THEME — Church Organization and Leadership. Acts 6:1-6; 20:17, 18, 28; I Corinthians 12:27, 28.

The Problems of a Growing Church, Acts 6:1-6. Often we sigh for a revival such as Pentecost. That would solve many problems, but perhaps create others in the way of organization. After the revival in Jerusalem the church had large ingatherings, and new problems began to emerge. However, the New Testament never uses the word "problem," and seldom voices the idea. The stress falls on opportunity. The Spirit led the apostles to use that "problem" as a stepping-stone to a higher level of service. Oh for such leadership now!

The New Problem, verse 1. The difficulty had to do with money. As in a home, church disputes now often rise about money. That disaffection began with the women, and it soon involved the men. If the trouble had continued, the church might have split, and a racial group would have started work of its own. All this sounds more like Babel than Pentecost.

The New Proposal, verses 2-4. The officers dealt with the matter at once, and behind closed doors. They laid it before the Lord, and talked it over as a group. They waited until they felt sure about the leading of the Spirit. What folly to let such matters appear in the newspapers, as Protestants often do. Catholics give publicity only to matters which they feel proud.

The officers proposed that the congregation elect seven new leaders to supervise the distribution of funds among the poor. See the need and meet it! Do not create offices for the sake of having offices. Think of how a manufacturer plans his work. If it calls for more men or machinery he supplies them. When the Spirit guides, a church chooses able officers. In every church some such group should take care of God's poor. The pastor should minister to people's souls. Beware of thinking about relief of the poor as secular. Men like Philip and Stephen look on such work as spiritual.

Division of Labor. In many a church the minister has become so busy about many things that he does not have time for his special work. If the church has a staff they may become "busy and troubled about many things." God wants ministers to specialize on what he called them to do, and others to take excellent care of "tables." He calls for teamwork, with the minister as inspirer of other workers.

The People's Response, verse 5.

Elwood, Kansas
BY WILBERTA BRADY.

Hello folks:
Another week has rolled around for more news of this fair city. Elwood is full of news this week. Horace Crews is home visiting his parents and friends. He is being transferred to California.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wallingford visited Mr. and Mrs. John Gorman Sunday.
Gorman Charles, Grace Marie, and Kenneth C. Wallingford visited Carolyn and Justin Brady Sunday afternoon.

Bethel A.M.E. Church and choir rendered services at the St. Paul C.M.E. Church Sunday afternoon. Rev. Shakespeare, Pastor, preached an inspiring sermon. His subject: God's Oasis.

Mr. Nura Washington went to the hospital Monday morning.

The Boy Scouts gave a party at the Lincoln School Saturday night, February 25. Games were played and ice cream and cake were served. Everyone enjoyed themselves immensely.

Betty Page, Willa Mae Hayes, Shirley York and Janice Terrell visited friends in St. Joseph Sunday afternoon.

The First Baptist Men's Chorus rendered services at Trinity Baptist Church in St. Joseph Sunday afternoon.

Well folks that is all the news I have for you this week. Hope you enjoyed the little visit.

Bye for now
Bert

Judge Myles Paige Reappointed By Mayor O'Dwyer

NEW YORK. (ANP). Judge Myles A. Paige was reappointed to the bench for a 10-year term by Mayor O'Dwyer last Friday. Judge Paige, first appointed by the late Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia, is the second LaGuardia appointee to the bench the present mayor has reappointed. The other was Judge Jane Bolin. Judge Paige's salary is $14,000 per annum.

They accepted the proposal gladly. They did not enjoy a squabble, or want to see a split. They wished the work to go forward. Hence they chose new officers different from those already on the "official board." The new officers represented the "newcomers." What tact! Would that every church problem might become an opportunity for larger service!

Elect from every nation, yet one o'er all the earth,
Her charter of salvation, one Lord, one faith, one birth;
One holy name she blesses, partakes one holy food,
And to one hope she presses, with every grace endued.

Prejudice In Beatrice

An editorial taken from the Beatrice Daily Sun, Feb. 14. Publisher, E. M. Marvin.
A man, sitting near us at the concert in the auditorium last night, expressed a thought which probably was in the minds of many.

"All of these people come to hear and applaud a great artist," he said. "Yet that artist could not spend the night in one of our hotels because she is a Negro."

People should be judged on their individual merits, and by such a standard Miss Camilla Williams deserves our grateful admiration. It was very evident last night that she had earned the respect and admiration of her audience; unfortunately, it was not reflected in the hospitality the town had to offer.

There was a time when those who deplore such an un-American and un-Christian attitude could make a weak defense for their town by saying that at least we are no worse than other towns in the midwest. This is no longer true. Miss Williams had several days between concerts, before coming to Beatrice. She spent them at the Cornhusker hotel, which is Lincoln's fanciest hostelry, and there was treated respectfully. Beatrice has no reason to be proud of its shabby treatment of some very great persons (Mr. Todd Duncan was another) because of the color of their skins.

Hotel management professes no personal prejudice on this score, but points out that an enlightened attitude is not shared by all of its customers. No doubt this true, but looking at the example set in Lincoln, it is possible that fears are exaggerated. Management reserves the privilege of refusing rooms to undesirable persons, of whatever color.

Attitudes change, more slowly than women's fashions perhaps, but nonetheless steadily. Customs lag a little behind. It is only a matter of time before custom will catch up with the attitude which deplores racial prejudice—a

Spring To That Finish
By Jane Parsons Winters

Spring wears many disguises. There's the young man's fancy, the gardener's hoe, a boy's marbles, milady's bonnet, or the housewife's mop. But we all have one thing in common with Mother Nature about this time of year. A change. You'd like to shove everything out of the house and start all over, bright and new. Well, let's do it. There's that old chest of drawers with its peeling green paint, or that table with half the varnish gone, or that old chair you slip in the living room only on emergencies. Give them all a good shove to the back porch or the basement, and let's finish them off. And before you know it, you'll have a new hobby, a nice piece of furniture, and you'll be the envy of anyone that walks in the front door.

That's the beauty of redoing old furniture—anyone can for it doesn't take any special skill, it's the cheapest way to furnish a house beautifully, and no one can duplicate your particular piece. It's yours, you worked for it, and you are as proud as others are envious.

So let's get to the finish.
First Step: The piece to refinish. Any old piece of furniture you already own or can buy at a second hand store. Look for solid pieces or good veneered ones, sturdiness in structure, and good simple lines. Try the auctions, second hand stores, want ads, or any foolish friend that can't see beyond the old varnish or paint.

- You will be surprised what you can do with cheap unpainted furniture with the right finish. (See Step Six)
- Second step: Materials (Look around home before you shop.)
Denatured or wood alcohol
Turpentine
Sandpaper (coarse, medium, fine)
Fine emery cloth
Boiled linseed oil
Floor wax
Shellac
Paintbrushes
Old rags and polishing cloths
Plastic wood
Bleaching fluid
Scrapers (broad and narrow)
Liquid paint remover. (Buy in large quantities. Or use household ammonia in well ventilated room.)

- Third step: Removal of old paint or varnish
1. Scrape off as much varnish or paint with scraper as possible, being careful not to mar wood. Coarse sandpaper may be used also.
2. Apply paint remover or ammonia. Cover small portion at a time, let stand 15 minutes, then scrape off. Wipe residue with old rag. Continue until all the varnish or paint is gone.
3. Wash off surface with alcohol and let dry 24 hours. Fill any large holes or cracks with plastic wood. Ignore old scars. They enhance the pieces. Note: May use Trisodium Phosphate in hot water or one of the commercial floor cleaning products if the piece is varnished. Has a tendency to dry out wood, and if used, must use linseed oil in finishing coats.
Fourth Step: Smoothing
1. Rub with fine sandpaper Nos. 4/0 to 2/0 or fine emery cloth 2/0 until smooth. Rub with grain.
2. Go over with fine steel wool No. 0. Polish until satin smooth. The beauty of your finish depends upon this step.
To be continued next week.
