

CAMP SHERMAN OPENS NURSE TRAINING SCHOOL

Camp Sherman, Ohio, Sept. 27.—War camp community service at Camp Sherman is taking a prominent part in the campaign inaugurated here for the recruiting of women to serve as nurses among the Negro soldiers following their completion of a course of instruction at a training school for Colored nurses to be established at Camp Sherman.

Work will be started in the very near future on the training school for Colored nurses at this camp. The war department recently appropriated $9,000 for the erection of this training school, in which thirty-five Colored women will be admitted for instruction. The school will consist of instruction rooms, mess rooms and sleeping quarters and will have all modern facilities of such schools.

The work of getting recruits for the school has been taken up by the war camp community service in co-operation with the military authorities here and it is expected that the necessary quota of Colored student nurses will be speedily filled. Any Colored girl with two years' high school education who is of good moral and physical standing, will be accepted upon her meeting the requirements of the military regulations.

FORO COLLEGE HEADS GIVE TUSKEGEE $1,200

Tuskegee, Ala., Oct. 2.—Dr. Robert R. Moton, principal of Tuskegee institute, announced the receipt of $1,200 from Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Malone, executive heads of the Poro College of Hair Culture, St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Malone have for a number of years manifested great interest in the work of Tuskegee and have on a number of occasions contributed to the work.

The Poro college is one of the most successful business enterprises owned and operated by our people. It is said that they employ nearly 100 young men and women at the St. Louis office and factory and do an average annual business of $250,000.

HOWARD UNIVERSITY RADIO SCHOOL OPEN

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—The radio camp located at Howard university has trained over 700 draftees since its organization. Out of this group, which consisted of graduates of elementary, secondary and collegiate institutions, all passed the course successfully with only a few exceptions. The students came from the state of Maryland, the District of Columbia and a detachment of 100 students from the Fish university camp. From this camp there are over 300 serving overseas as radio operators.

PHILIP'S DEPARTMENT STORE GROWING FAST

Philip's Department Store, on the South Side, is having a deservedly rapid growth. It is fast outgrowing its present quarters. This growth is due to the fact that everybody who visits this store receives courteous treatment and great bargains. It is receiving a large and appreciated patronage from our people. Those who go once, go again.

OUR LOSS; YOUR GAIN

About eight dozen beautiful California flower beads, all colors, made to sell at $1.00, arrived too late for the carnival. On sale Saturday, October 19, at 1821 North 24th street, at 50 cents each, while they last. Every sale helps our boys in the trenches. Mail orders filled at same price. One day only. No exchanges and no refunds—every sale final.

Argentina's Famous Seaside Resort

The Beach at Mar del Plata.

WHEN the crisp autumnal air turns the northern pleasure-seeker from waning gayeties, our contemporaries in Argentina and Uruguay are preparing to don their garbs of summer and seek rest and recreation along the sandy beaches of the far Southland. Nature reverses the season of vacations, but not the pleasures themselves, for when we glance at our respective sports and pastimes there are found many traits in common. Peoples of both North and South America enjoy and derive great benefit from days of summer spent in the great outdoors, and doubtless nothing appeals more strongly to the masses than old ocean.

The acknowledged queen of Argentina's seaside resorts is Mar del Plata, directly on the Atlantic ocean, about 250 miles southeast of Buenos Aires, says a writer in the Bulletin of Pan-American Union. The place is a little city in itself, being credited with 25,000 people. With the advent of spring, however, Mar del Plata begins to assume greater activity, and the height of gaiety is reached about the time the people of the United States are enduring the cold and snows of midwinter. Additional thousands are then added to the southern resort's population, business cares and anxieties are seemingly forgotten, and Argentinians find pleasures and diversions at their greatest watering place.

To accommodate the crowds of patrons flocking seaward, the railway leading to Mar del Plata operates numerous trains in addition to the usual daily services. Indeed, some of the best and most sumptuously equipped trains to be found in all Argentina are on the route between the capital city and this famous resort. Those who know the road and do not care to view the country along the route, such as the busy business man, usually avail themselves of the specially provided values soared overnight, so to speak, to fancy figures. Magnificent private residences as well as public buildings, hotels and other edifices were created, and wealthy aristocrats made sure that everything modern and luxurious was installed within their homes, even if occupied very few months in the year. Ideas of elegance and beauty in seaside construction were adopted from some of Europe's famous resorts and combined with those suggested by home talent, so today Mar del Plata is fair to look upon.

A lengthy and beautiful structure known as the Rambla, extends along the most popular section of the bathing beach. The sands and breakers in front of the Rambla furnish the warty playground for thousands of people. Unlike the coarse largely followed by the coastal resorts of the United States, the hotels and clubs at Mar del Plata, as a rule, are located back in the city. This fact causes the people to congregate in larger numbers on the spacious areas of the Rambla, especially during the bathing and promenade hours. An architectural feature of this beautiful structure is the large number of columns standing in pairs along the front, giving it especially from the beach, a most attractive and inviting appearance.

Fine Bathing Beach.

In front of the Rambla the sea washes the sandy sloping shore, and it is there that visitors by hundreds of thousands enjoy the bathing during morning or afternoon hours. For those who are just learning the art of swimming or are afraid of the sea, a fine extensive pool of quiet water is provided on shore. This attraction is surrounded by a fence and within the enclosure are seats, usually well patronized by those who enjoy the antics of the novice. Another feature of this beach is the number of tents and sunshades which stretch along the night service, retiring at Buenos Aires and arising in Mar del Plata. The inquiring stranger, however, generally prefers the daylight trip through the prosperous cattle region traversed by the road, which offers interesting glimpses of the endless pampa famous in story and song. Mar del Plata, like most exclusive resorts, is truly a paradise for the people of wealth; but to judge from the vast crowds that pass between the capital and the resort by the sea, one is inclined to think that wealth is most generously distributed.

Picturesque and Luxurious. Glancing back into history, we find that about four decades ago such a place as Mar del Plata did not exist; but a schoolhouse, a mill and a chapel formed the nucleus for a larger settlement. About this time Don Paricio Ramos secured a concession to build and improve the town, and the services of Charles de Chapeaurouge, engineer, were sought and obtained to draw plans for a future city. Don Pierre Luro, so the story is told, who owned much of the land thereabout, also aided in the enterprise. Time passed and the place grew; but let us pass over the early stages of progress and view some of the resort's activities today.

Our train, if we choose the daylight ride, has made the trip from Buenos Aires in seven hours, so that our arrival at Mar del Plata is near the hours of evening. We have time to secure comfortable rooms at one of the new hotels—that is, if the wise precaution has been taken of ordering reservations in advance of arrival. The topography of the country in the vicinity of the resort presents both rugged, precipitous shores and smooth sandy beaches; and the landscape architects have linked these natural features into one harmonious and delightful whole. During the active construction period, or within the last decade, speculation ran wild and land sands, somewhat resembling in appearance an encamped detachment of an army.

Bathing, of course, is only one of the attractions at Mar del Plata. There are amusements for men, women and children. For adults the famous social club, housed in its own fine building, has many attractions. Its doors are open to members and their families only, and its halls are regarded as among the resort's most popular social centers. This club is open from December to April. Many beautiful walks and drives along the seashore cliffs and inland from the water are provided for those inclined to wander far from the "maddening crowd's ignoble strife;" retreats for those who would look out over the vast expanse of the ocean and meditate; quiet spots for the dreamer or for the pleasure-worn society victim.

On the other hand, there is an array of sights at Mar del Plata that cannot fail to please those seeking gay social life and amusement. Bands of music outdoors and orchestras within enliven the days and evenings; social teas, fencing classes, gymnasium lessons, shooting matches, card games and, indeed, a hundred and one other features of amusement drive one's cares to the winds and enjoyment reigns supreme. The golf club and the jockey club are two other popular places of amusement frequented by the higher classes of society.

The absence of the familiar automobile, so plentiful in other Argentine cities, attracted the writer's attention. Possibly today the carriages and fine steeds are being relegated to the past; but that idea does not appear to be in keeping with the country, for the average Argentine gentleman prides himself on his fine horses, and many, no doubt, are not content to spend their summer days without their equine favorites.
