

QUALITY AND PALATABILITY IN MEAT SUBJECT OF STUDY

Experimental Work to Be Conducted in Twenty-Nine State Agricultural Experiment Stations.

Chicago.—Plans of procedure for a national study to determine the factors responsible for quality and palatability in meat have been definitely mapped out by a special committee of five live stock and meat specialists headed by Dean F. B. Mumford of the college of agriculture, University of Missouri. Membership of this committee, which was appointed by the American Society of Animal Production, includes E. W. Sheets, chief of the animal husbandry division, Bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture, secretary; Prof. M. D. Heiser, chief in meat investigation, Iowa agricultural experiment station; Prof. H. J. Gramlich, animal husbandman, Nebraska agricultural experiment station, and Dr.

Dean F. B. Mumford.

C. Robert Moulton, director of the department of nutrition, Institute of American Meat Packers. The experimental work decided upon by the committee will be carried out by 29 state agricultural experiment stations. It will include experiments on feeding, breeding, methods of slaughtering, methods of cooking and other phases of the subject.

The study is sponsored by the National Live Stock and Meat board, an organization interested in extensive research and education regarding meat. Experimental stations co-operating with the board are Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Maryland, Minnesota, New Mexico, New Jersey, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oregon, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Missouri, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, Texas, Virginia, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Wyoming and New Hampshire.

Head Hunting in Luzon Replaced by Tame Games

New York.—"I was surprised and somewhat disappointed to learn when I reached the Philippines that head-hunting tribes had given up their ancient pastime under persuasion of American officials," declared Alvin Coombe, who recently has been around the world with his family.

"While I didn't get the thrill I expected, my curiosity brought me one of the most interesting bits of information I picked up during the entire trip. "An army officer, who had held some administrative job in the northern part of Luzon island, where head-hunting had its greatest vogue, told me they had changed their habits by teaching them American sports.

"A successful collector of skulls enjoyed the same prestige in his community as a successful collector of home runs on an American baseball team.

"It was sound reasoning, and I think it could be applied in other parts of the world where half-civilized peoples who have no sports amuse themselves and reveal the competitive spirit in feuds and prolonged murder tournaments.

"I think the most attractive part of the new school of recreation to the savage is the gallery his games attract. When he hunted heads he hunted alone. He gets more kicks from the cheers of the spectators at the games than from the deferred praise for a successful head hunt."

Sphinx Gets Backache in Her, or His, Old Age

Cairo.—The celebrated sphinx of Giza, who, historians believe, is between 5,000 and 6,000 years old, is having trouble with her (or his) back in her (or his) old age.

The back of the giant figure, which has withstood the wear of several millenniums, is showing signs of cracking, and the antiquities department of the Egyptian government is taking measures to strengthen it. The department is also clearing away the desert sands, which are constantly encroaching on the famous monument and already cover a part of it.

Kills Octopus

Olympia, Wash.—An octopus weighing 120 pounds with a nine-foot spread of tentacles was killed on Alki beach by Herbert Comode after a thrilling fight, during which one of the slimy arms was entwined around its captor's ankle. In the Fraser river a fisherman recently caught a sturgeon weighing 1,200 pounds, which yielded 56 pounds of caviar.

Big Difference in Price

Hellum has been greatly reduced in price since it was first produced. Its original cost was $1,700 a cubic foot. Now it can be extracted, 92 per cent pure, for 7 cents a cubic foot.
