'LIZA'S SHUFFLIN' BAND

Extra Feature with "Hippity Hop" at the Popular Gayety All Next Week

The announcement that Peck & Kolb's "Hippity Hop" will provide the musical burlesque week starting Saturday at the Gayety theatre will pleasantly recall last season's presentations of this novel and highly diverting attraction. To sustain an excellent reputation, an organization has been assembled for the support of Harry (Rib) Shannon and Artie Leeming, the featured comedians, that promised to provide entertainment of superior class and brilliancy.

Matt Kolb personally staged this season's show, following his own book and lyrics. To make sure that his ideas are sustained, Kolb travels with "Hippity Hop" to keep a watchful eye upon the proceedings. Such novel stage incidents as "The Illuminated Staircase," bright with girls in dazzling array; "The Pirate's Cave," a spectacular vista of unique stagecraft; "The Diamond Studded Models" in a studio scene of promised brilliancy and no end of "comedy bits," musical interludes and dancing diversions are announced as typical of Kolb's ingenuity.

Supporting Shannon and Leeming, who will lead the comedy scenes assisted by Jack Alton, dramatic player; Andrew White, a vocalist and dancer, and Gus Legert, character comedian, there will be a bevy of pretty and talented actresses led by Alfretha Symonds prima donna; Nellie Nelson, a graceful ingenue; the Carmen Sisters, song and dance specialists, and Belle White, a soubrette of verve and dash. Eighteen chorus experts, youthful and attractive, will be marshalled in the song and dance ensembles.

Vaudeville specialists galore will diversify the entertainment and as a special feature 'Liza and her Shufflin' Band will offer jazzy music and snappy dance, done in the best style of the colored race. Particularly effective will be 'Liza's songs of sentiment and pathos.

Gowns of exclusive designs will be worn by the principal girls in the burlesque. In costuming the ensemble a dozen sets of gowns variegated in color schemes and unique in styles, will make "Hippity Hop" present a fashion show that should appeal strongly to ladies and make the daily matinees distinctly popular.

SORORITY REHEARSING PLAYLET

The Misses Grace Dorsey and Frances Gordon were hostesses to the Phi Delta Sorority Wednesday, November 21 at the home of Miss Dorsey, 36th and Parker. Miss Irene Walker one of the rushes for the season was pledged. The remainder of the evening was spent in rehearsing for a playlet "Swingin' Down the Lane" to be given by the club during the holidays. Miss Ruth Jones who wrote the play is also directing the rehearsals. After rehearsal the hostesses served a very delightful two course luncheon. The next meeting will be December 5.

Here They Are--

The Epitome of Colored Artists

'Liza and her

Shufflin' Band

Says the "Baltimore American":—

'Liza is a colored girl, but like most colored girls in stage entertainment, 'Liza does not hop around, gyrate with swinging arms and shuffling feet, bucking, winging and whooping. 'Liza stands still and sings, and as she sings she pictures the hut down south where her mammy waits—sings with a note of sympathy and a crooning sweetness that makes her song-story a real thing. 'Liza tells you just why she wants to see her Mammy—sells you the idea that a trip to Alabama is the most desired thing in the world and puts you in the mood to "Kick-in" for a railroad ticket. All the "jazz babies" and colored foot-slingers that find employment in Columbia Burlesque are forgotten when you
