ARTICLE XIV, CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES

Citizenship Rights Not to Be Abridged

1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE?

The Lord Bishop of London who is visiting the United States is recognized as a man of broad culture and great intellectual ability. He is not only an ecclesiastical statesman, but also an astute student of government. A few days ago when asked what is the difference between the two major political parties of the United States, he confessed that it was difficult for him to perceive any real difference between the Republican and Democratic parties, despite the labored efforts of those who strove to enlighten him. He said there was a time when they radically differed upon certain issues and he could understand that difference, but that they had so closely approached each other now that he could not see the difference between them.

Of course, may will be quick to conclude that as a rather obtuse Englishman, despite his reputed intellectual ability, Bishop Ingram could not discern the difference, but that does not answer his question which he propounded in all seriousness. There are many Americans, not of the intellectual acumen of the Bishop of London, and their number is increasing, and this is especially true among the younger men and women of our group, who are as obtuse as the learned and distinguished visitor when it comes to seeing any real fundamental difference between the Republican and Democratic parties as they exist today. The Monitor would like to propound to its readers the same question that the Bishop of London asked: "What is the real difference between the Republican and the Democratic parties?" Will some one answer? Our columns are open for replies. These replies ought to make interesting reading. We will be pleased to hear from champions of both sides, irrespective of race, color or creed. Let's have your answer. Make it brief and to the point.

BAUMAN'S RE-ELECTION

Otto J. Bauman was entitled to re-election and we are glad our people so loyally supported him. He has made, as we said before, an efficient and conscientious public officer and was therefore entitled to re-election. In addition to this, so far as our people are concerned he had been fair with us by giving us representation on his office force and therefore was entitled to our support. Congratulations, Mr. Bauman, as the sole survivor of the republican deluge.

CUT IT OUT, HARRY

Now that Harry Pearce, register of deeds, has been re-elected for the fourth term, we indulge in the hope that he will not resort to his usual custom of dropping from his clerical force the colored clerk whom he so magnanimously employs three or four months before election. This is a bad habit, Harry, cut it out.

A SIGNIFICANT FACT

One of the most significant instances of the election was the voting at 2707 Lake street, where the republican vote outnumbered the democratic vote 14 1/2 to 1. At this precinct the vote on sheriff gave Hopkins 172 and McDonald 172. It proved beyond question that colored people have learned how to "scratch" a ticket. Strangely, too, most of the "scratching" was done between 6 and 8 p. m. by colored working men and women.

The colored people have learned how to vote.

BARNETT THANKS SUPPORTERS

I take this method to thank my many friends for their loyal support in voting for me and making it possible for my election for state representative in the Tenth district.

F. L. BARNETT.

KEEPING FIT

This is primarily an age of physical fitness. Growing boys everywhere are bending their efforts to the development of muscular ability and a sound physique, whether their purpose is to excel in one of the many fields of athletics or to prepare for a life of vigorous manual effort.

Today the growing American youth has before him as shining goals the great champions in the various fields of sport. Our boxing champions, our golfing champions, our swimming champions are generally considered the champions of the world.

But the physical perfection necessary to become champion in any field of physical activity is not a matter of accident or chance. Back of every champion you will find a ground work of sound physical development which has been maintained by constant exercise and intelligent training. Every normal boy has the desire to attain a high degree of physical fitness. Many, however, are handicapped by lack of proper information on training rules and care of the body.

The U. S. Public Service has prepared a publication to fill this very need. This publication entitled, "Keeping Fit" gives authoritative information on sound physical development, illustrated with numerous charts, diagrams and pictures. Other important information on personal hygiene with special chapters on sex hygiene for the growing boy and young man are included. Readers may obtain this publication free of charge by writing to the U. S. Public Health Service, Washington, D. C.

He was very thrifty, and at the time of his death was rated as the wealthiest Negro in these environs.
