(Continued from Page 1) is a short, heavy-set black man with a plentiful supply of brains highly developed by culture. He is the only colored member, so far as I have ever heard, of the powerful Associated Press. He is a brilliant and versatile newspaper man whose articles under the nom de plume of "J. O. Midnight" and "Charles Stump", have attracted attention for years. He is a splendid speaker, thoughtful, logical, instructive and witty, and a strong Baptist. He is an occasional contributor to The Monitor. His home is in Chicago. It had been some years since we had last met and I was glad to avail myself of the opportunty of meeting him.

I told him I would go to St. Luke's first and then go on to Roanoke. This I did. It's a pleasure for a parson to sit in a pew as a worshipper, now and then. Few of us have this privilege. St. Luke's is a beautiful old church, with an excellent choir, and there was a good congregation present, something unusual in any Episcopal church at night. I felt almost as much at home in St. Luke's as I would have in Trinity Cathedral, Omaha. I heard an excellent sermon by the rector, the Rev. Charles Collins, who FOR SALE-The only Ice Cream Par- proached Carmen and the Hungarian cordially greeted Fr. Whitlock and me at the close of the service, recalling the fact that he had met me at the General Convention in Detroit. Boarding a street car we hastened to Roanake Baptist church, of which the Rev. Joseph T. Hill is pastor, to find it filled with a large congregation, fully one-third of whom were white people, seated promiscuously, without FOR RENT-Eight-room house, partly any reference to segregation or separation. This was in striking contrast to the dual system so prevalent throughout the state.

STOLEN PAPERS FOUND AT BALL

necovery of Diplomat's Wallet Just as Thrilling as Best of Nick Carter Tales.

Prague.-During the joyous days of Prague.—During the joyous days of the recent carnival in Prague there was performed, quite unknown to the revellers a clear piece of detective revellers, a clever piece of detective work on the part of the local police which resulted in the restoring to a distracted diplomat of certain papers which to him were of the greatest importance. The police worked quietly into the night life of the city, and such was their success that before the night was over the city jail had two new tenants and a young man was speeding out of Prague to the foreign office of his government, expressing heartfelt thanks to the local inspector of police who, in this narrative, can be referred to only as Mr. D-

Valuable Papers Stolen.

Mr. D- seated one afternoon in his office behind a pile of papers, was interrupted suddenly by a young diplomat representing one of the great powers of Europe, who declared his business to be most urgent. He related that a wallet containing documents of great value had been stolen. He had left it for a few moments on his writing table to go to another room in the legation, and when he returned it was gone. Furthermore, there were lewels in the wallet, his personal property, but their abstraction did not disturb the young foreigner half as much as the loss of the papers.

"I must leave Prague by the night train," he explained to the inspector, "and I will be ruined for life if these documents cannot be recovered."

Mr. D- drove to the legation and looked over the wallet substituted for that of the diplomat. It contained a Prague newspaper from which a clipping had been made. The inspector secured an intact copy of this paper, and was thus able to read the clipping cut out by the thief. Also Mr. D- found traces of face powder between the leaves of the wal-

Mountain of Water Tosses Vessel in Air

Tacoma, Wash .- A mountain of water that rose from the sea was described here by Capt. George G. Mitchell of the Nawsco liner Brush, Capt. Mitchell said that on the morning of March 20, while the Brush was 50 miles off the coast of Mexico, sallors saw a long unbroken black line on the sea. This line approached the Brush rapidly, until it was seen that

The ship was made ready for the onslaught and Capt. Mitchell said when the water hit the vessel it seemed as though a great hand clasped the ship and elevated it into the air. There was not a breath of wind at the time. For six hours the log of the Brush shows the vessel wallowed in swells equal to those off Cape Horn. The ship was driven miles off her
