"BUCK" AND "BUBBLES" AT GAYETY THEATRE

The Famous Colored Team With Harry Steppe in "Dancing Around" Local theatre-goers cannot afford to miss "Dancing Around," announced by the popular Gayety Theatre as its attraction for week starting Saturday matinee, as this is one of the season's offerings well worth a visit to the theatre. The show, which is—as one can gather from the title—a carnival of dancing, also combines the rare charm of youth and talent. The cast, strong in its entertaining powers, is headed by Harry (Bananas) Steppe, whose fun making ability is well-known to the followers of Columbia Burlesque. Buck and Bubbles, two colored performers, contribute very materially to the entertainment with their songs, dances and playing of musical instruments. These two boys are recognized as the successors of Williams and Walker. Lillian Smalley, as prima donna, is pleasing and efficient; Fred (Fatty) Slater, who works opposite to Steppe, is an Irish comedian who is always funny; Arthur Putnam, the straight man of the cast, is an excellent foil for the comedians; Rose Duffin, the soubrette, is a bundle of pep and personality; Geo. Rose, the juvenile, is a good looking chap with lots of ability; Alan Walker is another dancer who contributes much to the show's success; Edna Howard and Edna Davenport, are both acrobatic dancers full of vim and grace; the Bodine Sisters both sing and dance equally well; Aneta White does a trapeze act, displaying rare grace and charm; Betty Meyers is a clever hard shoe dancer; Paula Joyce, a singer and dancer, while Ina Kay does some dancing stunts that are new and novel. Nor must we overlook the chorus which is much more attractive than most of the ones playing here this season. In fact one of the unusual features about "Dancing Around" is the vivacity of the entire chorus and the excellent execution of all of the lively and graceful ensemble dances. The sensational work of Buck and Bubbles will be the talk of Omaha. "Dancing Around" is in two big acts and six colorful scenes. Its book is by Harry Steppe and Arthur Putnam and its lyrics and music by Joe Trent. The show is staged by Maurice Cain and the dances by Seymour and Frank Montgomery. There will be a matinee at 2:15 daily all week. Sunday's matinee starts at 3:00.

FEATURE OF AK-SAR-BEN HISTORIC PAGEANT

President Coolidge, receiving the oath of office in the parlor of his father's home in New England, will be one of the feature floats in the Patriotic Historic America pageant which is to be one of the highlights in the annual Ak-Sar-Ben festival, October 3. To be sure of the correctness of the smallest detail, photographers went to the little Vermont homestead, where the president spent his boyhood, and photographed the room just as it was when the elder Coolidge administered the oath of office to his son. The photographs are being used to govern the construction of the float. Furniture, pictures, wall decorations, carpets and rugs will be reproduced exactly. The Patriotic Historic America pageant will cost $30,000, forty floats being entered, each representing some patriotic incident in the history of the nation. More than 4,000 men, women and children will take part. Fifteen hands will participate. The pageant was written by John Lee Webster, pioneer attorney of Omaha.
