BANDS OF ASSASSINS HOLD POWERFUL SWAY

The trial of a band of Camorra rists at Viterbo, Italy, draws attention to the secret societies of Europe which have for their object murder or any form of violence and crime that will promote their views or fill the pockets of the scoundrels who belong to them.

The whole continent is honeycombed with such societies, who set all laws at defiance and are a constant terror to law-abiding people.

Moroumtzeff, the man who died through being accidentally shot by a fellow criminal during the attempted burglary in Houndsditch, was known to the continental police as the desperate leader of a gang of hooligans and thieves which he had got together, known as the "Znova Rahtonica," the members of which devoted their energies to robberies with violence and attacks upon banks and commercial houses.

Its destination, a well known and "honorable" merchant, without a word. In another case the young son of a certain prince was kidnapped and a sum of 100,000 francs was demanded for his return.

Candidates for membership swore upon an iron crucifix a fearful oath of fidelity and secrecy and only after a long period of training and probation received the two knives of peculiar form by which the Camorristi recognized one another.

In Turkey, where the Camorra is particularly active at present, incendiarism is its chief occupation. It is said that three fires out of every four in Constantinople are the work of the Camorra, whose method is to remove all valuables from the chosen house or shop, saturate the walls and floors with petroleum and set fire to it.

Other Dreaded Societies. But the services of the Camorra are available to any who are willing to pay heavily enough for them, from a staid wife who wishes to get rid of a fair rival to the tradesman who cannot collect his debts.

Among many other secret societies in Europe—the Carbonari, in Italy; the Nihilists, in Russia—the Hetaira has had princes and even kings among its members.

Should Seek Oil Here. Judge Isaac Powers has received a letter from his son, manager of the Jacksonville (Ill.) Packing company, who reports that the company is burning natural gas in its boilers instead of coal.

It has now settled down to forty feet of good petroleum. Other wells are being sunk to determine the extent of the oil. In discussing the matter Judge Powers declares the country in which the oil was found in Illinois is almost the exact formation of the country around Norfolk.

Although Mr. Powers does not say that oil may be found here, he believes an experiment would do no harm. He does not remember that there has been any attempt to find oil in this vicinity, but believes that it would pay capitalists to make the experiment.

Dr. J. H. Mackay has persistently urged, for years, that oil is a possibility in this region.

Guard at Valentine Jail Increased. Valentine, Neb., July 21.—The night guard at the county courthouse and jail has been increased owing to an alleged plot on foot to release the four prisoners, the Weed brothers, and Heath and Murphy, who are held for the lynching of Sellers.

The regular night watchman sleeps inside the jail where he will be handy in case of an attempt to break jail and the city marshal, Peter Hoos, has been loaned by the town authorities to the county officials and he patrols outside the jail armed with a shotgun. Electric lights have been strung outside the jail to prevent friends assisting in the escape of the prisoners.

It is understood that the prisoners have raised nearly $10,000 for their defense, while the friends of Sellers have raised several thousand dollars to employ additional legal talent to prosecute them. In addition to Tucker and Fisher, the prosecution will be assisted by Attorney M. P. Harrington of O'Neill.

A Chautauqua Headliner. One of the headline attractions at this year's chautauqua program is Dr. Nancy McGee Waters of Brooklyn.

Born in the south, educated in the Virginias and in Massachusetts, he began his career in the great west.

He is the pastor of the largest Congregational church in the world, and, year in and year out, preaches to the largest Protestant audience in Greater New York.

In appearance and nature he is essentially southern. Southern features, southern ease and grace of manner, even his carriage—indicate his southern origin. Good to look at, genial to meet, fascinating to listen to, he never fails to please, and almost invariably gets a return date.

It has been said of his lectures, "They are a message of an earnest soul to men on the burning questions of the hour and ages. They entertain as well as teach. You will laugh but you will thrill with noblest resolve as you listen."
