

Dawes Joshes His Own Party

Refers to Political Sages on His Train as "Pee-wits."

Dawes Special En Route to Chicago, La Crosse, Wis., Sept. 27.—The question of "who are the political pee-wits among us" was being asked today by members of the party traveling with Charles G. Dawes, republican vice presidential nominee, on his Minnesota and Wisconsin speaking tour.

Members of the Dawes personal party, as well as members of the local reception committee, were among those seated on the platform at St. Cloud, Minn., last night, when the nominee, near the end of his address, paid tribute to the work of women in politics, and said:

"Some fellows in my own party, claiming to be honest men, advised me to preach a lot of inconsistent stuff and clap-trap in order to get votes; make one kind of a speech one place and another kind another place, and 'not' say this or that for fear it will hurt somebody's feelings. You don't get advice of that sort from true men. They want to know the facts. They want to get the issues and the want to work for what they believe is right."

Not Trying to Please.

"I am not saying that to please you or to get votes, because I will lose just as many votes from these political pee-wits back here (turning to face those on the platform behind him) as I will get from you ladies."

Dawes did not smile but the audience roared, and those on the platform although at first somewhat taken back, joined in the laughter.

Told later of the temporary consternation he created, not only among members of the reception committee, but among his own personal party, Dawes laughed heartily but indicated he considered there was "a measure of truth" in it, even though he had meant "no stir up, no hard feelings."

Speaks in Rain.

Dawes began his day's campaigning with a rear platform speech at Lake City, Minn., where several hundred persons had gathered despite a cold rain, and then stopped at Wabasha and Winona before crossing the line into the home state of Senator La Follette to make eight speeches during the day, including one in Madison, the home of the independent candidate for president. In all his speeches he hammered at the La Follette candidacy.

"We have got to get rid of these political pee-wits and blatherskites who are trying to make political instead of economic settlement of our troubles," he said at Wabasha. "They listened to the demagogues in Europe,

They learned that common sense was the only remedy."

An appeal for a full vote at the November election often times was combined by Dawes with his attack in the La Follette movement.

DAVIS GOES TO HEADQUARTERS

Washington, Sept. 27.—John W. Davis paid his first visit to democratic national headquarters here, conferring with Chairman Shaver of the national committee, and other party leaders.

Later, he met newspaper correspondents at the National Press club and was honor guest at a reception given by a democratic candidate arrived here from West Virginia where he campaign toured, and will leave this afternoon for Wilmington, Del., where he is to speak tonight.

G. O. P. CARAVAN TOURING ILLINOIS

Aurora, Ill., Sept. 27.—The Coolidge-Dawes caravan arrived here from Joliet today and was escorted through the city by 50 automobiles from Aurora and Elgin. After parading through the business section a meeting was held in Lincoln park, Herbert L. Moore of Plymouth, Vt., boyhood friend of President Coolidge, making the principal address.

He sketched the early life of the president and his family. The caravan left Aurora for Sterling, Ill.

KLAN IS ASKED TO LEAVE OFF MASKS

Sioux Falls, S. D., Sept. 27.—The Ku Klux Klan, which has announced that it will hold a parade and demonstration in Sioux Falls this evening, was requested by Mayor Thomas McKinnon to refrain from wearing masks in its procession. The mayor asked the klansmen to march without masks, if they do march, "in the interests of law and order."

Ganna Walska in Berlin.

Berlin, Sept. 27.—For the first time in her musical career, Ganna Walska has invaded a critical musical field in Germany.

She arrived here a few days ago and will give a concert Monday evening. The advent of the Chicago opera prima donna in Berlin is attracting much attention.
