

New Champions Uncovered in Olympic Games

Other Countries Have Set Out to Make Things Interesting for United States.

New York, July 27.—A reviewer of the Olympic events at Paris says the carnival demonstrated that the world is awake to the benefits of athletic competition, and has set out to make things interesting for the United States as the summaries of the track and field program and results in other competitions such as polo and rifle shooting show.

In the athletic events leading places were won by Switzerland, which never had before figured in the Olympics. We find startling performances credited to Englishmen—performances far more brilliant than British boasted at the crest of its athletic glory.

We find Finland, which was a negligible factor in the Olympics of 1908 at London, scoring repeatedly and carrying the fight to America. In polo the tilt was won by the Argentinians, who four years ago held an unimportant place in the sport.

Now they hold a world championship and aspire to a place with America and England in the classic competition for the international cup. In rifle shooting the Americans were victorious, but second place went to a newcomer, Haiti. Athletic success seems to be largely a matter of athletic consciousness. Many nations have great material, but their ambitions have never been aroused.

At London in 1908 the Swedes were on the upgrade. At Stockholm in 1912 they reached the zenith of their success. They had become conscious athletically, had called Ernie Hjertberg back from this country as coach and had undertaken a systematic development of their athletic resources.

Then came the Finns. Having gained their independence of Russia they were free to think of things other than political. They developed a great team and really had an idea they could beat the United States. They have failed, but the Finns deserve a world of credit for the splendid fight they put up.

Who will be next to aspire to American credit? England is going to improve tremendously by 1928, when the Olympics will be held at Amsterdam. Finland will improve. We may look for great athletes from Australia, which has not yet got a real start in amateur sport. Professional athletics is stressed over the amateur side "down under," but there is a strong movement to accomplish in amateur track and endeavor what Australia has attained in lawn tennis.

Australia is a fertile field and in eight years, when the Olympics will be held at Los Angeles, we may find our most formidable rivals coming from the Antipodes.

Gerald Patterson Beats Snodgrass. New York, July 27.—Gerald Patterson of Australia defeated Harvey W. Snodgrass of California in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2, today in the final round match of the metropolitan singles turf court tennis championship on the courts of Grant court A. C. Brookline, New York.

Paired with Pat O'Hara Wood, Patterson advanced to the final round of the championship doubles by defeating Snodgrass and Walter Westbrook, 6-1, 6-3, 7-5 in the semi-final round. In the other semi-final doubles match, the Kinsey brothers of California, Ed and Fred, coasted champions, defeated Clarence J. Griffin, of California and Dr. George A. King of New York, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

The final match will be played tomorrow afternoon, to be preceded by an exhibition singles match between William Johnston, of California, former national champion, and Walter Westbrook of Los Angeles.

Walter Hagen Displays Superb Golf in Recent Tournament at Hoylake

London, July 27.—The golfing correspondent of the "Observer" says: Three times in four years! That is America's answer to Great Britain's challenge in the race for golfing supremacy at Hoylake in the British Open championship. From whatever angle we view it we cannot help feeling a little humiliated. A few years ago we should have laughed with derision at the notion of America's golfers invading this country and carrying off the glittering prize. The situation has now completely changed for we view with alarm the advent of this small band of international players, who yearly cross the Atlantic in search of honor and glory, and the spoils that accompany them.

It is not that these men are on a higher plane as regards the scientific aspects of the game, nor is it that they are better shot players. Taking them individually, they are no better and no worse than the first half dozen of Britain's foremost golfers. In fact, to have seen Hagen floundering about in his last dramatic round at Hoylake one could only conclude that here was a very ordinary golfer playing very mediocre stuff with a singular capacity for wringing out of unpleasant places.

It is in the psychological side of the game that they seem to beat us. Four Britishers at least had a chance of saving the national honor, but one by one they collapsed not under the physical strain, but under the mental strain.

Not so Hagen. Although he certainly floundered he never once lost his head. He had a clear picture of the task that confronted him, and if, occasionally, his plan of attack was shattered by events, he never once lost grasp of the situation.

Hagen forgot the birdie putt; he shot his eye to the holes where he had gone. The championship is his and all that it means in material gain. Hagen has shown us how to fight must—What has gone before cannot be altered; only the present and the future count.

I have never seen, and probably never shall see again, a more superb exhibition of true bulldog pluck than Hagen displayed in the last nine holes. It thrilled one to the very marrow. Here was a man who had frittered away a king's ransom, until he found himself in a position that would have struck terror into the heart of the bravest man. "Now how do we stand?" said Hagen as he turned his face to the wind on the homeward journey. "I want a 36, eh? I guess I shall have to hustle." And hustle he did to some tune. Bunkers got in his way, but in some miraculous fashion he always extricated himself.

Two shots decided the fate of the championship, and they came at the last two holes, one 400 yards in length, and the other 410, where Hagen needed two par fours to secure the British Cup for America. His mashie iron shot from the rough on the right to that narrow and friendly guarded 17th green was the shot of a master golfer. The ball fell like a shot partridge three yards from the pin.

The last counting shot was the putt of two yards for a 4 at the last hole. How many golfers are there who would not shiver with fright at the awful prospect of a two-yard putt for a world's championship? With the gaze of 10,000 people on you, people of a different nation, two yards will look like a mile with the hole at the end of it as big as a pin's point.

Hagen does not have to school himself for the agonizing task; he does not pick up imaginary objects to gain time, nor does he wander up and down the line of the putt. There is none of these subtleties; he plants his feet in position, gives the ball a courageous blow, and in it goes. The championship is his and all that it means in material gain. Hagen has shown us how to fight must—What has gone before cannot be altered; only the present and the future count.

Brooklyn, tennis expert, says that Bill Tilden's decisive triumph in the final of the clay court championship at St. Louis gave him his 15th American title. He now has won his credit four national singles championships and four national doubles championships on turf, four national singles on clay, one national indoor singles and two national doubles titles—an imposing list when one considers that he began winning championships only six years ago.

Of course, he has many more titles to his credit, including two world's singles championships at Wimbledon and two world's clay court championships earned in France, not to mention five or six national mixed doubles championships and scores of sectional titles. The list can still be augmented by awarding Tilden the title of Davis Cup champion, as he has never been beaten in a Davis cup singles match since he first became an American internationalist in 1920, a record that has not been equaled by anybody. Of his many championships, however, Tilden undoubtedly rates his national singles titles on turf as his greatest achievement, for in no other tournaments has he faced opposition as formidable as in the American grass court classic. The result at St. Louis offers further evidence that the tennis court rests just as securely and serenely as ever on the brow of the tall Philadelphia. The manner in which he smothered Harvey Snodgrass in the title match after the latter had flashed wonderful tennis in removing all other formidable opposition, showed Tilden supreme. In a class apart, he is the way one British critic rates him, and the brief statement fits the case admirably.

Every now and then a player of near top rank comes along to extend Tilden to the limit of five sets, and whispers are heard that the champion is slipping. And just when the whispers become substantial rumors, Big Bill meets that same opponent in a second match and fairly blows him off the court. Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., met with just such an experience recently, and it will be remembered that Manuel Allonso took a five-set match from Tilden in an indoor final at Buffalo. But tennis has never learned not to take all of Tilden's five-set matches too seriously.

Wisconsin and Minnesota are the two Western conference schools which Ames will face this fall. Kansas State, Missouri, Drake and Grinnell, all old rivals of Iowa State will face the Cyclones again this year. The Drake game, heretofore always played in Des Moines, this year will be played on the State field here.

Iowa State's revised schedule follows: Sept. 15—Kansas, at Lawrence. Oct. 15—Missouri, at Ames. (Homecoming.) Oct. 25—Open. Nov. 1—Kansas Aggies, at Manhattan. Nov. 8—Missouri, at Minneapolis. Nov. 15—Grinnell, at Grinnell. Nov. 22—Drake, at Ames.

Neun Holds Lead Among Sluggers. The remarkable see-saw battle among the three leaders in the American association continues unabated, with Neun, sensational St. Paul youngster, on top of the heap, with a record of 399. Dressen, also of St. Paul, who headed the procession last week, is second with 398, with Brief of Kansas City clinging to third place with 387.

Earl Smith of Minneapolis is the only one of those coming up from below who is any way threatening the pace makers. He is fourth with 363.

The hitting among the home run hitters has been rather light, with Reb Russell of Columbus on top with 14. The two Smiths, Earl of Minneapolis and Elmer of Louisville, each added one a piece, giving them a total of 13.

Neun has taken enough time off his batting to add three stolen bases to his record of 34.

Other leading batters: Shannon, Louisville, 342; Christenbury, Indianapolis, 342; Allen, Indianapolis, 341; Russell, Columbus, 335; Armstrong, Kansas City, 333; Tyson, Louisville, 332; Krueger, Indianapolis, 332.

Willaman on Vacation. Ames, Ia., July 27.—Sam S. Willaman, head football coach at Iowa State college, has left for an extended vacation in order, as he says, "to be in the best condition for the football schedule next fall." Most of his time is being planned for New Brunswick, Canada, where he will enjoy a fishing party. He will return to Ames the fore part of September.

Semi-Pro and Amateur Humboldt, Neb., July 27.—Humboldt split a double-header last week when Steinauer, Neb., defeated the home club, 3 to 2, and Stella, Neb., dropped a 11 to 3 game to the home boys. Batteries: Steinauer, Wehrborn and Phelan; Humboldt, Trimmer and Bartholomew. The batteries in the other game were: Stella, Gough and Wartz and Walker and Pozd; Humboldt, Paril and Bartholomew.

Shenandoah, Ia., July 27.—Nebraska City broke Shenandoah's string of six straight wins when the Nebraska team shut out the home boys, 3 to 0. Batteries: Nebraska City, Soule and Dennison; Shenandoah, McKee and Castle. The Le-Jand Browns play here Sunday, July 27.

Grundy Center, Ia., July 27.—Wellsburg, Parkersburg, Eldora and Grundy Center will meet in a two-day tournament here Sunday and Monday. A purse of $500 will be split among the teams. M. R. Bacon of Los Angeles, Cal., will umpire all the games.

Fairbury, Neb., July 27.—The Fairbury Braves have been reorganized by "Lefty" Wiley, C. E. Wynn and C. O. Marzins. "Lefty" Wynn will do the hurling for the Braves and either Shestak of Wilbur or Unger of Beatrice will catch. An independent team will be organized from the ruins of the Beatrice Tri-state team and will meet the Fairbury Braves here Sunday.

Lawrence, Neb., July 27.—Lawrence won a close game from Oak last week by the score of 3 to 2. Batteries: Lawrence, Kroeing and Buescher; Oak, Dinnel and Scroggins. Kroeing struck out seven men and Dinnel whiffed four of the Lawrence batters.

Cyclones Face Hard Grid Season. Ames, Ia., July 27.—Five Missouri Valley Conference games, two games with members of the Western conference and another with an outside school, make up the Iowa State college 1924 football schedule. With the possible exception of the University of Nebraska lineup it is the hardest schedule to be faced by any Missouri Valley conference team this fall.

Neun Holds Lead Among Sluggers. The remarkable see-saw battle among the three leaders in the American association continues unabated, with Neun, sensational St. Paul youngster, on top of the heap, with a record of 399. Dressen, also of St. Paul, who headed the procession last week, is second with 398, with Brief of Kansas City clinging to third place with 387.

Earl Smith of Minneapolis is the only one of those coming up from below who is any way threatening the pace makers. He is fourth with 363.

The hitting among the home run hitters has been rather light, with Reb Russell of Columbus on top with 14. The two Smiths, Earl of Minneapolis and Elmer of Louisville, each added one a piece, giving them a total of 13.

Neun has taken enough time off his batting to add three stolen bases to his record of 34.

Former Major League Hurler Now Buffalo

First Step on Part of Omaha's Pilot to Strengthen Club for Final Dash for Pennant. By RALPH WAGNER. ORD was received from Barney Napier, owner of the Omaha Buffaloes, last night, that he had completed the purchase of "Buddy" Napier, St. Paul pitcher, from the American association club. Napier is expected to join the Buffaloes at St. Joseph early this week. Barney went to Chicago from here and then to St. Paul.

The announcement that Burch had purchased another hurler did not come as a surprise to followers of the league-leading Buffaloes. The owner of the Herd has been hot on the trail of a new pitcher for some time, but it was not until Saturday that final arrangements for Napier's purchase were made.

With 16 players and Manager Griggs on the Omaha roster at present and the addition of Napier making 17 players, one above the league limit, it is expected that "Stubby" Mack, former White Sox hurler, will get the well known "gate" Mack, let it be known, has not been hurling very good ball.

Napier was sold by the St. Paul club in order to make room for Cliff Markle. The latter was released to the Saints by the Yankees.

Napier joined the St. Paul club in 1921 and during that time has done excellent relief work, but has never had quite the durability to last a full nine innings in a league where every batter has to be pitched to. His curve ball is recognized as one of the most bewildering in the minor leagues. His only trouble has been an inability to sustain his best form through the long route. For this reason he was reserved as a finisher and in that capacity has pulled the St. Paul club through to many victories.

Although not an aggressive nor colorful pitcher, Napier is calm under fire. Baseball scribes in Association towns say that there is no cooler pitcher in the game with the bases full, none out and the leading batter up.

Netter went to St. Paul from Atlanta. Although it was announced at the time that it was an outright purchase, it is believed that he was really the property of Cincinnati and joined the Saints in part payment for Ruben Benton. He is nearly 30 years old, but still has a good throwing arm. A remarkable part of Napier's 1923 record is that he won but three games and all three were against Kansas City, which had the most relentless attack in the league.

Jerry Magee Turns in Good Golf Score. Jerry P. Magee of the Omaha Country club accomplished a golfing feat over his own course yesterday that many niblick followers would feel proud of when he shot the 36 holes, or twice around the course, in 152, turning in cards of 76 for each 18 holes.

In an 18-hole handicap metal play ball sweepstakes, Robert H. Garrett won with a gross of 80 and a net of 70.

Chet P. Dudley won the low gross score of the day with a 73.
