Mass Meetings at Noon With Parade at 4:30; Patriotic Program at Auditorium at 8.

The hundred Boy Scout buglers, toiling, "You gotta get up, you gotta get up," will awaken Omaha citizens to their military duties at 8:30 a. m., Defense day, September 12.

The scouts will be instructed in the proper bugle calls by the buglers of Fort Omaha, and musicians of the Omaha Musicians association will assist them in their task of getting all Omaha out of bed.

Plans for Omaha's observance of Defense day were announced Friday afternoon by the Chamber of Commerce committee, which is co-operating with committees of patriotic societies in arranging the program.

Mass meetings will be held at noon at each large downtown theater and short patriotic addresses will be followed by the American Legion oath of allegiance.

The huge Defense day parade will be held at 4:30 and virtually every patriotic and civic organization in the city will take part.

At 7 the auditorium will be opened for the radio program of speeches by Gen. John J. Pershing, Secretary of War Weeks and President Coolidge.

The local patriotic program at the auditorium will start at 8, and will include an address by some speaker, to be named later; community singing, a band concert and vocal numbers.

Song leaders for the noon mass meetings and for the meeting at the Auditorium will be furnished by the Concord club, and all music will be under the direction of Hugh Wallace.

JUVENILE CHECK ARTISTS CAPTURED

Police believe they have broken a miniature band of check artists with the arrest today of three grade school boys who admit having passed one forged check and burning three others to which they had affixed the name of Ida Blackman, principal of Monmouth Park school.

The boys are Guy Thrush, 13, 3174 Fowler avenue; Melvin Johnson, 13, 4701 North Twenty-ninth street; and Carl Gibson, 12, 3039 Larimore avenue.

Thrush and Johnson attend Monmouth Park school and the Gibson boy, Saratoga school. All are held at police station for juvenile authorities. Police are seeking others, pals of the captured youths.

Police believe immediate report by the school principal of the forgery of her name on a check passed in a neighborhood bakery and immediate apprehension of the boys has halted a flood of bad checks written by them but destroyed when arrest loomed.

HEAD OF CITIZEN OFFICERS QUILTS

Resignation of John Sterling, assistant sales manager of the Sheridan Coal company, as chairman of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce traffic safety committee was accepted Thursday by Clarke Powell, commissioner.

No successor has been appointed. Sterling declared that his resignation was prompted by the press of his business affairs.

Sam Houser, president of the Yellow Taxi company, is acting as chairman of the traffic safety committee since Sterling's resignation. He asserts he will not accept the position permanently, however.

World Airmen to Arrive in Omaha on September 11

Globe Aviators Will Be Honored by Special C. of C. Committee—to Leave on Defense Day.

America's "round-the-world fliers, heroes of 23,000 miles of hazardous adventure, will arrive in Omaha on September 11.

They will spend the night in Omaha and will hop off on the morning of September 12, Defense day, for North Platte, Neb.

This information was received from the Washington Friday by Maj. Lawrence S. Churchill, commanding air officer of the Seventh army corps area.

The letter to Major Churchill stated that the fliers would arrive at Fort Crook from St. Joseph, Mo., but did not specify the hour when they arrive. A later communication will estimate the time.

Arrangements for a celebration honoring the air heroes are being planned by a Chamber of Commerce committee headed by Robert J. Hanley, in co-operation with committees from Omaha patriotic and military organizations.

According to the letter received by Major Churchill, the stops made by the fliers after leaving Omaha will include North Platte, Cheyenne, Wyo.; Rock Springs, Wyo.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Selduro, Ariz.; Reno, Nev.; Sacramento, Cal.; Eugene, Ore.; and Seattle, Wash.

PITTSBURGH PLUS FIGHT A BENEFIT

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Charles W. Overdale, secretary of the American Farm federation, in a statement today, declared that the fight of western steel consumers against Pittsburgh plus has in three years resulted in a benefit to the farmers of more than $50,000,000. The recent order of the federal trade commission, abolishing

"Pittsburgh plus"—the practice of adding freight from Pittsburgh to destination, regardless of the place of manufacture—has not yet been made legally effective. As a result of the fight, Coverdale said, "Pittsburgh plus" had been abolished in the Chicago market as to steel bars, plates and shales, three years ago. Recent statements to the effect that the fight on "Pittsburgh plus" has not benefited the consumers of steel are utterly false and are evident propaganda by those who would like to see this evil continued, said Coverdale. Two Hurt in Crash. Phoenix, Ariz., Sept. 5.—Harry C. Crawford, wealthy oil man of Tulsa, Okl., was seriously injured and B. H. Stevens, farm loan expert of Oklahoma City, suffered minor bruises today when their automobile turned over on a desert road near Gillespie, west of here. They were en route to Oklahoma City when the accident occurred.

IOWA KIDNAPING PLOT THWARTED

Boone, Ia., Sept. 5.—Gordon Celchleberger, farm hand of Gilbert, Ia., near here, was being held in the county jail today following a partial confession of connection with a kidnaping and blackmail plot in which Charles McCaskey, wealthy farmer, received a letter threatening the kidnaping of his 6-year-old daughter.

McCaskey was instructed to place $2,800 in a rural mail box near Boone for the protection of his daughter from kidnapers. A posse of farmers and officers surrounded the mail box at 11 last night, the time designated by the author of the letter for the deposit of the money. Two men approached the hiding place, but escaped when they detected a member of the posse. Celchleberger was arrested several hours later. See Want Ads Produce Results.
