Prisoner in City Jail Says He Heard There Was an Asylum in Norfolk.
While the firemen were holding a social meeting in the city hall Wednesday night a prisoner in the jail below was pacing the stone floor and calling for the police. Finally Fire Driver Monroe answered his call and the following questions were asked him:
"I understand there is an asylum in Norfolk."
"Yes, there is," replied Monroe.
"Am I safe here in jail?" anxiously asked the prisoner.
Monroe assured him that his life was in no danger and that what he heard were firemen upstairs arguing the point as to whether the fire department today was better than that of twenty-six years ago.

The few Yaqui Indians remaining in the state, he declares, are quietly working their patches of ground in the Yaqui valley and have not joined the revolutionary outbreak as reported.

Blind Telegrapher.

York, Neb., Dec. 17.—Totally blind for ten years, Charles Benton, now a resident here, is said to be one of the most expert telegraphers in the country. He is able to take the swiftest senders, never "breaking," and on his typewriter making perfect "copy." Benton is employed by a grain commission house, receives the quotations and marks the board, never making a mistake. In the office where he is employed, there is a large amount of business done over the telephone, and it is all in charge of Benton. Parties will call up during the day and ask for the opening, closing or intermediate quotations on wheat, corn, oats, pork, stocks or listed bonds. Without hesitation, Benton can call the desired quotations, telling to the exact minute when they came in. He cannot see a thing, but his memory is so clear and accurate that he carries every figure on the board, remembering every fluctuation during the day.

FEAR BARGES ARE LOST.

It is Thought That Seven Men Perished in Tow of Another Boat.
Vineyardhaven, Mass., Dec. 17.—The foundering of the barge Maywood, the rescue of her crew of four men and the probable loss of the barges Soranant and Binghamton with their crews of three and four men respectively, were reported here by Captain Vaux of the tug Margaret which had the barges, all coal laden, in tow from New York to Boston.
The Margaret left here with her tow Thursday morning. Favorable weather prevailed until about 8 p. m. Then the wind changed suddenly and increased to a violent gale and snow. The tug slowly proceeded north with the Mayflower, Soranant and Binghamton in tow. At 3 a. m. it was discovered that the towing hawser had parted and that the Soranant and Binghamton were drifting. They were not seen again.
Twenty minutes after the tug had taken the Mayflower's crew aboard, the barge went down with her cargo of 1,400 tons of coal.

LOST FROM HIS MOTHER.

Little Boy in Norfolk Finally is Restored to Parents.
Crying bitterly for his mother, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Marotz of St. Anthony, Ida., was found on the Norfolk avenue railroad crossing yesterday afternoon and returned to the arms of his parents by J. E. Haase, vice president of the Citizens National bank. Mr. and Mrs. Marotz are in the city to spend a few days' visit with the August Zitkowski family. They had stopped in the Norfolk area store for a short visit with V. A. Ne-now when their little son followed a lady out of the door. His absence was not noticed for some time, and when he was not found the parents became quite anxious. A diligent search for the little westerner was made, but of no avail. Finally Mr. Haase appeared on the scene with the little boy and then happiness reigned supreme.

BIG CROWD IS COMING

Large Number of Fight Fans Will Be Here From Holt County.
O'Neill, Neb., Dec. 17.—Special to The News: The decision reached by the managers of the Sullivan-West contest whereby Norfolk is substituted as the place for the bout to take place, instead of Gregory, is very acceptable to the majority of O'Neill people who interest themselves in sports.
The change of location will allow a larger number of people to go to Norfolk to see the contest than if it was pulled off at Gregory.
Atkinson and other towns in the county will send good delegations to the ringside, while a very small percentage of those who would go to Gregory as the bout is scheduled during the busy holiday season and the people having important business could not lose the time to go to Gregory. In other contests of this and other kinds the O'Neill people and those of other towns have received generous treatment and the liberal spirit shown to them by the people of Norfolk and the business men of O'Neill who favor clean manly sports are assured of receiving a square deal and no objections are heard from any quarter as to Norfolk being selected as the place to hold the contest.

West is Confident.

Gregory, S. D., Dec. 17.—Sporting Editor, The News: West did a 12-mile road stunt yesterday and finished apparently as fresh as when he left training quarters while the saddle horse ridden by his trainer was wet with sweat. He gave two trainers all they could do for ten rounds of fast work in the afternoon.
West is in fine form and is cheerful and seems confident of victory.

LIGHTNING DESTROYS A WELL.

Queer Trick of Sky Shaft Upon Norfolk Farmer's Water Supply.
A well on the farm of Ferdinand Leu, living four miles north of the city, is out of commission as the result of a freak game played by the lightning of some weeks ago. Mr. Leu was in the city Saturday and reports, after many vain attempts to draw water from the well he has commenced operations on a new well.

During a thunder and electrical storm some weeks ago a bolt of lightning struck the Leu well.
The next day it was found no water could be drawn from the well which once supplied some of the best water in the territory. Many attempts were made to repair the well and investigation did not solve the mystery of the lightning's damage. Water was necessary, the old well was abandoned and a new one is being dug. One farmer now asks if insurance companies will get out insurance policies for the safety of wells from damage by lightning.

"Rats" Are Cheaper.

New York, Dec. 17.—According to a New York dealer and importer of human hair, the women of the country will receive a Christmas gift in the price of "rats," puffs, switches and other devices for adding to the crowning glory of femininity.
The reason for the reduction is that the market has become glutted with hair following the wholesale amputation of queues and top knots which has been inaugurated in China and Korea. It is estimated that nearly a million Koreans have visited the barber since their country was annexed by Japan, and nearly all the hair has been shipped to America and Europe.
During the last few weeks hundreds of New York Chinese have parted with their queues, and this has also served to augment the supply of human hair to be used in the manufacture of "rats," switches and puffs for the adornment of the ladies of the land.

Sei: 75,000 Cigar Bands.

Paris, Dec. 17.—A collection of about 75,000 cigar bands, each different, will be sold at a public auction today. The collection was the hobby of a French banker who died recently. He had spent fifty years and thousands of dollars on his queer fad. His heirs sold the collection to a dealer in curios for $5, and the purchaser, after widely advertising what he calls "the most complete collection of its kind in existence," expects to realize a handsome profit from its sale today. So intent was the banker on his hobby, it is said, that he never smoked the same brand of cigar twice.

Cure for Cancer.

New York, Dec. 17.—That cancer is curable by means of vaccination, if the treatment is given in time, is the statement of Dr. H. R. Gaylord of Buffalo. The physician, who is in charge of a cancer laboratory, urges that the state of New York establish a hospital for the treatment of cancer by his methods. The matter is under consideration by a special joint committee on state institutions, which met here today.
It is alleged by Dr. Gaylord that his method of treatment is the first to successfully cope with cancer. He has long been engaged in research as to the causes and cure of the dread disease, and declares that he has proved by demonstrations on animals that it can be cured by the vaccine treatment.

THEATERS BEFORE THE CHURCH

A Minister Puts Newspapers Above All Other Influences.
Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 17.—"The newspaper, the theater and the church are the three great molders of public opinion," Dr. Jay William Hudson, professor of philosophy at the University of Missouri, said in an address at the All Souls Unitarian church. "I would place them for importance in the order named. The theater is before the church because it reaches a larger, wider and more democratic class of people than does the church. I believe the influence of a good play is much more powerful and potent than the average sermon."

John Gordon, Magazine Man.

Have you heard of John Gordon, the magazine man? He lives alone in a little cottage at 2423 South Twenty-first street, Omaha, Neb. He was seriously injured in a railroad accident ten years ago and lies a prisoner within his little room, suffering from a broken back and complete paralysis of the lower part of his body. He must do what he can to earn a living, propped up in bed with a writing tablet in his hands and a telephone fixed above his head. To a News representative who called at his little home last week, he explained his plan of trying to earn a cash premium by sending in orders for magazines and periodicals. The interest will be for his use and at his death the principal will go to help some other unfortunate. It will not cost you a cent extra to give him your subscription. He doesn't ask for charity, just the privilege of earning enough to insure shelter and food while he lives. He is daily growing weaker, but he works on, though at frightful odds. Send him your renewals and new subscriptions. Tell your friends about him. Write to him for a catalogue or use any price list you have. He is perfectly reliable and certainly is entitled to a chance to live.

World's Seamen May Strike.

London, Dec. 17.—A strike of seamen which may tie up the maritime commerce of the world, involving 2,500,000 men, may result from the conference to be held in Maritime hall, London, during the next two weeks. Charles Chambers, grand treasurer of the American branch of the International Seamen's union, arrived today to represent American sailors in the discussion of demands.

Never before has there been an international strike of seamen, and the result of such a general cessation of work would be disastrous beyond precedent. The demands of the seamen employed in the shipping industry of the great lakes constitute one of the principal bones of contention. It is alleged that the American lakes seamen, who have been on strike for two years, are the victims of a blacklisting system, which includes a Bertillon system and brand marks on seamen's hands to identify them in case they turn out to be union organizers and thus aid in their persecution throughout the world.
I. Havelock Wilson, M. P., president of the British branch of the International Seamen's union, will preside over the sessions and deliberations of the delegates. The union now is organized throughout North and South America, Great Britain and all European nations and Asia, including all the better class of Chinese, Hindoo and Lascar sailors. A large strike fund is on hand and it is said that the members throughout the world are ready to quit work as soon as the word is given. Representatives of the British shipping industry believe that the difference will be satisfactorily adjusted.

Tomorrow is Peace Sunday.

The appeal asks that all christian churches, of whatever denomination, observe this Sunday with special services and sermons dealing with peace and arbitration of international disputes.

"PRINCE OF PILSEN" CLOTHES.

The Chorus Girls Wear Real Silks and Real Laces, Too.
Any one who sees the performance of "The Prince of Pilsen" as it is being presented this season by Henry W. Savage company is impressed with the magnificence of the costumes. It does not need a trained eye or an expert test to know that the chorus girls wear real silk, real lace, or real velvet. There is nothing "phony" about the dresses that the Savage chorus girls wear; the girl who gets $25 a week is as well dressed as the prima donna.
Henry W. Savage is very particular how his girls dress. They want the best and never stop at any expense. There are other managers who also spend money, but it is doubtful if any of them get the beautiful combinations of colors, the perfect harmony in effects and styles as does Mr. Savage.
Mr. Savage's method of getting these effects and combinations is very simple. The scene is set, the lights are thrown on and a group of figures are arranged on the stage, draped with the various goods that the costumer has brought for consideration. Nothing is left to chance. If the right shade of green is lacking, scouts are hurried out to get it, and it has been no uncommon thing for specially dyed fabrics to be made for a Savage production.
When the gowns are made, fitted for each girl, the dress rehearsals are held and Mr. Savage sits in the back of the house and he amazes his assistants and managers by the way he picks out flaws and orders changes. It often happens that a gown would pass the inspection of the most critical audience, but Mr. Savage is not satisfied because some little thing is wrong. A skirt is too long, a girl's shoes too big, a buckle not in keeping or the style of dressing the hair not just right. Mr. Savage has the reputation for having the most critical eye of any manager in the business and he sees a hundred things that would pass unnoticed by any audience. This is due to Mr. Savage's thoroughly artistic nature and to his special study of the subject.

ENGINE RAN WILD.

Omaha, Dec. 16.—A Northwestern engine standing upon a sidetrack at the roundhouse two miles north of the Webster street depot, started in a mysterious manner yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, and running wild down the main line at a speed estimated at twenty-five miles an hour, crashed into a train of empty passenger coaches at the depot with a jar that shook the station, badly wrecking the combination car at the front of the train.
Had it not been for the bumping post, which was all but demolished, the cars would have been hurled into the side of the crowded waiting room. If the accident had occurred half an hour later the coaches would have been crowded with people, as the train was the Emerson local scheduled to leave at 5:45. With the exception of the engine the train was completely made up.
Brakeman Payne was the only person on the train. He received no injury worse than a shaking up. Fire started in the combination car from the stove, but it was soon extinguished.
How the engine started is a mystery. Two engines just in from Fremont were being taken into the roundhouse by hostlers. No. 1277 was left standing outside. When the hostlers came out for it, the engine was not in sight. The first warning was not wired in by the operator at the north yards, a mile from the depot, stating that a wild engine had just passed him going at the rate of twenty-five or thirty miles an hour. The men in the dispatcher's office rushed to the windows just in time to see the crash.

A coal heaver said he thought he saw a man climb into the cab a short time before the engine started. Special Officer Stewart is working on the case.
"Engines have been known to start by themselves," said Chief Dispatcher Fordyce. "Steam might have leaked into the cylinders when the throttle was set just right. Although the affair came out mighty luckily and wouldn't happen so fortunately once in many times."
