A Friend of the Colored People

Nebraska's candidate for President in the Primaries, April 20, is John J. Pershing. By a series of circumstances, Pershing is also peculiarly the candidate of the colored race.

All of Pershing's career has fitted him to understand the needs and aspirations of the colored race. It was a colored regiment, the 10th Cavalry, which Pershing led up San Juan hill to the most glorious victory of the Spanish-American war.

When the war broke out, Pershing had been temporarily transferred from his command to the faculty at West Point, but he pleaded with the War Department until it had returned him to the 10th, and given him a chance to help that Regiment establish its splendid record.

How well Pershing understood and appreciated the noble colored men who offered their lives to this country in the world war, is history. None of those who heard it will forget the manner in which he voiced that appreciation to the colored soldiers of the A. E. F. after the cessation of hostilities.
