance to the law if home rule was forced on Ulster.

Almost immediately he came to this city and began working for the Michigan State Telephone company. At the time of his death he was traveling auditor. His death followed an operation for appendicitis.

PROBING FIRE TRAGEDY.

Authorities Looking Into Cause of Death of Twenty-four Girls. Newark, N. J., Nov. 29.—"If I find any city or state official guilty of negligence in the inspection of this building," said County Prosecutor Mott as he stood by the factory in which twenty-four girls lost their lives by fire last Saturday, "there will be the bitterest sort of prosecution."

"I do not mean to imply," he continued, "that I have any evidence of criminal negligence, but I do mean that the investigation shall be in earnest. My view is that it ought to take the form of some sort of public hearing, and I think a coroner's jury will be the most effective instrument."

Accordingly a coroner's jury was sworn in, the first of its kind that has sat here in twenty years. County physicians ordinarily perform such tasks. There also will be separate inquiries by the grand jury, the state labor department and the city building committee. The destroyed building was the property of Miss Barbara Glass, who has issued a statement declaring that the structure was adequately equipped with fire escapes.

After full justice had been done to the many good things provided, the president of the city council, H. W. Winter, was appointed toastmaster and called on each guest in turn, all of whom responded with appropriate and cordial talks. While the company enjoyed the clears which the mayor passed about, a general discussion of the problems of the city, past and future, was had, such as can not fail to be of untold value in bringing closer together all who were present. General expression was given to the feeling shared by all that the mayor and Mrs. Friday had set an example which should be followed and that last night's supper should become a precedent for all future mayors to follow.
