Lavagetto Replaces Jackie

Jackie Robinson's hopes of playing in every game this season came to end when the Brooklyn first baseman had to stay out of the fourth and final game against the Giants due to an old back injury. Robinson had played in 135 games when Manager Bert Shotten decided that he needed a rest.

The injury was sustained last winter while playing golf. Robinson hurt his back swinging a golf club on a Los Angeles course. Throughout spring training he was troubled with the injury and at one time in Cuba had to be examined by one of Havana's leading physicians.

Robinson was ordered to "take a rest" by the Dodgers' pilot Sunday and Cookie Lavagetto, veteran infielder, took over the first base chores as the Dodgers lost to the Giants, 7 to 6, cutting their lead over St. Louis to 5½ games.

IN CLEANUP ROLE

Jackie Robinson, was placed in the cleanup spot in the Brooklyn lineup Wednesday by Manager Burt Shotton, and the Dodgers proceeded to wallop the Cubs, 5 to 1. The Brooklyn outfit moves into St. Louis Thursday for their crucial 3-game series with the Cardinals.
