

World Fliers to Land at Offutt Field for Safety

Ak-Sar-Ben Tract Not Large Enough in Case of Emergency, Says Air Chief.

The Jarvis Offutt field at Fort Crook has been chosen as the landing place for the United States world fliers when they visit Omaha, according to a letter received Monday by Maj. Gen. George B. Duncan, commander Seventh corps area, from Mason M. Patrick, chief of the air service.

Patrick's letter states: "The size and location of Ak-Sar-Ben field is dangerous for airplanes with the flying characteristics of the world cruises, especially in view of the fact that it may be necessary for them to take off with a full fuel load, making them very heavy and slow to leave the ground."

The landing field at Fort Crook admirably meets all the demands of safety for the city of Omaha, and it is felt that the decision to land at Fort Crook must not be changed, but after the expedition has reached its terminus and its mission is accomplished it may be possible for the fliers to against visit Omaha and land at the Ak-Sar-Ben field.

Nemaha County Has Heavy Crops

Wheat Harvest Surpasses Expectations—Bumper Corn Yield Foreseen.

Auburn, Neb., Aug. 11.—Nemaha county's wheat harvest is finished, is gratifying to the farmers, who early in the spring were disheartened, late cold weather having retarded growth. Abundant rains brought the grain up in unexpected manner, and not only did it mature well, but the yield proved heavier than for a number of years past.

Not in five years has there been as good a crop of oats and they are heavier and much better in quality than usual. The corn got a late start, warm weather of late has caused it to take a jump and unless there are unusual early frosts there will be a bumper crop in Nemaha county this year.

Callaway, Aug. 11.—The first load of new wheat marketed at Callaway this year was hauled in by W. O. Whaley of Sand Valley. The test showed the high figure of 62 and sold for $1.07 bushel.

H. M. Davenport, a farmer northwest of Callaway, reported a yield of 40 bushels an acre. Other wheat yields in this part of the state range from five to 34 bushels an acre.

Beatrice, Neb., Aug. 11.—H. W. Scheve, farmer and stock raiser living west of Beatrice, reports a big average yield of annual grain at his place. From a field of 175 acres of wheat he received 25 5-10 bushels to the acre, and from a 100-acre field of oats 26 1-2 bushels to the acre.

Atlantic, Ia., Aug. 11.—Francis Peterson, a farmer living five miles southeast of Griswold, reports a yield of 80 bushels of oats to the acre from a small field. The ground last year was used as pasture land.

Reynolds—Adelpha White Moore, a pioneer of Jefferson county, died at the home of her daughter at Sapulpa, Okl. Her body was brought here for burial by the side of C. D. Moore, her husband, who died in 1921.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS. It sometimes seems, somehow or other, whatever we do affects another. Peter Rabbit.

Almost An Accident. Curiosity is a persistent thing. When it is satisfied it ends, but when it is not satisfied it grows. Peter Rabbit tried to make himself believe he didn't care whether or not he found out if it was true that Mrs. Whip-poor-will had no nest. But he did care. He cared because he was so full of curiosity. He kept finding excuses for going over to the place in the Green Forest where Whip-poor-will called through the night and slept through the day.

Not once had Peter caught so much as a glimpse of Mrs. Whip-poor-will. It was hard to believe that she could be anywhere about there. But he had a feeling that she was. Whip-poor-will had as much as said so. When Peter starts out to try to find a thing he does dislike to admit that he cannot find it. But the days passed and he didn't find Mrs. Whip-poor-will, and he didn't find her eggs.

Then early one morning Peter happened to wander off a little to one side of the Lone Little Path. There in a little place where the ground was carpeted with brown leaves he sat down. Almost at once he was startled by a bird flying almost in his face. He didn't see her until her wings actually brushed his whiskers. He didn't see her because he didn't hear her. Like the Owl, she flew without a sound. Then she began to tumble about on the ground as if badly hurt. Peter was too surprised to move. He sat and stared at her with the funniest look on his face. It was almost a minute before he recognized Mrs. Whip-poor-will.

"Well, I never!" exclaimed Peter. "What has happened to you, Mrs. Whip-poor-will?" Mrs. Whip-poor-will stopped fluttering and tumbling about. She turned and faced Peter and in her eyes was the most anxious and worried look. "Don't move, Peter," she begged. "Don't move."

Peter did move. But it was only a step that he moved. He looked anxiously the other way and that way. His first thought was that Mrs. Whip-poor-will was warning him of danger. "Please don't move, Peter," she begged again. Peter saw no danger anywhere. "Why not?" said he. "Because you might step on my babies!" cried Mrs. Whip-poor-will. "Oh, don't move! They are right behind you!"

Peter turned his head and looked down on the ground behind him. Right close to his funny, little, short, white tail on the brown leaves were two tiny baby birds. They were almost the color of those brown leaves. The wonder was that when Peter sat down he did not sit down on them. Had he done so it would have been the end of them. There was no nest. There wasn't even the hint of a nest. Very carefully Peter moved away. Then he turned to stare at those little babies. Mrs. Whip-poor-will hurried to them to make sure that they were unharmed. "How did they get out of their nest?" Peter asked. "They didn't get out of a nest," replied Mrs. Whip-poor-will. "They were hatched right here where you see them."

Then Peter knew that Mrs. Boomer the Nighthawk had told him truly that there were two birds who do not build nests.

Francis Renault displaying some of the most gorgeous ladies wardrobe that has ever been seen on a Iowa state headline the six-act vaudeville bill at the World. Billy Wells and the agile Clair twins are popular favorites. In fact the entire bill registers more heavily than anything the big playhouse has offered in many weeks. Friday afternoon Renault will hold a star reception for the ladies and exhibit his many beautiful Parisian creations.

Most everybody who has seen the current musical play at the Empress theater says that "The Girl Question" is the most laughable attraction of the Bert Smith Playhouse have ever offered. It serves to give Rudy Wintner, a comedian of unusual ability, the biggest and best role he has had since joining the company. "Pay Night" is an added feature tomorrow evening while amateurs will be an extra attraction Friday night.

Northwest for Coolidge, Says Omaha Lawyer

Bumper Crops in Dakotas and Montana Forerunners of Great Prosperity.

T. W. Blackburn, attorney and prominent republican, prefers to obtain his political information in the open and first-hand. He returned Monday from a tour which took him through California, Utah, Washington, Colorado, Montana, North and South Dakota and Minnesota.

"California is overwhelmingly for Coolidge," the Omahan said. "In South Dakota the democrats and progressives are divided and the crops are so promising that the farmers are talking republicanism as a matter of course."

Montana Anti-La Follette. In Montana, we know, the wool and mining industries predominate, and when we realize that La Follette is opposed to the present tariff, it goes without saying that he is alienating the wool and mining men of the west.

In Minnesota it seems that Magnus Johnson will be re-elected and there is a close race whether La Follette will be first or second. La Follette sentiment seems to be strong in North Dakota. Coolidge sentiment is strong everywhere except in North Dakota and Minnesota.

Bumper Crops. Blackburn rode through the best agricultural districts of Montana and North Dakota and he said, "It looked to me as if they had enough hay, small grain and flax to supply the markets of the world. Farmers, business men, insurance executives and others in the northwest are getting ready for a return of prosperity," he said.

W. C. Blackburn, his brother, who is a ranchman near Lewiston, and who has lived 10 years in Montana, stated that this year will mark a revival in Montana.

Jack Rabbits Plentiful. Columbus, Neb., Aug. 11.—Game fane report that not in a generation have there been as many standard sized jack rabbits roaming around the Loup river valley during the summer months as can be observed along the roadsides now. Predictions are that the presence of an abundance of these rabbits will again bring on the local market the little animals that have been missing from the meat markets offerings during the past few winters.

Iowan Gets Job in Haiti. Bedford, Ia., Aug. 11.—F. C. Kingsman, county agent of Taylor county, has accepted a position with the government extension department in Haiti. Bedford will have no county agent in the future, the board having rejected an appropriation asked by the farm bureau.

Professional Men Pass Resolution Pledging Support to Plan.

Professional Men's club, at luncheon Monday noon, unanimously adopted resolution, offered by Dr. J. M. Banister and seconded by T. W. McCulloch, endorsing the idea of "Defense Day."

"Be It Resolved, By the Omaha chapter of the International Professional Men's club of the United States that this branch of the organization places itself on record as thoroughly endorsing the 'defense test' movement inaugurated by our national authorities.

"This should be considered a patriotic duty on the part of our club. The plan has nothing whatever to do with militarism and has not political significance. It is a simple attempt to stock the means at hand for our national defense. Be it further resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the commanding general Seventh corps area for his information."
