RAMSEY TO TRANSFER.

Former Neligh Pastor Will Move Away From Canton, Ill. Canton, Ill., March 25.—Special to The News: Negotiations are under way for an exchange of pastorates between the Rev. J. R. Ramsey of the Canton Methodist Episcopal church and the Rev. A. O. Luce of St. Paul, Minn., are expected to culminate satisfactorily within a few days. A committee of seven members of the official board of the church has been in correspondence with the Minnesota preacher for some time, and a few days ago he visited Canton to look over the field.

The understanding is that the visiting minister was well pleased with the city and the prospective charge here, and that the negotiations will proceed. Mr. Luce is said to have been highly recommended to the committee by a man and a minister. He has been located in St. Paul about 12 years and the reports from that city regarding his work there, as received by the committee, are said to be entirely satisfactory. The expectation is that the Rev. J. R. Ramsey will be transferred to the St. Paul church, when the Rev. A. O. Luce comes to Canton, if the negotiations now under way reach a satisfactory conclusion.

Mr. Ramsey left Canton a few days ago, and his friends, as far as seen, have no knowledge of his destination, though it is supposed he is absent on business connected with the proposed transfer. The entire proceedings in this matter are being carried on secretly, and little information other than that heretofore given has leaked out, but it is understood that a formal announcement of the change of pastors will be made shortly, if present plans carry.

"Aw, come on, let's have a drink," said one of his friends, "you're all right; let's," and Woodlund will continue strenuous work on the streets.

Fire Chief Green has reason to know that the recent snow storm was one of the worst in the history of this vicinity. Mr. and Mrs. Green left Norfolk late last Thursday evening to attend a birthday celebration at the Charles Green farm. A friend had informed the fire chief that sleighing was ideal south of town and the two horses attached to the light cutter in which the fire chief and his spouse were riding skinned easily along the top crust of the deep snow. When the Sam Kent farm was reached both horses went through the crust and were submerged up to their backs in a drift. Reaching the top of the fence, a few inches of which were sticking out of the snow, the fire chief was able to get out of the snow, turn the cutter and drive back home.
