

NEBRASKA COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Highest Grade of Instruction is Furnished in Agricultural and Domestic Science Subjects—Unexcelled in Facilities.

By E. A. Burnett, Dean of the College of Agriculture.

The Nebraska Agricultural college opened for registration on Tuesday, Sept. 19. This should be an event of unusual interest to progressive farmers whose sons and daughters have graduated from the neighboring high schools and wish to continue their studies in the University of Nebraska. The Agricultural college is a thoroughly scientific school. It gives a liberal education in the subjects which make up the ordinary college course, with thorough practical training in agricultural and domestic science subjects.

teaching in home economics are unexcelled and those who desire to become teachers in this line of work will find the opportunity awaiting them whenever they are qualified for the work. The great problem of education in these days is to fit young men and women to bear responsibility by giving them accurate and technical knowledge of the problems they must afterward meet. They need sufficient general training so that they will not look upon these problems from too narrow or biased a viewpoint. They need to learn that education means opportunity for service and ability to perform that service rather than the

Its laboratories and equipment are the most complete of any to be found in the state of Nebraska and are excelled by few or none in other states. The college employs twenty-eight teachers in the several lines of agriculture, all specialists in their several lines. The academic subjects in the agricultural course are taught in the college of arts and sciences, where the highest grade of instruction is furnished.

In these days a good education is necessary to success in business. Those schools giving the best facilities for study are likely to be most beneficial to the student. The opportunities for the study of agriculture are unexcelled at the state university. The science of soil fertility is a fas-

Timing study and this knowledge is necessary to the building of a permanent agriculture. So also is a knowledge of the science of feeding and breeding animals under the latest scientific methods. Not only does this knowledge bring results when applied to farm practice, but it brings pleasure through a knowledge of the reasons why one method of practice is superior to others.

The University of Nebraska is anxious that every young man and woman in the state shall avail themselves of the opportunity which it offers for

TIME OF SEEDING WINTER WHEAT

(North Platte Experiment Station.)
As the time of seeding winter wheat approaches, the results of seeding at different dates for several years may be of interest. Each year wheat has been sown beginning early in September and continued at different dates into early October. The time of seeding is quite important, but the yields of wheat sown at the same date in different years do not always agree. For the majority of years the wheat sown between Sept. 15 and 20 has given the highest yield, but in at least two years, namely 1909 and 1910, the later sowings yielded best. In 1909 wheat sown the first of October out-yielded the earlier sowings and produced thirty-five bushels per acre. Again in 1910 the wheat sown on Sept. 20 produced the largest yield of 17.4 bushels per acre, where the wheat sown Sept. 10 yielded from 9.4

bushels to 16.3 bushels. In general, it can be said that where the ground is too dry to sprout the wheat, sowing should be delayed until late in September or perhaps to Oct. 1, in the hope of securing rain before sowing. It is doubtful if seeding should be delayed later than this, if it is to be done at all, since wheat which makes a good fall growth always goes into the winter in better condition than where growth is small and the roots of the wheat are unprotected by the top.

If land is plowed early and well worked down, it will seldom be necessary to wait beyond Sept. 20 for seeding. Where the surface is dry for the top four inches, a roller may be run over the land to compact it, and this followed by the press drill. This will generally bring moisture up from below sufficient to start the wheat if there is moisture in the lower soil. At the North Platte station for 1911 the wheat sown Sept. 10 yielded from 9.4 bushels to 16.3 bushels, that sown Sept. 20 yielded 17.4 bushels (one plot only), and that sown Oct. 3 yielded 13.1 bushels.

EXTRADITION LAW SET NAUGHT.

Michigan Marshal Captured Prisoner in Canada—Forced to America.
Detroit, Oct. 19.—Extradition laws were set at naught yesterday by the marshal of Algonac, a village on the St. Claire river, thirty-five miles from Detroit, when he forced a prisoner captured in Canada into a boat and brought him to American soil.

After shooting and seriously wounding a patrolman in Detroit Sunday night, Joseph Moulton, a negro, made his escape and finally reached Port Lambton, Ont., a hamlet opposite Algonac. There he was recognized by the local authorities, who were reluctant to attempt to arrest him because of reputation the negro had established as a "gun man."

Marshal Gray was hurriedly summoned from Algonac. He found Moulton in a grocery, arrested him and then hustled his prisoner into a boat and took him to the American side.

The negro was brought to Detroit later and lodged in jail.

SOUTH DAKOTA RULING.
Supreme Court Ruling Puts Further Restriction on Saloon Men.

Bonesteel Pilot: In an affirmative decision of the local courts of Deadwood in the case of the state against Donovan, a precedent has been established regarding the saloon closing law of this state. Donovan was arrested charged with entering his place after hours. He contended in court that owing to cold weather he went in to build a fire to prevent his water pipes from freezing, but the local courts held this excuse invalid and the supreme court upheld the ruling of the local court.

WILL TEST ENVELOPE OPENER.
New Device Will Be Used to Open Registration Envelopes.

Rosebud Daily News: For the first time in the history of the government land drawings a patent envelope opener is to be used in the drawing which will be held at Gregory next Tuesday. The little device is guaranteed to accurately handle about 2,000 envelopes an hour and the price is only $5.00. On this basis the machine will pay for itself within the first two or three hours.

A concern in Washington is manufacturing the envelope opener and requested Judge Witten to give it a trial in opening the large mass of registration envelopes. As they offered to take it back if not satisfactory the investment looked like a good one, so the shipment was authorized.

The device works in the manner of a small paper cutter and can be set to trim as little as one sixty-fourth part of an inch from the edge of an envelope.

a conscientious scruple or two against murder, grand larceny and gross violations of the election laws. When I tried to have accomplished last winter the same thing that the World-Herald is now seeking to have done, I was accused of improper and dishonest motives and checked and hindered at every step in my attempt to have some laws enacted to prevent the situation that now admittedly exists. I welcome whatever moral support the World-Herald may be able to summon in this matter, although my motive for taking this step is simply in the name of common decency and good government and for an honest administration of election and registration laws, while it is obvious or axiomatic that the sole motive, purpose and attempt of every editorial word written by the World-Herald is to foster and develop and promote the success of some democratic plan at the coming election.

"Now, Mr. English, it is up to you to go before the proper court, in the proper way, with the evidence which you say is in your office. I don't care where the chips fall in this matter; it is absolutely a matter of cold indifference to me whether your proceedings will foil the attempt of republican plans or annoy any other kind of politicians. I say to you that your attitude in this matter is not infeasible, but highly censurable. You have no right to use your office to aid and abet dirty democratic politicians or any other brand of politics. It will be my duty, in case of your refusal or neglect to place these facts which you have in your office before a grand jury or other court, to place you on trial on ouster proceedings for failure to perform your duty as county attorney.

"The kind of an answer that I am entitled to receive from this letter is to say whether you have instituted criminal proceedings. Yours truly, (Signed) Chester H. Aldrich."

"P. S.—This is an open letter in reply to the matters made public by one of your prosecutors, and for the further fact that you have taken the acknowledgment of an affidavit setting forth the facts of these frauds and crimes."

CANTON IS ALARMED.
Making Preparation to Prevent Outbreak There.

Canton, China, Oct. 19.—The provincial authorities here are alarmed at the revolutionary outbreaks in Wu Chang and Hankow and are making elaborate preparations to prevent any similar movement here. As an emergency measure the importation of large quantities of arms and ammunition has been received. Pensions to survivors amounting to $315 monthly, also were issued and for children left $5 a month was awarded each to the amount of $50 monthly. THE McNAMARA TRIAL.
Judge Bordwell Will Rule on Two Peremptory Challenges.

Los Angeles, Oct. 19.—The McNamara murder trial was resumed today with the beginning of a new court calendar week, with prospects that in the course of the session Judge Walter Bordwell will rule on two peremptory challenges made yesterday by the defense on the ground that a talsman who believes the Los Angeles Times building was blown up by dynamite cannot be a fair juror.

The position is taken because the defense contend that the explosion in the Times building was caused by gas and that counsel defending James B. McNamara on trial for the murder of Charles G. Haggerty, who was killed in the disaster, should not be compelled to show otherwise in order to get a fair trial. The course of challenges, under California procedure, promises to work to a head before a jury is impaneled, regardless of the way the court may rule.

Scheme of Robbery Nipped.
Omaha, Neb., Oct. 18.—The raiding of a suite of rooms in the Neville block, this city, last night is believed by the police to have nipped in the bud a very extensive scheme for robbing the sportively-inclined public. Six men were arrested.

The rooms were equipped with telephone and telegraph instruments ready for use but whose wires they did not extend beyond the suite. Great bundles of "phony" bank bills were found and other evidence of the character of the business to be launched. The rooms had just been fitted up and it is not believed any business had been as yet done. The men arrested bore the names of H. W. Wilson, Omaha; J. E. Keogh, Billings, Mont.; J. A. Dale, Louisville, Ky.; Robert Ellis, Chicago; William Burman, Cincinnati and Frank L. Hudson, New York. All are middle aged and the police believe they are no novices in their supposed calling. They were well supplied with money. Efforts are being made to establish their identity.

Large Crowds Hears Hart.
Evangelist Hart arrived in Norfolk Tuesday evening and took active charge of the four weeks' evangelistic revival meetings in the big tabernacle on Ninth street and Norfolk avenue. The 2,000 seating capacity hall was fairly well crowded when the evangelist arrived and he lost no time in putting enthusiasm of the work to the audience. Evangelist Hart, who takes the singing part during the meetings, was also present and the two men are now in the midst of their hardest work.

Evangelist Hart gave a short address at Tuesday night's meeting, but during the afternoon meeting Wednesday he launched the real evangelistic work which will continue throughout this month. Meetings are held both afternoon and evening. The choir is well organized now and the attendance in this department of the work Tuesday night was very good. Many of the Norfolk singers chosen from the five churches who are supporting these meetings are proving very good and the leaders from choirs of these five churches are among those included in the evangelistic choir.

During Tuesday night's meeting a call was issued for a meeting of the various committees and was called to order by Rev. J. W. Kirkpatrick, chairman of the executive committee. Each committee made separate reports of their progress. The reports of the primary progress of the meetings and the financing were among the reports.

Valuable Dog Poisoned.
A cowardly act was revealed Tuesday afternoon when it was discovered that a valuable English setter dog belonging to Harry H. Hartford died as the result of being poisoned through the "live" route by some unknown party. The dog became violently sick a few days ago and Tuesday afternoon it died. An examination was made and it was found that the dog had been poisoned by being fed lye. The dog was a valuable one and large amounts of money have been offered its owner for it.

$5,000 Suit Hits The News.
Suit for libel has been brought against The News in the district court of Madison county, by Tony Newow, a baseball player, who alleges in his petition that The News published an article in 1910 which damaged his feelings to the extent of about $5,000, which he would like to have the use of during the winter, when there is not much doing in baseball.

Two Dailies Don't Pay Here.
The Daily Morning Press is no more. It died with its last issue last Sunday morning, after running for a little more than two weeks.

"The democrats didn't want a daily as bad as they thought they did," is the explanation of its editor, W. H. Weekes, who further declares:

"This proposition of working from seventeen to nineteen hours a day is too strenuous and it don't pay." The Morning Press was at first scheduled to start running Aug. 20, last, but it was weeks later before the new daily was put in circulation. It was given away for a week and then subscribed for, by a few, for a little more than a week and last Sunday morning it died.

It has been hinted from reliable source during the democratic daily's existence its life depended upon the financial support of leading democratic candidates. Mr. Weekes now declares he will publish a semi-weekly paper.

Preparing for Final Rush.
Gregory, S. D., Oct. 18.—Special to The News: Large delegations of landseekers arrived this morning from Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, to register for the government lands now being offered in the Pine Ridge and Rosebud agencies, and the indications are this will be the banner day of the registration. A cold rain was falling this morning and the conditions were very disagreeable, yet the struggling crowd seemed to be good-natured and all are intent upon the land lottery when the prizes are distributed.

Official figures of yesterday's registration are as follows: Dallas, 604; Gregory, 1,252; Chamberlain, 612; Rapid City, 325.

Dallas, S. D., Oct. 18.—Special to The News: At the close of the first day of the final week of the great Rosebud and Pine Ridge reservation land opening, the figures given out by the secretary of the notarial association showed that it had been the best day in point of attendance since the opening began and if the day's total is any criterion, the week will be a bonanza. The bunch registering came for the greater part from the laboring classes—men who had steady jobs and could ill afford to be away for any length of time. They had taken advantage of the Sunday layoff to come up and register so that they would not lose any more time than was necessary.

Hundreds arrived on the Sunday night train and they lined up in front of the registration building for over a block and braved the rain and cold in order that they might register as soon as the registration began at midnight, and catch the early trains for home. One little fellow from Omaha kept his place in the line for over an hour without even an overcoat to protect him from the rain, and when he got into the building his teeth were chattering so from the cold and chill that he had to be warmed up before he could make the notary understand his name and other necessary information.

In order to be prepared for the extra large crowds that are expected to arrive on the homeseekers' excursions this week hundreds of extra cots have been secured and they will be held in readiness to be used in case that the present accommodations of the town prove inadequate. If necessary, the churches and schoolhouse will be thrown open and every effort made to insure the comfort of all the landseekers that come here. So far during the present registration Dallas has made an enviable reputation for herself as a hostess and nothing will be left undone to live up to the mark already set.

BUSY IN POLICE COURT.
Two Women and Man Up for Vagrancy—Ordered to Leave City.

Police Judge Elseley had a busy session in his court today. Jerry Connors and his wife, Mrs. R. M. Connors, who the police say are not lawfully married, were brought up with a charge of vagrancy against them. They paid a fine of $6.50 and knowing that this amount was the extent of the financial situation, Judge Elseley returned to them 50 cents with which to buy meals. Connors and his wife declared that they have been engaged in selling apples which they purchased from farmers, but that they had sold out.

Nelle Gray, 20 years old, was also up for vagrancy and she paid the only dollar she possessed toward her end of the fine. She also received 25 cents' worth of mercy from the court for food. Both women were found later on the south side by Patrolman Sasse. All were ordered to leave the city immediately.

James McNeil, of St. Edwards, and a registration passenger from Grand Island, were before the judge during the afternoon. Both were charged with being drunk.

Qualifications of Judge Welch.
Pierce Call: The voters of the Ninth judicial district, including Pierce, Wayne, Antelope, Knox and Madison counties, will be called upon to elect a district judge for the district at the fall election. The present incumbent, Hon. Anson A. Welch, of Wayne, is a candidate for re-election, and if the people of this district have the proper appreciation for a man who has proved a worthy official, he will be re-elected this fall by the largest majority ever given a candidate for this office in the district. If the enactment of just and equitable laws by the legislature is important, then the fair interpretation and enforcement of these laws by the courts is doubly so, since a law on the statute books becomes a controlling force in the affairs of men only when it is applied to their clashing interests by judge and jury. The being true, the selection of men to preside over the various courts as judges becomes a matter of the greatest importance. While the public good requires that every office be filled by men who are honest and able, it is of special importance that the people look well into the qualifications of the men who aspire to judgeships. Because of the peculiar relation that a judge of the court bears to the most valued interests of the people and because of the great power exercised by him, the tendency of the times is to demand of him not only honesty as a man and ability as a lawyer, but he must possess that rare quality of fairness and impartiality in the discharge of his official duties which guarantees to every litigant that his rights will be protected without respect to who he is or what his political or religious affiliations may be. It is conceded even by his opponents that Judge Welch possesses just this quality. There can be no question as to his great ability as a lawyer. His personal character is above reproach; he has the respect and confidence of every lawyer in his district and his kind and courteous treatment of witnesses and jurors who have had occasion to come before his court, has endeared him to hundreds who will gladly do all they can to aid his election. Judge Welch is not a politician in the sense of being an aggressive office seeker and he is one of those who believe that the people in electing a man to a place of responsibility should act on their deliberate judgment, and the Call feels that if this is done there will be no question about the re-election of Hon. A. A. Welch.

FEARS SECOND FLOOD.
Water Is Pouring Over Dam, Washing More Buildings Into River.

Black River Falls, Wis., Oct. 18.—Fearing further destruction from a flood, similar to the one which partially leveled the city several weeks ago, Black River Falls last night was a wakeful town. Its residents fearing another inundation due to torrential rains. Early today the clouds had cleared away, but Black River was still rising.

Citizens of Black River Falls worked all night by the light of lanterns, to prevent another disaster. The Black river is pouring over the crest of the Black River Falls Light and Power company's dam and slowly eating its way into what is left of the former business district.

Buildings that had withstood the previous flood, were washed away last night and floated down in the raging torrent. The Merchants hotel, which had resumed business following the recent flood, is in imminent danger as well as the old postoffice building, the home of the Jackson County bank. Nothing, it is said, will save them but a receding of the river.

Residents of the lowlands have been compelled to leave their homes, and business men of Black River Falls, who were in temporary headquarters, have again moved to higher ground.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 18.—The Mississippi is one-tenth of a foot higher today than yesterday. Yesterday's stage is 3.5 and is the result of a heavy rain which started Sunday afternoon and continued until late last evening. So far the month of October has a rainfall record of 7.35 inches. Today the weather is clear.
