The Consecutive Business in Sport

"Daddy" Vance's smart pitching this year, including an impressive streak of consecutive victories, is the talk of the National circuit. Back in 1912, with the Giants, Rube Marquard hung up 19 successive box triumphs. Walter Johnson and Smoky Joe Wood each put over 16 straight before they were stopped. That was in 1912. Wood pitched for the Red Sox, Johnson for Washington, Jack Chesbro, old Yank pitcher—Happy Jack—and E. Reulbach, great Cub twirler, have a mark of 14. Chesbro accomplished his cluster in 1904. Reulbach made his in 1905. Walter Johnson, by the way, nicked a 14 straight in 1913.

By Ed Hughes

In the realm of the padded fist you find some curious consecutive business. "Pop" Em' Paul Berlenbach had the fistic world by the ears when he was bowling them over "by the numbers." Paul had dumped 23 in a row when he ran afoul of Jack Deane's right fist and took a K. O. himself. However, 13 of Berlenbach were amateur gaolots. His record, therefore, scarcely approaches that of Stanley Ketchel. Ketchel, in the beginning of his glorious ring career, scored 21 straight knockouts. There never was a bicycle rider to match Frank L. Kramer, who may now be seen of nights in the officials' stand at the Velodrome in New York city. Kramer won the professional championship 16 years in succession (1901-1916).

Meusel also crashed a four-bagger with a mate on base and Ward smashed out a four-pipe blow with the bases filled in the first inning. All told the Yankees gathered 17 hits which, besides the circuit drives, included four doubles. The White Sox contributed three errors, two of which figure in the scoring of the visitors. Joe Bush toyed with his opponents, holding them to eight hits and would have registered a shutout had he not eased up at the finish. His circuit drive played perfect ball behind Bush, the infield cutting in with three double plays which deheartened the locals in the early innings. Ruth, in addition to cracking out his circuit drive into the right field bleachers, collected a double and a single and walked twice in six trips to the infield, one time being retired on a fly out.
