For an Autumn Bride.

Decidedly novel in all details was the miscellaneous shower given on Saturday by Miss Clara Pfeiffer and Miss Carrie Whaley in compliment to Miss Josephine Allavie, who on October 15, is to wed Harry Pfeiffer. Suspended from various places throughout the rooms of the Pfeiffer home the 18 guests found pink ribbons which led them to a remote corner of the upstairs where a miniature electric lighted church, hotel and home had been cleverly modeled of card board and crepe paper.

Before the church stood a tiny taxi to speed the couple to the hotel and in the house were the gifts which had been sent by the guests for the future bride.

Pink was the predominating color in the decorations of the luncheon table where little parasols were used to mark the names of the guests.

Birthday Celebration.

L. Moore, Mrs. Hester Moon and Miss Virginia Capell, under the capable direction of Mrs. A. P. Hanchett.

On Tuesday of last week Dr. and Mrs. S. D. Maiden entertained these visitors at dinner and on Thursday

Miss Hess a Bride

Mrs. Morton C. Frost

Mrs. Morton C. Frost (Miss Edith Hess) was a lovely bride of the past week, her marriage having taken place at 4 o'clock on Monday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hess.

Rev. Paul Calhoun conducted the services which were simple in all appointments and followed by a bridal dinner for about 30 of the relatives.

Mrs. Frost, who was unattended, wore a gown of cream lace and carried an attractive arm bouquet.

Mr. Frost has taken his bride on an automobile honeymoon through the south.

Mrs. Frost's sister, Mrs. William Sykes (Miss Gladys Hess) and Mr. Sykes, who are visiting in Council Bluffs, failed in an effort to arrive for the wedding. Bad roads delayed them and they arrived two hours after the ceremony.

Tea.

One of the lovely events of the week was the tea on Saturday to which Mrs. Elbert L. Moore invited about 325 guests to welcome Miss Edith Kruckenberg, who visited her earlier in the summer and has just returned from a short stay in Shelby, Ia.

Autumn flowers in profusion formed the decorative motive for the reception rooms and the tea table over which Mesdames J. K. Cooper, C. E. Kimball, J. N. Flickinger, H. W. Hazelton, J. W. Kim and Miss Mignon Maynard presided.

Mrs. Moore was further assisted in her duties as hostess by Mesdames Margaret Flickinger, Marie Debit, Marian Hanthorne, Leona White, Lucy Kimball and Ruth Tatroe.

Miss Kruckenberg, who formerly lived in Council Bluffs, has spent the last three years in travel, a great deal of the time having been passed in China, the Philippine Islands and Honolulu. Mr. and Mrs. John Wadsworth returned Saturday from their honeymoon in the east. On Monday last they were attendants at the wedding of Miss Berdina Snyder and Stambrough Fernald at the Wellesley college chapel. Wadsworth, and brother, Edwin, to attend the nuptials and later enter Walnut Hill school at Mattick, Mass., suffered an attack of appendicitis last Tuesday and was obliged to undergo an operation.

They expect to be joined here by another sister, Mrs. Lewis Shepard, of Los Angeles, and will renew the acquaintances they had here when they made Council Bluffs their home.

A Vision Fulfilled

Twenty-six years ago A. V. Dresher, founder of the Dresher Dyeing and Cleaning establishment, had a wonderful vision. From the seclusion of his tailor shop in the Paxton Block he visualized the Dresher establishment as a modern, scientifically equipped plant supplying a superior dyeing and cleaning service to the thousands of people who were yet to inhabit the city of Omaha.

Today A. V. Dresher's vision has been realized. Four brothers, A. V. Dresher, S. S. Dresher, J. D. Dresher and C. W. Dresher, have devoted a life's work to bring to actuality this vision. To these men the building of a greater Dresher organization has been a family tradition—the joy of service.

If you have enjoyed Dresher Brothers Dyeing and Cleaning Service in the past you will enjoy Dresher "perfected" service still more now. Four large modern buildings, with six separate departments, dyeing, cleaning, hats, furs, tailoring and rugs—equipped with the most modern machinery and operated by the highest skilled workmen are now required to care for the business. Dresher Service goes to every State in the union and two foreign countries.
