

CLARENCE CAMERON WHITE

Will Be Welcomed by a Large Audience at Grove M. E. Church Monday Night.

Clarence Cameron White and his Concert appearance in our city means "The musical event of the season." Mr White is so well known that only a short sketch is needed here

His early training was under the best teachers in America; when in Europe, he studied with the great Russian violinist, M. Zacharewitsch. On his return to America he was received as an artist of the first rank in the leading cities of the United States. He unites with an admirable technique, a beautiful tone, remarkable for its breadth, fire and delicacy of expression. His personality is altogether pleasing. His playing is devoid of mannerisms and reveals keen intelligence and a fine conception of the composer's thought.

During the comparatively short time that has elapsed since his return to America from European study, Mr. White has attained, without any sensational advertising, and whilst still a young man, a notable place amongst the artists and teachers of highest rank. He has not attained to eminence only through the possession of the natural talents that unquestionably are his, but because he has as well an unbounded capacity for hard work, and the intelligence necessary to guide that work in the right direction.

Mr. White's concert appearances in this country have extended from the eastern coast as far west as the Rocky Mountains, and everywhere he has met with the greatest success.

Some Press Comments.

Mr. Clarence Cameron White, the popular violinist, always a favorite in Washington, was greeted by an audience last Saturday at 6:30 p. m. that filled nearly every seat in the spacious Howard Theatre. The elite of the capital turned out and gave the music master a royal reception.—Washington Eagle.

The people of St. Paul were furnished a rare musical treat last Wednesday evening on the occasion of the violin recital given by Mr. Clarence Cameron White of Boston.

The playing of Mr. White was absolutely wonderful and surpassed anything heard here.—St. Paul Appeal.

In the Ries "Perpetual Motion" Mr. White showed himself a master of the bow.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

One of the brightest stars that shine in the musical firmament is Clarence Cameron White. His performance last night at the concert was such that lovers of music who were present will never forget.—Peoria Star.

The coming of Mr. Clarence Cameron White, the celebrated violinist, had been heralded for several weeks; as a result, expectation on the part of the music loving element of our city was keyed to the highest pitch.

After he had played the first few bars the audience felt that he was a master; and his reception readily became a grand ovation.—Mobile Press.

A large audience is assured for Monday night by the advance sale of tickets. The management desires to state that no persons will be seated during the rendition of any number on the program.

DR. VANDERVALL SUES SYRACUSE HOSPITAL

Syracuse, N. Y.—Race prejudice is the accusation lodged by Dr. Isabelle Vandervall of Orange, N. J., against the Women's and Children's Hospital because she was refused admission when she came here last May as an interne. Dr. Vandervall, an honor graduate of the New York Medical College, where she ranked 97.8 per cent., demands $5,000 damages in a Supreme Court suit.

On the night Dr. Vandervall presented herself at the hospital she was not only denied admittance, but was forced to stand outdoors in a rain storm, she charges, because of her color.

Why not buy your coal from the concern who makes a COAL TRUST IN OMAHA IMPOSSIBLE?

The price of coal in general is considerably lower, WHY? Because we cut the prices and other firms, to compete with us, had to meet our prices.

Why not then patronize the firm whose existence guarantees lower coal prices?

We have no extra expense such as is incurred in having uptown offices and we can give you the benefit of our saving.

Try us and be satisfied. Give us a chance to demonstrate how you can obtain better coal for less money.
