New York, Aug. 30.—Harry Kemp, the Kansas poet, named as co-respondent in the suit for divorce which Upton Sinclair, author and socialist worker, has brought against his wife, Meta Fuller Sinclair, said today that he did not know whether he and Mrs. Sinclair ever would be married.

The poet, who has spent many years in traveling and verse making, said he was content with the present situation, which he said would be straightened out in a way that will bring happiness to all concerned.

"The present," said Mr. Kemp, "is an unusual situation and if the persons involved in it were of the usual sort they probably would be attacked and incriminated and reprimanded. But we are not of that sort."

The poet said he wondered what they thought of him in Kansas.

Schools Open Next Tuesday. When the schools open for the coming season at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, September 5, the students will find some new improvements, new teachers, new desks in many cases and a new superintendent.

The opening of next season's school year will be an interesting one to all the students, especially to those of the Lincoln and Grant schools, where contractors are hurrying to finish as much as possible the new additions which will make more room for the students last year crowded to the utmost capacity of these schools.

Supt. M. E. Crosier, who has been rushed with much official as well as personal work, reports all in readiness for the students on the morning of September 5. The books have been overhauled and rechecked and are ready for clear eyes of the fresh students. Sanitary drinking fountains are being installed in all school buildings and when school opens the students will be initiated to the use of sanitary paper towels which Mr. Crosier has introduced here.

Mr. Crosier estimates that there will be 1,350 students in school this year. This includes the 200 in the high school building. The Grant school will be used as soon as school opens. Mr. Crosier has conferred with the contractor, who assures him that the work is being rushed and that all but two rooms will be ready for use. The new Lincoln building will not be completed but the old building will be used until October 1, when Mr. Crosier declares the new building will be finished. This will mean that there will be but one Lincoln building and the term "east" and "west" Lincoln buildings will be abolished.

The thirty-four teachers who are to teach school under Supt. Crosier's direction this year have been notified to be in Norfolk tomorrow evening to attend the preliminary instruction to teachers, which will be held in the high school building by Mr. Crosier. The general teachers' meeting will be held at 2:30 Saturday afternoon.

The feature of the preliminaries before the opening of school will be the two days' examination of pupils Thursday and Friday. The examinations will be held in the high school building and commence at 9 o'clock each morning. All pupils wishing to advance to any grades or those entering from other schools will be those who will take these examinations.

To Play Omaha at Football. Supt. Crosier is as enthusiastic over athletics as was ex-Supt. Hunter. "Our football team has held meetings already," he says, "and we are well worked up over the coming game with Omaha scheduled for October 7. The boys look good to me and we will have a good team this year."

Some information recently received by Supt. Crosier which will make the teachers feel better is the fact that the teachers' old certificates, notwithstanding that they have expired, hold good until after the new certificates, issued by J. W. Crabtree, have been issued. A representative of the state department of public instruction, says Mr. Crosier, will visit Norfolk in September.

The staff of the Norfolk schools for next year follows: High School Building—J. L. Thomas, principal; Fannie R. Wife Shows Marks of Husband's Fist. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bove, 212 Creek alley, injected some excitement into the usual quietude of that neighborhood yesterday afternoon. The result was that Mrs. Bove visited the police station and reported that her husband had "licked" her, and to prove this she exhibited marks of a fist upon her face. Constable John Flynn was called to the scene of the fight, but Bove had gone. Wash lines full of clothes and a full oven of bread showed that Mrs. Bove was not idle and that the husband could not find fault with her. Mrs. Bove was advised to make complaint against her husband, but instead she visited the office of an attorney, where it was believed other legal action would be started against Bove.

Bove later visited the office of Constable Flynn and declared that he had not struck his wife. She hit him, he said, but he could not display the proof marks as his wife did.

Mr. and Mrs. Bove are both about 60 years old and have recently come to Norfolk from their farm near Enola. Mrs. Bove is an industrious woman. She keeps a half dozen boarders. She reports that the Bove home that the husband objected to Mrs. Bove going to another church than that attended by him.

Togo Sails Home. Seattle, Aug. 29.—Admiral Count Togo boarded the Japanese liner Tamari Maru today and started on the last leg of his tour around the world.

Eggs Disappear When He Comes. Ivan McKellip of Albion, state dairy inspector, made another visit to Norfolk yesterday and today he is finishing up his search of "bad eggs" which have been reported to him as being sold by some dealers. His search, however, has proved unsuccessful, partly because the cold weather, he says, has a tendency to keep the eggs in good order. Norfolk compared with other cities, he says, is good as far as his work of ferreting the unlawfulness of the creamery and dairy business is concerned. He recommends highly a number of Norfolk establishments for their sanitary conditions, but declares his work is a difficult one from the fact that people who personally complain against the purchase of bad eggs are as a rule unwilling to notify the dairy inspectors of whom they made purchases.

Arrest for Loaning Cream Can. One of Mr. McKellip's actions while in the city was to discover that a girl in the employ of John Klug, a newly established cream operator, had loaned to Frank Duol, a farmer, a cream can, thus violating the strictest of cream laws. Mr. Klug, although himself innocent of the violation, appeared before Judge Elseley and pleaded guilty to the charge and paid $5 and costs.

Work on Depot About to Start. Work on the new Union Pacific and the M. & O. joint passenger depot in Norfolk has begun. Surveyors arrived yesterday. Carloads of material are here and workmen begin today to move the old station from its present site to make room for the new structure. This will be good news to Norfolk, particularly in view of the fact that the Union Pacific system is at present involved in labor troubles and there was some fear expressed lest the possible strike might interfere with the construction work.

Attacks Railroad Plan. Lincoln, Aug. 29.—Chief Justice Knapp of the commerce court and Judge Sanborn, author of the decision in the Minnesota two-cent rate case, were attacked by George Rice, chairman of the South Dakota board of railway commissioners, at the meeting of the different states called by the Nebraska commission here this morning.

Knapp was censured by Rice for his speech upholding the proposal that roads should have a right to charge rates that would permit them earning money to make improvements. Rice continued: "If Knapp, Sanborn and others have their way, it will be an end to all rate making."

Representatives of six states were present when the conference opened, Kansas, South Dakota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Oklahoma and Nebraska being represented.

Grand Island, Aug. 29.—That he gave Edith Hunt, an employee of the Soldiers home, a box of poisoned candy with intent to kill, is the charge placed against Robert Morris, a member of the institution, and the latter was arrested last night and is being held to await the outcome of Miss Hunt's illness.

HUNTING IDEAL MAN. New York, Aug. 29.—Mrs. M. Fuller-Sinclair, wife of Upton Sinclair, the socialist author, today said that she would seek to earn her living on the stage, and hoped to appear in serious roles. She says she is still looking for her ideal man.

She has not yet made up her mind to defend her husband's action for divorce, filed yesterday. "I have permanently come out of my doll's house," she said, "but I trust I will not be lost in a wilderness that is somewhat unexplored and uncharted."

"Two years ago Mr. Sinclair and I decided that we were utterly unsuited for each other, and that I should be free to find someone else. But I stayed married to him and it was a great mistake, because it is difficult for a woman to pursue a new love when she is bound up so much in an old one."

"Mr. Sinclair is an essential monogamist, without having any of the qualities which an essential monogamist should possess. He is over-developed intellectually, and has no time to devote to a wife. The true proportions of human relationship fade into insignificance beside his work."

"Now a woman is instinctively a monogamist—when she finds the right man. Her hunger for her real mate is so strong that she is bound to search for him."

"It ought not to be made so difficult for a woman to assert her freedom. It would not be if men were less selfish. Men look on women as their property, and at least nine out of ten men insist that a woman be chaste before they marry her."

"Mr. Sinclair and I are utterly different. He has the strict ascetic Hebraic temperament; I have the artistic Greek temperament. But we are good friends."

"Harry Kemp and I are very congenial. But I don't know whether I shall marry him or not. I am still looking for an ideal and I am not sure that Harry is that one."

His team, which was hitched to a moving machine, became frightened during an electrical storm and ran away. The machine was out of repair and he would probably have been torn to pieces at the time. He was very ambitious for a man 74 years of age and insisted on working if he was able. The funeral was held at 11 o'clock this morning and the deceased was laid to rest beside the wife and daughter who have preceded him to the grave. Of his immediate family are five daughters are left to mourn his loss.

Calls Gary a Socialist. Chicago, Aug. 29.—Congressman A. O. Stanley, chairman of the special committee investigating the so-called steel trust, declared that Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the executive committee of the United States Steel corporation is a socialist. "The only difference between Gary and Congressman Victor Berger is that Gary does not know that he is a socialist. If we endeavor to follow out Mr. Gary's ideas of government supervision we are going to land in Mr. Berger's fantastic heaven of government ownership." Congressman Stanley reached here on a tour of all the steel company's plants. He will spend today at Gary, Ind., and will probably leave the next day for Duluth.

Valentine Wins Series at Burke. Burke, S. D., Aug. 29.—Special to The News: Valentine won the baseball series against Burke here by taking yesterday afternoon's game, 8 to 1. This was for the championship of northwest Nebraska and southern South Dakota.

Elleston for Burke made a home run, scoring the only tally chalked up for Burke. An old man pitched for Burke. Saturday's game was won by Burke in eleven innings with a score of 3 to 2. Kirkland was in the box for Valentine, and although the Burke sluggers secured eleven hits they were unable to bunt them when they needed them the most, and Valentine's snappy fielding saved them from disaster at many stages of the game. Benter did the pitching for the locals and let the visitors off with one little hit.

Nobody scored until the sixth, when with two down Brotsky singled, Truesdell followed with another and in the ensuing tangle Brotsky reached third. Then the mighty Garvey walloped it for three sacks and Brotsky cantered the last lap. In the ninth the home boys got back fever and let two Valentine athletes across, but tied things up by registering another in their half. Everything was quiet on both sides during the tenth, and also in the eleventh, so far as Valentine was concerned. In Burke's half with one out Benter angled, Emery doubled the ball, Kavanaugh sacrificed and beat the ball to first, keeping the visitors busy while Mr. Benter was making his acknowledgments to the grandstand.

The Sunday Game. Sunday's game was quite similar, neither team having lost any "pep." Eddie Miller in the box for the locals allowed the visitors but two hits, but in the fourth inning and also in the tenth a Valentine man crossed the plate during a temporary lull in the activities of the home defenders. The Burke boys secured six hits from DeSilva's delivery, and got their first run in the third, when Miller helped himself to first and scored on short drives by Emery and Kavanaugh. Burke lost an opportunity to at least tie the score in the tenth. Elleston hit for two sacks and Brotsky singled and stole second, Elleston going to third. Truesdell was bowled out at first. Garvey's fly fell in the well in left field and Elleston failed to beat it back to third, and the Valentine pennant went to the top of the mast.

J. M. Biggins of Bonesteel umpired the series and gave everybody the best of satisfaction. The largest crowds of the season have attended the games.

HACK READY FOR GOTCH. Says He Has Learned All the Holds Since Their Last Match. Chicago, Aug. 29.—George Hackenschmidt, challenger for the world's wrestling championship, began the last week of his training for his match with Frank Gotch, with the same light work that has characterized his preparation since reaching America. He declared he already was in the best possible condition physically and only required some training to keep him going. Hackenschmidt was up early and took a long walk on the shore of Lake Michigan. He played a few games of handball. During the middle of the day, he spent his time resting on the front porch of his quarters.

"The last time I met Gotch I was poorly posted on the numerous holds in the game," said Hackenschmidt. "Gotch is fastest in lock holds that I did know and did not hold him. I thought then that I would be able to wear my opponent down, but found I had overestimated my strength. I know now a man to beat him has to know all the holds of the game and to be able to put one of the holds on him in time."
