Henry W. Black, who was called to St. Paul, Minn., by the death of his mother, returned here Tuesday night.

"BE KIND TO ANIMALS WEEK"

Is Being Observed Throughout the Country.

The following item is therefore timely:

How One Woman Helped.

Editor Our Dumb Animals:

A few days ago, while a boy was leading several horses along a slippery street, one of them, becoming frightened, jerked loose from his rope halter, and ran onto the pavement. He fell on the icy sidewalk, rose, and fell again, but struggled to his feet though his hip was injured. The young driver, leaving the other horses alone, went to help him back, but the nervous animal refused to walk, fearing another fall. A Colored woman, from her doorway, called to the boy to wait a minute. Soon she brought a box of ashes which she spread around the horse's feet. Getting another box, and telling the young man to lead the horse, she walked ahead, sprinkling the ashes in front of him. Finding firm footholds, the horse walked back to the waiting group.

One who witnessed this incident praised the woman for her kind and sensible act. She replied that her heart ached for the poor horses, ill-treated by ignorant and often cruel drivers, and that she did all that she knew how to relieve their suffering or to prevent it. When questioned she answered that she would be glad to give humane literature where it was badly needed, and expressed a wish to join the S. P. C. A. When taught how, this kind woman will form Bands of Mercy among those whom it is difficult for others to reach.

The humane cause needs many such ardent, sensible workers.

IN MEMORY OF MARIE LAWRIE

For many years I've had a friend,
A friend so dear to me,
That when I think of her today
It makes me sad as sad can be.

For years she was my schoolmate,
As up life's path we trod,
For years she was my playmate,
And now, she's 'neath the sod.

She was a girl beloved by all,
As happy as a lark was she,
And every home she entered,
She was welcome as could be.

Every day to her was pleasant,
And she always wore a smile,
Life to her and those about her,
Always seemed to be worth while.

Now, having left us for a while,
Though linger long we may,
We're bound to meet her once again
Upon the Judgment Day.

Rest thou peacefully friend Marie,
Until we meet above,
And sing again as oft before,
The triumph song of love.
