An Irish Plea.

Editor of the "Wachter & Anseiger",

Dear Sir:—
People say to me, why do the Irish sympathize with the Kaiper; he is a Protestant and a Mason? The Irish should sympathize with Belgium and France — they are Catholic nations. In answer to this question I will say freland and the Irish do not under Lord Baltimore, who hailed from a little town called Baltimore in County Cork, Ireland. The Irish backed the great Washington fought his battles nobly by land and sea to make this a free country. To-day our sympathles are with the Kaiser because we know, from his past record, he is for right and the freedom of all from religious bigotry; these are the people we as Irishmen will back, whether they are Protestants or Catholics or Guardians of Liberty. As long as a broadminded, trathful, honest and free from religious higotry we care not what his own religion is, as long as he is right,

I give below a little history to to any fairminded reader that the Irish have taken the right stand in this war, as well as in past wars, Belgium, she has our sympathy, but she was made a fool of my England. Why don't England pay her now? But we know John Bull: he will let poor Belgium die or beg charity. Here we have an Luxemburg allowed the Kaiser to pass through her territory, What has he done for her? He has so far given her 1,500,00 francs. The Kaiser is always willing to do

On March 18, 1890, Bismarck fell, The last cause of his fall has not on account of his blood and fron laws against Catholic subjects of the Emperor, who did not believe in the Cromwellian persecution of his sub-The Kaiser's motto was "Love and Truth". When men of other nations. Ilke France, were forgetting God and their Church, and putting their salvation in their own power devices the Kaiser always put God first and served him with fear and vuilt his great merchant marine, and did what no other nation did, namely, put Catholic Sisters from St Raphael's Verein on German passenger boats to protect young emigrant girls from the human vultures.

Above is history, From England's leading newspaper or prevaricator, "The Times", and its hirelings, have circulated all kinds of stories throughout the world about the Kaiser and his army destroyed and looted Catholic churches in France, etc. We all in America remember how the French Government has persecuted the Catholics, confiscated their property, America know how Servia treated the Catholics. This tyrannical Government would not permit the erec-To-day, according to "Echo de Paris", a French newspaper dated November 2, say "out of evil cometh good".
