

Today

Not Intellectual Giants. International Finance. Revolution Dying. Leaders Always Found. By ARTHUR BRISBANE

The latest "psychologist and alienist" says the young Loeb-Leopold murderers "are not intellectual giants." And that is true. They are depraved, perverted, had, they are directed, with rotten heredity...

Mr. Dwight W. Morrow, intelligent financier of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., explains in detail the working of international finance, selling foreign bonds, in the United States, etc.

All the more reason for making such bonds secure. When the international financiers have finished the little people hold the bonds, and "hold the bag."

Some remember some interborough bonds that they once bought from a distinguished banking house. Others have recently bought Japanese bonds which, as Mr. Morrow says, must be made good by Japanese not yet born.

There is unrest in Japan, and violent unrest. There is hatred of the United States in Japan, and that also is violent.

You know what became of Russian bonds when Russia violently got rid of the yoke of the Czar?

What will happen to Japanese bonds, if Japanese violence ever gets rid of the mikados?

That question interests those that buy bonds "to be paid for by Japanese yet unborn." Better invest in America.

Mr. S. B. Conger "sees the doom of sovietism." Bolshevism must die out it seems because there won't be any more Lenins to keep it going, and without Lenins you can't lead a revolution.

That's probably what some of the French nobles said, and hoped, when Mirabeau died. But then Danton came up, ten times as powerful as Mirabeau.

Then arose Robespierre with his desperate courage and "green eyes." He chopped off Danton's head. Then Robespierre went to the guillotine, with his jaw broken and his fighting spirit intact.

Then up came Marat, most powerful of the lot, to be murdered by Charlotte Corday. If she hadn't murdered him there might never have been any Napoleon Bonaparte. Revolution seems to breed its own leaders. John William Davis backs him up in his opinion. Each one to his view and, of course, peace is very beautiful.

But, after all, a country may be ready for war, without wanting or bringing it on. And that does not do you any harm. But if you happen not to be ready when war does come, that isn't quite so pleasant. Union labor is with Coolidge in favor of preparation, and no wonder. Gentle sentimentalists supply the peace talk. But workingmen have to carry the guns and do the fighting.

If they must go out and fight they would like, at least, to be prepared. They want the right guns and ammunition, plenty of both and, above all, they would want flying machines.

Enough flying machines, "spraying" the enemy, with shrapnel, TNT and poison gas, would be the best possible peace-makers. If we had enough of those machines only two words, "United States," would be enough to make any other country think earnestly of peace.

"You said in writing about the young women at the Loeb-Leopold trial that they had come forth for to see."

"My father used to use that expression, 'for to see,' and I often corrected him for his mistake. Why do you make the same mistake?"

That's a reader's question. His father was not the first to use "for to see." The 11th chapter of St. Matthew says, "But what went ye out for to see?" A man clothed in smart raiment. Behold, they that wear soft clothing are in king's houses."

The gentleman is also referred to Kipling's "For to Administer For to see, for to travel this world so wide. It never did no good to me, but I can't stop if I tried." St. Matthew, however, is the better authority.

Clarinda Chautauqua Opens. Clarinda, Ia., Aug. 7.—Clarinda chautauqua, under management of the Clarinda Community club, opened Wednesday for a 10-day session. Dr. C. C. Carpenter returns for the fourth year as platform manager.

Protest Filed on Butler Candidacy; Hearing August 14

Progressive Declares Omaha Commissioner Member of Democratic Party—Says Named by "Rump."

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Lincoln, Aug. 7.—Formal objection to the placing of Dan E. Butler in nomination for governor on the progressive ticket at a meeting of the state central committee of the progressive party at Omaha, August 4, was filed Thursday by Harry C. Swallow, Lincoln, member of the Nebraska progressive party.

The objection was filed with Charles W. Pool, secretary of state, who declared that a formal hearing of the objection would be held in his office August 14.

Swallow brands the Butler selection "a rump nomination." He stated that the letter placing Butler in nomination had asserted that the Omaha commissioner had publicly declared himself in favor of Robert La Follette and "Wane" Wheeler as presidential and vice presidential candidates, respectively.

Whereas, Swallow declares, Wane Wheeler is head of the Anti-Saloon league, while the progressive vice presidential list is Burton K. Wheeler, Swallow declares that Butler has never affiliated himself with the progressive party and has always been known and voted as a democrat.

He further charges that only two of the 15 members of the progressive state central committee attended the Omaha meeting August 4.

PROF. QUAM JOINS MIDLAND STAFF

Fremont, Neb., Aug. 7.—Prof. A. N. Quam of Ames, Ia., has been selected to take charge of the department of chemistry at Midland college, Dean W. E. Tibberg has announced. The entire faculty of 1923 is intact for the coming term, with a few additions to assist in departments that have been enlarged.

Prof. Quam was graduated from Northern Normal and Industrial school at Aberdeen, S. D., in 1914. He had one year at Minnesota university, and in 1916 he was graduated with an A. B. degree from the University of South Dakota. After returning from world war army service Prof. Quam won his M. S. degree at University of Wisconsin. As a final honor the degree of doctor of philosophy was bestowed upon him at Iowa State in June, 1924.

Prof. Quam was superintendent of schools at Ipswich, S. D., from 1916 to 1918. While attaining his Ph. D. at Iowa he was instructor in chemistry.

Arsenic Found in Stomach of Woman Who Died Suddenly

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. O'Neill, Neb., Aug. 7.—White arsenic was found in the stomach of Mrs. Anton Houkup of Page, according to a report of state university chemists received by County Attorney Cronin Thursday.

Mrs. Houkup died at her home north of Page Friday. She had been taken violently ill Thursday night. She had previously threatened suicide.

Coroner's inquest into her death was adjourned from Saturday in order to obtain an analysis of the contents of her stomach.

Over 500 Shriners Attend Picnic at Lake Gothenburg

Gothenburg, Neb., Aug. 7.—The third annual Shrine picnic of the Gothenburg and North Platte lodges was held this week at Lake Gothenburg. Over 500 Shriners and their families from Hastings, Grand Island, Broken Bow and other towns within a radius of 150 miles attended. The famous "Tennara Temple band of Hastings led the parade and gave a concert in the evening. The band played at Kearney, Lexington and Cozad on the way here.

A beautiful display of fireworks was set off at the center of the lake. Dancing followed.

Iowa Missionary Will Sail for Korea Sept. 17

Shenandoah, Ia., Aug. 7.—Miss Blanche Stevens, Shenandoah missionary to Korea, who is attending Columbia university, New York, will sail from San Francisco September 17 to resume her work at Syen Chun. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Stevens, Shenandoah florists, are visiting her in New York.

Will Pave Lenox Streets.

Shenandoah, Ia., Aug. 7.—The J. S. McLaughlin company has practically completed 33 blocks of vitrolithic paving in Shenandoah, one of the largest paving jobs in Iowa this year. The equipment will move to Lenox, where it has a contract for similar paving. The contract there is for 25,000 yards at $2.22 a yard. The local contract, approximately 83,000 yards, for the same kind of paving, is $2.47.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

Advertisement for Fletcher's Castoria, featuring an illustration of a child and text describing the medicine's benefits for infants and children.

Falls City Doctor and His Academic Father Both Appear in "Who's Who"

Dr. Claude Fordyce Has Gained National Reputation as Writer on Outdoor Life.

Falls City, Neb., Aug. 7.—Lu W. Claude P. Fordyce, son of Dean Charles Fordyce of the University of Nebraska, Falls City not only claims one of the newest additions to "Who's Who in America," but also boasts the distinction of being the only Nebraskan whose father is also mentioned in the book of notables. Dean Fordyce qualified for a place in the book some years ago, but his son is just being initiated.

Dr. Fordyce though one of the leading physicians and surgeons of this city, is known nationally as an author, editor and authority on outdoor life. He has written four books, "Touring Afoot," "Trail Craft," "Auto Camps and Tours" and "Your Vast Playgrounds." He is also associate editor of Outdoor Life magazine and is a contributor to several other magazines.

Dr. Fordyce, who is 41, attended Wesleyan, University of Nebraska and Washington university at St. Louis, receiving A. B., B. S. and M. D. degrees. He was president of the Falls City Rotary club two years ago.

Dr. Claude P. Fordyce

Archbishop Met Aboard Steamer

Cathedral Organist and Wife Take Pilot Boat to Greet Him.

Archbishop J. J. Hart, Roman Catholic bishop of Omaha, arrived at 1 a. m. Wednesday on the Homeric, which docked in New York City that morning at 10. He was accompanied on his return trip from Rome by Rev. J. Gleeson of Vista, Neb., who made the entire trip with the archbishop, acting as his secretary.

R. Mills Silby, organist of St. Cecilia cathedral, and Mrs. Silby, who motored east to tour New England and Canada, met the archbishop and welcomed him aboard ship. Mr. and Mrs. Silby took a pilot boat to the lower bay, where the ship was anchored that morning, and spent the hours visiting with the archbishop until the steamer docked. They planned to meet Francis P. Matthews of Omaha, who is at present in New York City and who has been appointed a member of the supreme board of directors of the Knights of Columbus. The Silbys will go to Canada before their return to Omaha. Archbishop Hart and Rev. Mr. Gleeson are expected here early next week.

Monsignor A. M. Colaneri, chancellor of the diocese, received a telegram from Dr. Silby this morning to assure him of the good health of the archbishop and of his safe arrival.

Mrs. G. L. Young Drops Dead on Street in Brownville

Brownville, Neb., Aug. 7.—Mrs. G. L. Young, 63, pioneer resident of Brownville, dropped dead on the main street of the town late Wednesday afternoon. She was in her usual good health at dinner time and was walking down town to shop, when she pitched forward to the sidewalk and was dead when passersby reached her side.

The family moved here over 30 years ago from Greenwood, where they homesteaded. The husband died here seven years ago, and one son died five years ago. A large family of grown children survive, one son living at Crab Orchard and another, Fred A. Young, being Burlington station agent at Hickman, and one son in Omaha.

Committee Fills Vacancy on Pawnee County Ticket

Table Rock, Neb., Aug. 7.—Pawnee county republican central committee after nine ballots placed on the ballot for office of clerk of the district court Mrs. Murry Smith to fill the vacancy caused by the declination of Miss Fay Brooks, the incumbent, who was placed in nomination at the primary election in April. The committee named September 15 as the day for the precinct primaries in Pawnee county.

Cassatt to Return to China.

Clarinda, Ia., Aug. 7.—Rev. Paul C. Cassatt, treasurer of the Shantung Union Christian university at Tsinan, China, will speak at the First Presbyterian church here Sunday morning next. Professor Cassatt and family have made Clarinda their headquarters during a year's furling and will soon return to China.

Child Bitten by Snake.

Diller, Neb., Aug. 7.—The 5-year-old daughter of Roy S. Diller, farmer, while playing in the harvest field where the father was working, was bitten on the upper lip, supposedly by a bull snake. Physicians cauterized the wound and no poisonous effects have been observed.

Corn and Wheat Estimates Jump

Brighter Prospects for Grain Crop.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Prospects for the country's harvest of corn this year increased 61,000,000 bushels during July, while the prospective production of wheat increased 20,000,000 bushels during the month, today's monthly crop report of the Department of Agriculture indicated.

Washington, Aug. 7.—The corn crop this year was forecast today at 2,576,000,000 bushels, and the combined winter and spring wheat crops placed at $14,000,000 bushels by the Department of Agriculture's August crop report. Last year 3,946,000,000 bushels of corn and 786,000,000 bushels of wheat were harvested.

The preliminary estimate of winter wheat production was announced as 589,000,000 bushels, while the spring wheat forecast places that crop at 225,000,000 bushels, compared with forecasts of 549,000,000 of winter wheat and 187,000,000 of spring wheat a month ago.

The production forecasts, based on conditions prevailing August 1, include: Oats, 1,429,000,000 bushels; barley, 184,000,000 bushels; rye (preliminary estimate), 65,800,000 bushels; buckwheat, 15,100,000 bushels; white potatoes, 339,000,000 bushels; sweet potatoes, 80,000,000 bushels; tobacco, 1,202,000,000 pounds; flaxseed, 28,400,000 bushels; rice, 32,900,000 bushels; hay (tame), 39,000,000 tons; apples, 134,000,000 bushels; peaches, 52,200,000 bushels; pears, 79,200,000 pounds; grain sorghums, 112,900,000 bushels.

The condition of the crops on August 1 was announced as follows: Spring wheat, 79.7 per cent of a normal; corn, 70.7; oats, 88.2; barley, 80.7; buckwheat, 87.7; white potatoes, 85.4; sweet potatoes, 79.2; tobacco, 71.7; flaxseed, 56.4; rice, 83.4; hay, 84.4; pasture, 84.

The preliminary estimate of total production of winter wheat (in thousands of bushels, 1 e., 000's omitted), by the principal producing states, follows: Pennsylvania, 19,820; Ohio, 37,162; Indiana, 23,529; Illinois, 25,648; Michigan, 17,447; Iowa, 8,978; Missouri, 26,482; Nebraska, 55,834; Kansas, 154,258; Texas, 22,522; Oklahoma, 51,258; Montana, 12,494; Colorado, 20,265; Idaho, 5,648; Washington, 19,426; Oregon, 13,305; California, 4,770.

Wilber Devotes Four Days to Annual Harvest Picnic

Wilber, Neb., Aug. 7.—The 12th annual harvest picnic and homecoming celebration opened Wednesday and continues four days. The affair is sponsored by Wilber merchants. Deadwood Omaha band furnishes music. Attractions are staged at the Country Club park, just east of town, and two baseball games are played daily.

Omaha's Welcome to You

HOTEL FONTENELLE. 350 Rooms—350 Baths. Rates $2.50 to $4.50. Noted for the excellence of its dining service.

Ask for Horlick's

The ORIGINAL Malted Milk. Safe Milk For Infants, Invalids, Children, The Aged. Digestible—No Cooking. A Light Lunch. Avoid Imitations—Substitutes.

The Steinway Grand

Preferred by Music Lovers. It's Rich, Mellow, Expressive Tone, full of charm and beauty, has caused discriminating musicians to choose the superb Steinway Grand.

Advertisement for Steinway Grand pianos, featuring an illustration of a piano and text describing the instruments and the Schmoller & Mueller Piano Co.

Rum Squad Work Disquiets Police Sergeant; Quits

Potach Protests Alleged Entrapment of Suspects by Federal "Stool Pigeons."

In protest against the alleged entrapment of liquor suspects by federal "stool pigeons," Police Sgt. Joe Potach Thursday resigned as assistant chief of the federal rum squad, commanded by Federal Agent Robert F. Samardick.

Police Officers Heinie Eosen and Eddie Vanous will remain on the squad, according to Police Commissioner Henry W. Dunn, and a successor to Potach will be appointed later. The commissioner refused to allow Potach to resign his place on the federal squad Thursday morning, but after a conference of the rum squad Samardick urged Dunn to permit the resignation and the commissioner did.

The case which prompted the sergeant's action is that of Frank Heiffer, 65, crippled fisherman and resident of the river bottoms for 40 years. Heiffer pleaded guilty in municipal court to illegal possession of three quarts of beer. The aged man's promise to plead guilty resulted in the illegal charge being stricken off the complaint, it is said.

Judge George Holmes dismissed Heiffer and declared that Andrew Baker and Homer Banner, Samardick's evidence men, disguised as fishermen, had begged and pleaded with him until he procured them a drink of beer. His arrest followed.

Another case Potach is said to have protested is that of five children of a South Omaha man, who are said to be going hungry while their father lies in jail unable to furnish bond. Nineteen bottles of beer are alleged to have been found in the home.

"I am surprised at the transfer requested by Potach," declared Prohibition Director Elmer Thomas.

TWO AUTO DRIVERS FACING CHARGES

Shenandoah, Ia., Aug. 7.—Continued war on speeders and careless drivers is being waged here. Robert Hunt was arrested Wednesday after collision with Frank Dutton's sedan, in which several teachers were riding. Hunt is accused of driving without lights.

Virgil Bunting, driver of a car in an accident in which seven persons were hurt, has been arrested on a reckless speeding charge. He is accused of racing another car when he collided with A. Wolfe's coupe, which burned. Faye and Ada May Barkus were the most seriously injured.

Be Want Ads produce results.

Closing 'Em Out Linen Knicker Suits. Values to 12.00, Friday 5.75. White, Natural, Jasper. F. W. Thorne Co. 1812 Farnam St.

Advertisement for Hotel Fontenelle, listing 350 rooms, 350 baths, and rates from $2.50 to $4.50.

Advertisement for Horlick's Malted Milk, described as safe milk for infants, invalids, children, and the aged.

Advertisement for The Steinway Grand piano, highlighting its rich, mellow, and expressive tone.

Advertisement for Schmoller & Mueller Piano Co., featuring Steinway Grand pianos and other models, with contact information for the company.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Opinions formed in the great haste of Peter Rabbit's life.

Peter's Second Surprise. Just wondering and wondering doesn't get you anywhere. It didn't get Peter Rabbit anywhere. It didn't tell him how those two speckled eggs happened to be lying side by side on the big, flat rock in the Old Pasture. So, still wondering, Peter started on. He had gone but a little way when it popped into his head that whoever had left those eggs there might regret for them. He hadn't anything in particular to do, and he could watch awhile just as well as not.

So Peter settled himself comfortably under a bush a short distance from that flat rock and waited. The dusk grew deeper. Overhead Boomer the Nighthawk was swooping up and down around, catching his dinner of insects. Melody the Wood Thrush was still singing over in the Green Forest. Once he heard Reddy Fox bark over in that direction. But no one came for those eggs.

"It's queer about those eggs," said Peter to himself. "Yes, sir, it certainly is queer. I believe I'll go back and have another look at them. The middle of that flat rock is such a queer place for eggs to be that somehow it doesn't seem as if they can be real eggs. Of course, I know they are, but just the same, I think I'll go over and have another look at them."

So Peter made his way to the flat rock. He looked over to the middle of it. Then he rubbed his eyes and looked again.

Then he rubbed his eyes and looked again. The dusk grew deeper. Overhead Boomer the Nighthawk was swooping up and down around, catching his dinner of insects. Melody the Wood Thrush was still singing over in the Green Forest. Once he heard Reddy Fox bark over in that direction. But no one came for those eggs.

"It's queer about those eggs," said Peter to himself. "Yes, sir, it certainly is queer. I believe I'll go back and have another look at them. The middle of that flat rock is such a queer place for eggs to be that somehow it doesn't seem as if they can be real eggs. Of course, I know they are, but just the same, I think I'll go over and have another look at them."

So Peter made his way to the flat rock. He looked over to the middle of it. Then he rubbed his eyes and looked again.

Then he rubbed his eyes and looked again. The dusk grew deeper. Overhead Boomer the Nighthawk was swooping up and down around, catching his dinner of insects. Melody the Wood Thrush was still singing over in the Green Forest. Once he heard Reddy Fox bark over in that direction. But no one came for those eggs.

"It's queer about those eggs," said Peter to himself. "Yes, sir, it certainly is queer. I believe I'll go back and have another look at them. The middle of that flat rock is such a queer place for eggs to be that somehow it doesn't seem as if they can be real eggs. Of course, I know they are, but just the same, I think I'll go over and have another look at them."

So Peter made his way to the flat rock. He looked over to the middle of it. Then he rubbed his eyes and looked again.

Then he rubbed his eyes and looked again. The dusk grew deeper. Overhead Boomer the Nighthawk was swooping up and down around, catching his dinner of insects. Melody the Wood Thrush was still singing over in the Green Forest. Once he heard Reddy Fox bark over in that direction. But no one came for those eggs.

"It's queer about those eggs," said Peter to himself. "Yes, sir, it certainly is queer. I believe I'll go back and have another look at them. The middle of that flat rock is such a queer place for eggs to be that somehow it doesn't seem as if they can be real eggs. Of course, I know they are, but just the same, I think I'll go over and have another look at them."

So Peter made his way to the flat rock. He looked over to the middle of it. Then he rubbed his eyes and looked again.

Then he rubbed his eyes and looked again. The dusk grew deeper. Overhead Boomer the Nighthawk was swooping up and down around, catching his dinner of insects. Melody the Wood Thrush was still singing over in the Green Forest. Once he heard Reddy Fox bark over in that direction. But no one came for those eggs.

"It's queer about those eggs," said Peter to himself. "Yes, sir, it certainly is queer. I believe I'll go back and have another look at them. The middle of that flat rock is such a queer place for eggs to be that somehow it doesn't seem as if they can be real eggs. Of course, I know they are, but just the same, I think I'll go over and have another look at them."

So Peter made his way to the flat rock. He looked over to the middle of it. Then he rubbed his eyes and looked again.

Then he rubbed his eyes and looked again. The dusk grew deeper. Overhead Boomer the Nighthawk was swooping up and down around, catching his dinner of insects. Melody the Wood Thrush was still singing over in the Green Forest. Once he heard Reddy Fox bark over in that direction. But no one came for those eggs.

"It's queer about those eggs," said Peter to himself. "Yes, sir, it certainly is queer. I believe I'll go back and have another look at them. The middle of that flat rock is such a queer place for eggs to be that somehow it doesn't seem as if they can be real eggs. Of course, I know they are, but just the same, I think I'll go over and have another look at them."

So Peter made his way to the flat rock. He looked over to the middle of it. Then he rubbed his eyes and looked again.

Then he rubbed his eyes and looked again. The dusk grew deeper. Overhead Boomer the Nighthawk was swooping up and down around, catching his dinner of insects. Melody the Wood Thrush was still singing over in the Green Forest. Once he heard Reddy Fox bark over in that direction. But no one came for those eggs.

"It's queer about those eggs," said Peter to himself. "Yes, sir, it certainly is queer. I believe I'll go back and have another look at them. The middle of that flat rock is such a queer place for eggs to be that somehow it doesn't seem as if they can be real eggs. Of course, I know they are, but just the same, I think I'll go over and have another look at them."

So Peter made his way to the flat rock. He looked over to the middle of it. Then he rubbed his eyes and looked again.

Then he rubbed his eyes and looked again. The dusk grew deeper. Overhead Boomer the Nighthawk was swooping up and down around, catching his dinner of insects. Melody the Wood Thrush was still singing over in the Green Forest. Once he heard Reddy Fox bark over in that direction. But no one came for those eggs.

McMullen Visits State Guard Camp

"Hello, Adam," Salutation Given Candidate for Governor by Old Comrades.

Ashland, Neb., Aug. 7.—Adam McMullen, republican candidate for governor, was a visitor at Camp Ashland Wednesday. Mr. McMullen is a former national guardman and served for six years in Battery A, located at Wymore. He enlisted as a bugler and served in nearly all the grades in the battery. He was discharged as a first lieutenant. During the world war he served with the rank of major.

While here Mr. McMullen sounded reveille, mess call and first call as well as any bugler in the camp. While in camp he witnessed a regimental review of the 110th medical regiment, the only national guard medical regiment now in existence. He complimented the men on their soldierly appearance and deportment and remarked that they compared favorably to the soldiers of the regular army.

Capt. I. D. Renyon invited Mr. McMullen to have mess with his company, Wagon company No. 120 of Kearney, Neb., and with a regulation mess kit in his hands he lined up with the men. He pronounced the mess excellent.

Wagon company No. 120 is one of the new units of the Thirty-fifth division train. Twenty men of the company are either members or ex-members of the Kearney high school football team. The other officers beside Captain Beyno or First Lieut. Guy N. Henninger and Second Lieut. William J. Atkinson.

Mr. McMullen met many of his old friends in camp, especially among the members of Company C of Beatrice, his home town. "Hello, Adam," was the usual salutation with which he was greeted by the boys of this company. Mr. McMullen expressed gratification at being able to visit the camp, and remarked that if the people of the state were more familiar with the work of the national guard, there would be no difficulty in getting enlistments.

Beatrice.—Beatrice chautauqua closed with Wednesday night's session. It is probable another assembly will be held here next year.

G. A. R. Hall in Madison Presented to Legion

Madison, Neb., Aug. 7.—Radent post, American Legion, and its auxiliary, banqueted and entertained the members of the G. A. R. and the W. R. C. at the G. A. R. hall Tuesday night. Herman F. Barney, on behalf of the G. A. R. post, and Mrs. Louis H. Hey, on part of the W. R. C., formally presented the G. A. R. hall of this city jointly to the Radent chapter and the auxiliary and delivered the deed. Response on behalf of the American Legion was given Earl J. Moyer and Commander J. R. Kinder.

Large advertisement for The Brandeis Store, featuring an illustration of the store building and text promoting 31,800 Excello Shirts at low prices.

Advertisement for 666, a prescription for colds, grippe, dengue fever, constipation, bilious headaches, and malarial fever.

Advertisement for NR Tablets, described as a vegetable aperient that helps with digestion and elimination.

Advertisement for the School and College Bureau of The Omaha Bee, providing information on school and college selection and listing various educational institutions.