LOVES LIFE ON THE RANCH

John H. Jackson, who his many friends will recall as a popular barber employed several years ago at the well-known shop of the late Joseph D. Harden, has been in Omaha visiting friends this week. He looks as young as a man in the late twenties, but when it is recalled that he has a son fighting for Uncle Sam, one readily understands that his looks camouflage his age. He has been for a number of years on the Z. L. Bar ranch at Sussex, Wyoming, which he says is the only life. He is in love with ranch life. He says he wants to keep in touch with Omaha by reading The Monitor, which he says is a great paper, for which he promptly paid his subscription. He said, "I'm not much of a writer, but I think I may be able to see an interesting story occasionally from the ranch, which your readers will enjoy."

He was told to send on stories regularly.

MULLEN FERNINST WIMMIN VOTIN', BEJABERS! ALSO "NAGURS," BEDAD!

Giving Negro Vote Mistake, He Says —"Woman Suffrage Would Be Another"—Stands With Hitchcock.

Arthur Mullen, Nebraska's democratic boss, still believes "woman's place is in the home," and he doesn't care who knows it.

Just prior to the recent vote on the suffrage amendment at Washington, Mrs. James Richardson and Mrs. H. C. Sumney were asked by the National Suffrage association to ask Mr. Mullen's support of the amendment, hearing that he had some influence with Senator Hitchcock.

"The government made a mistake in giving the vote to Negroes, and I don't want to make another mistake by giving it to women," complacently replied Mr. Mullen.

He expressed himself as not believing the federal government should have any right to decide about color or sex of voters.

Senator Hitchcock voted against the amendment.

The above item—not the first heading—is from the Daily News of October 20. The Monitor interviewed Mr. Mullen and gave him an opportunity to deny the statement accorded to him. He couldn't deny that these are his views. Of course he has a right to his opinion.—Editor The Monitor.

LA GRANGE, TEX.
H. L. Vincent, Agent

We cannot understand how it is that we never see some of our most capable citizens so far as learning is concerned identify themselves with any move that will help to elevate our people. If it is not a gain to them in some way they stay at home. True education does not behave itself in any such way. If we are to be a blessing to our people and the world, we must pray for and possess more of that spirit which characterized the "Son of Man," who went about doing good.

Rev. S. A. Tillman represented the La Grange district association at the session of the B. M. and E. convention held at Corsicana last week. He reports the session as going over the top.

A few teachers entered the special state examination for teachers last Friday and Saturday.

The following persons died in and near the city last week: Edward Williams, Alberta Banks, Mrs. Selenia Riley and Mrs. George Chandler's daughter.

It is impossible to give names of those sick from influenza and pneumonia. Mrs. Elmira Breeding, John L. Phearse, Anna Moten, Julia King, Hattie Hatten are among the sick.

Messrs Gene Garrett and wife, Houston; Nathan Garrett, San Antonio, and Jack Riley and Miss Samantha Allen, Waco; Lela Harris, Birdie Walker and Lauretta Phearse, were children present at the funeral of Mrs. Selenia Riley, their mother, who was buried Sunday evening. Rev. S. A. Tillman, pastor of Ebenezer Baptist church, of which she was a faithful member, officiated.

Miss I. V. Sutton is back home from a trip of some weeks to Waco.

Rev. Wm. White is up again from having the "flu."

MRS. WILLIAM MONROE TROTTER IS CALLED

Wife of Editor of Boston Guardian, Prominent in Literary and Philanthropic Work, Is Dead.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 24.—The funeral of Mrs. Geraldine Louise Pindell, wife of William Monroe Trotter, editor of the Guardian, was held October 12 at 2 o'clock from her home. The Rev. Walter D. McClane, rector of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal church of Cambridge, conducted the service with the Episcopal ritual. "Crossing the Bar" and "Fear Ye Not, O Israel," from "Elijah," were sung by Harry Delmore, tenor. The gray casket was banked with a profusion of beautiful floral tributes, one from the Boston Literary association, another from the men of the Parker House.

There was a large attendance of friends. Interment was at Fairview cemetery, Hyde Park. Mrs. Trotter left to mourn her loss her mother, Mrs. Mary Pindell; a sister, Miss Gertrude Pindell; a foster brother and her husband.

Geraldine Louise Trotter was born in Boston October 3, 1872, the daughter of Charles E. and Mary Pindell. She was educated in the Boston schools, and for ten years was bookkeeper for Eli Cooley, china decorator, until she married Mr. Trotter June 27, 1899, in the same home where she died, October 9, 1918, at the age of 46 years. Her chief life work was associate manager of the Boston Guardian, an organ for equal rights for Colored Americans, published by Mr. Trotter. But she engaged in much public-spirited work. She secured pardons for several Colored inmates of the state prison, notably the late William E. Hill, who had been there more than forty years. She was executive chairman of the Boston Literary association, arranging the loving cup presentation to Moorfield Storey in Faneuil hall. She organized a women's anti-lynching committee, and was a member of the Equal Rights league.

Her chief activities recently were for the Colored soldiers. She presented the national colors to the 519th engineers at Camp Devens in behalf of the state; organized the Godmothers' association to this, the only Colored unit, which went overseas from Massachusetts, and begun organizing with a "circle of cheer" at Newburyport. She was a member of the Soldiers' Comfort Unit and Sunday hostess at its war service center. Her last act was to send fruit to the Colored soldiers at Camp Levens who were ill with influenza. She was a communicant of St. Mary's Episcopal church in Dorchester. Few members of her race were better known. She was an able newspaper woman and ready public speaker.

SPANISH FLU INDIGNANT AT OMAHA PHYSICIAN

Dr. L. E. Britt was detained at home for a few days with the "flu." That's what he gets for saying that the "Spanish flu is the old fashioned influenza in a more aggravated form." This is what he told The Monitor man one day; and the Spanish flu became so indignant that a man like Dr. Britt should put his royal highness in such a plebian class as "old fashioned influenza," that he immediately flew at the stalwart doctor in a great rage and did the only thing he could do for a man from Missouri, showed him.
