

A Gun Incident.

Colome Times: The Beaman grading camp, two miles west and three miles north of Colome, was the scene of an alleged gun episode last Saturday. As the story was told by William Holen, boss at the camp, he and Frank Stevens were in town Saturday last, where they had a few words. Holen went home without Stevens, upon whose return to camp the quarrel was renewed. Holen alleges that Stevens pulled a gun on him and fired one shot as the boss was making strenuous efforts to cover enough ground to get out of range. Stevens denies that he fired, both he and his wife declaring the revolver was not loaded. Holen swore out a warrant before Justice of the Peace John A. Wood, and Constable Omer Hughes arrested Stevens. The case did not come to a hearing, both parties agreeing to a settlement.

Gregory County Gambling Stops.
Gregory Times-Advocate: Last week State's Attorney McDonnell issued the order that all forms of gambling and games of chance must stop, not only in Gregory, but in the whole county. The order was quite a surprise to many, especially to those engaged in running gambling houses. This order was caused largely by the fact that a week ago a prize fight was pulled off in this city at the hour of 3 a. m., and after the principals and promoters had promised State's Attorney McDonnell that the contest would be declared off and that the fight would not take place. It will be remembered that the principals were arrested the afternoon before the fight, but were allowed their freedom on their promise and the promise of some of the promoters that the fight would not take place. About 3 o'clock in the morning a large crowd gathered in the Auditorium and the match was pulled off. The fellows that pulled off the stunt thought they had slipped one over the state's attorney. But when his orders went forth that all gambling must stop and that the promoters as well as principals of the match were liable to prosecution to the full extent of the law, they were not quite so jubilant. In fact, no one will acknowledge that he was there.

Mr. McDonnell is being congratulated on all sides for the determined stand he has taken, and those who know him know that he means every word he says, and that gambling and prize fighting are a thing of the past in this county as long as he is state's attorney.

A Spotter in the Saloon.
Lincoln Democrat: Pat Holleran, proprietor of the Parlor Car saloon at Casper, Wyo., has filed suit against the Northwestern for damages in the sum of $25,000 against the Northwestern railroad company.

Mr. Holleran states that a man named Pepperdine secured employment in his place of business and got into his confidence by claiming to come from Janesville, Wis., and knowing many of Mr. Holleran's old friends. It is claimed that Pepperdine was a spotter for the Northwestern railroad and that he took the job under instructions from his superiors. He confessed that the railroad people were watching the Parlor Car to see that tickets were not bought and sold there. As soon as some of the railroad men began to get fired here, Holleran suspected his bartender of doing the work and accused him of being a spotter. Finally the man confessed and told before witnesses that he was sent there by officials of the road to watch the local railroad employees and the proprietor of the saloon. It was found that he had pried open the top of Mr. Holleran's private desk and had gone through his private papers and also reported every employe of the road who came inside the doors.

In view of all this underhand work, Mr. Holleran asks the company to pay him $25,000 for the consequent loss of business on account of their low-lived spotter being employed there and for the humiliation of being spied upon by a railroad detective.

NO BRIBE FOR BRYAN.
Nebraska Denies Tale That He Was Tendered Money in Congress.
Lincoln, March 1.—The tale that William J. Bryan, while a member of congress was offered a $1,000,000 bribe to cease his opposition to the Cleveland gold bond issue, belongs in the category of glittering fakes. Over the telephone from Fairview, his country home, Mr. Bryan said today: "I was never offered a bribe by any man at any time for anything."
The bribery story originated a few days ago in a country newspaper at Cedar Rapids, Neb. It represented that a banker friend of Bryan's in Lincoln, named Brown, had told a friend of the Cedar Rapids editor that Bryan was offered $1,000,000 to drop his fight on the bond issue proposed by the Cleveland administration in the early '90s, and that Bryan turned it down. Banker Brown died three years ago.

SMITH WINDING UP AFFAIRS.
Iowa Congressman Will Take Place on Bench Soon After March 15.

The message dealt with wool pulp, pulp and newspaper print paper, farm products, including live stock, and current relative prices in Canada and the United States of wheat, barley and food products, including meats, poultry, eggs, dairy products and vegetables.

AUTO PUFFS AND SPURTS.
The date of the French Grand Prix automobile race has been changed to June 2.
The steering gear of an automobile requires more frequent inspection during the winter than at other seasons.
There are 997,000 families in the United States with an annual income of $3,000 or more. As many of these are able to support an automobile the field is by no means as liable to be exhausted as some pessimists would insist.
So successful has an auto delivery company of Portland, Oregon, proved in its work that similar companies are to be organized in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle. These companies will be capitalized at $250,000 each.
The secretary of state in California got a letter a few days ago from a Napa man to say that his wife had discovered that the figures 43501 in their automobile license tag totaled 13, and that she refused to ride in the car until another number was supplied.
The three-day automobile race meet to be held under the auspices of the Jacksonville Motor club on the Atlantic Pablo beach, starting March 27, promises to be a great success. All of the leading American cars will compete. That the mile record established by Oldfield will be broken is the general hope. The ocean washed course is ideal for exceptional speed.
The sign posting car of the Automobile Club of America is ploughing its way through frozen ruts, mud, snow, drifts and slush. The touring bureau has mapped out so much work that the car can not afford to delay and wait for the good roads. The old iron signs erected by the club in the early days of its sign posting campaign have become in many cases defaced and illegible.
Along with other modern ideas the Chinese are adopting the motor car. Although the roads adapted to its use are very few and mostly in the vicinity of the larger cities, wealthy Chinese are buying cars. Consul General Samuel S. Knabenshue of Tientsin reports that there are perhaps a dozen or more motor cars in Tientsin, two or three of which are owned by Chinese, the others belonging to foreign residents. There are also about a dozen in Peking.

Thompson, who resigned recently to take up private law practice in Danville, Ill. The place pays $5,000 a year.

SHEEHAN MIGHT WITHDRAW.
New Caucus of New York Democratic Legislators May Be Held.
Albany, N. Y., March 1.—Efforts are being made today to bring about a new caucus of democratic members of the legislature to consider a way out of the deadlock over the United States senatorship that has existed since January 1.
Just how the "regulars" of the party will take the intimidation of William F. Sheehan, that he is ready to step aside if a re-convened caucus evinces a desire he should do so, does not appear. It is known, however, that the insurgents who refused to enter the first caucus, will not participate in a second one.
The indications are that if it is decided to act on Mr. Sheehan's suggestion the caucus will be reconvened tomorrow.

Dogs in Tripp County.
Colome Times: These days in Tripp one cannot pick up a newspaper without finding some strenuous condemnation of the policy which makes of practically every new town a canine paradise. Carter and Winner seem afflicted in the same measure as Colome, where it is barely possible to cross a street without jumping over one or a dozen curs. And probably the most vicious feature about it is the disgraceful scenes enacted every day in the presence of women and children, scenes which have no place in a decent community. Besides, there is always the danger that some ownerless mongrel may assault the passerby, particularly if he be not inclined to give the sidewalk to the dog and wade mud himself. We have a plethora of worthless curs and more seem to make this their home every day. The street is no place for a dog vaudeville and Colome and other towns should not permit a show of such character. Ninety-five percent dead would be about right on the dog question.

Humphrey Church Protests.
Humphrey, Neb., March 1.—Special to The News: A petition was signed by about 200 voters of St. Francis Catholic church protesting against senate file No. 286, which was introduced in the Nebraska senate by Senator Barros of Saline county. Plan Another Wolf Hunt.
Bassett, Neb., Feb. 25.—Special to The News: J. J. Carlin is organizing a grand wolf hunt to be pulled off March 3, which will encircle a territory of no less than 150 square miles in central Rock county and including the beautiful headwaters of the Elk horn river. Here is the ideal haunt of the wolf, and the lay of the land will make it hard for them to sneak out through the lines. Each line will have three captains and two aids, who are experienced, and being under the command of General Carlin assures success and a fine lot of sport.

All who love this kind of outdoor sport are invited to take part in this hunt, providing that they are willing to obey the orders of the captains and the rules of the hunt.

Mixture of Coconut and Peanut Meals is Less Expensive Than Oats.
Weybridge, Vt., March 1.—The United States department of agriculture has just invented a breakfast food for horses at its local experiment station here. It might be called "Peanoatmeal" or "Copeanuts," for it is made of two parts coconut meal to one part peanut meal. Government experts say it will keep horses in good condition at two-thirds the cost of oats.

O'Neill Frontier: The county court is frequently called upon to examine some chap for the crime of selling liquor without the law's consent, otherwise known as "bootlegging." Such a case was before Judge Malone last Friday and the accused was held to the district court on $500 bonds for trial.
The defendant in this instance is Lewis Clyde, and the scene of his alleged illegal operations in the liquor traffic is Page. Complaint was entered in behalf of the state of Nebraska by Cora E. Murphy and a bond furnished for the costs if the prosecution fails. The complaint contains three counts, all charging the unlawful sale of liquor, each count naming a different date on which beer was sold to three different men or boys named in the complaint.
When brought into county court the accused waived his right to a preliminary hearing and was at once bound over to the district court. It is claimed by Page people that the "bootlegger" had become brazen and that mere boys were supplied with the drinks that make drunks, and they are in dead earnest about the prosecution. Page has always been a "dry" section of the county and they are zealous of their reputation as such. It is not the first time the community has been aroused over the attempts of daring individuals to invade the sanctity of their village with the whiskey jug. Others have tried it, but were soon following the sheriff toward O'Neill to answer before the bar of justice.
When Clyde will have his trial is not known. District court adjourned last month till April, and this case will probably not be heard until then.

A spectacular runaway occurred yesterday afternoon when a team of horses belonging to Dr. C. J. Verges ran away from the Verges barn and came down Norfolk avenue at a terrific pace. They were about to cross the bridge at the east end of the avenue when an automobile coming west on the bridge aided in turning them back. They made a neat turn without upsetting the buggy to which they were attached. W. L. Lehman and Jake Shively aided in stopping the team in front of the Wide Awake store.
J. L. Hershiser has returned from a three weeks' visit in old Mexico. The insurgents, Mr. Hershiser believes, have the better of the situation in that republic and he thinks that Diaz has lost his former power with the natives. Federal troops are congregated around the city of Mexico and the organization of insurrecto bands continues daily. Where the talk of a revolution was punished with imprisonment heretofore, it is now a common topic of conversation, he says. Eventually the insurgents will march on Mexico City and force Diaz to submit to their wishes, is the belief of the Norfolk man.
