

Sure of Four States, Says Sen. Wheeler

But Running Mate of La Follette Declines to Venture Opinion on Nebraska.

United States Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, candidate for vice president, came into Nebraska Saturday morning with optimistic comments on the candidacies of La Follette and himself.

"I am not yet able to give an opinion on the situation in Nebraska, but I am confident that we carry Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois and Ohio," he said. "I am of the opinion that Senator George W. Norris will come out for us."

The senator, who is known as the nemesis of Harry Daugherty, former attorney general of the United States, stated that in his recent speech at Columbus, O., he challenged Daugherty to discredit the statements made against him in connection with the Wheeler charges.

To Packing Houses. In the party with the senator are A. B. Melner, secretary; R. B. Martin, who assists at smaller meetings; Kenneth Dooling, formerly of the citizens' federal research bureau; Frank Walker, general organizer of the Brotherhood of Railway Locomotive Engineers, and several newspaper representatives.

In the local committee to meet the senator and Mrs. Wheeler at the depot were N. M. Stewart, regional director of the local La Follette headquarters; Rev. J. L. Beebe, chairman of the Omaha La Follette-Wheeler club; Jerry Howard, La Follette speaker; Dr. John H. Thomson, Frank Frost, C. C. Galloway, W. A. Hixenbaugh, Jr., W. A. Hixenbaugh, Jr., Henry Nagley of Council Bluffs, Rev. A. J. Kuhns, W. H. Green and Roy M. Harrop.

The senator, with Mr. Martin and Rev. Mr. Beebe, went to the packing house district for a short noon meeting, returning to La Follette headquarters in the Lyric building to join an automobile parade, which was started at 1 p. m. moving through the downtown district and going to the Auditorium, where the senator delivered an address at 2 p. m. Rev. J. L. Beebe, formerly state chairman of the progressive party and now identified with the La Follette forces, presided at the Auditorium meeting.

To Leave at 2. The Wheeler party is scheduled to leave here Saturday afternoon at 5 for Lincoln and thence on to Denver over the Rock Island.

During his Auditorium address here the senator outlined his agricultural relief program, submitted a questionnaire to Charles G. Dawes on the Lorimer bank failure and made some references to Henry Daugherty.

"Mr. Dawes says the agricultural problem is an economic problem, not a political problem," said the senator. "He thinks, in other words, that it should not be discussed in this campaign. In this process he runs true to the course followed by spokesmen for the interests in control of national affairs. They never liked to have economic affairs discussed in a campaign. After the campaign is over then the economic problems could be taken up by the bankers and the bankers' lawyers."

In Complete Accord. "That would be his idea of taking politics out of our economic problems. He makes it quite clear. He has explained his plan for dealing with agriculture. President Coolidge explained this same plan some weeks before Mr. Dawes did, so we may assume that on this question at least they are in complete accord."

The senator stated his belief that a commission to investigate agricultural conditions, as proposed by Mr. Dawes, would result in delays. He also asserted that for many years political problems will be largely economic.

Based on the reception congress has given most of Mr. Coolidge's pet measures thus far, it is not at all certain that congress would endorse his suggestions concerning farm relief, he added. "Congress will make its tax plan and rewards to the average man as well as to the man of large income. Congress took his plan to cheat the soldiers out of their adjusted compensation, so justly due them, and threw it out of the window. So congress would be waiting for the farmers' relief plan to be rejected by Mr. Coolidge out of the receipt, some time in the future, of an expert commission yet to be appointed."

Warms Up on Oil. The senator warmed up on the subject of federal oil reserves, which he stated were worth $1,000,000,000, and added that the question of what to do with them was an economic problem and at the same time a problem of national defense.

He also reviewed the history of the Lorimer bank incident and Dawes' connection therewith by reason of the fact that Dawes was at the time and is now identified with the Central Trust company. An excerpt from Wheeler's reference to the Lorimer bank is given:

"Mr. Lorimer's national bank was on the verge of failure and he developed the clever idea of changing it into a state bank. To get a state bank charter he was required to show the state bank auditor $1,250,000 in cash. He didn't have the cash. He couldn't get it in Chicago. He never did get it. What he did was to get Mr. Dawes to exhibit to the state auditor $1,250,000 of cash belonging to the government is to be radical, I am willing to be called such."

Discusses Radicalism. The senator added: "The underlying and all embracing issue is: 'Shall the control of the government be left in the hands of the small group that has cornered the national wealth and exploited the people, that has dictated our foreign and domestic policies to its own financial gain; that has corrupted those who should administer justice, seduced our legislatures, or shall the control of the government be returned to the representatives of the people, to be administered in the in-

Wife of Senator Wheeler Makes Home Sweet Home of Private Car

Cares for Radio and Commissary as Well as Husband's Shirts.

United States Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, vice presidential candidate with Senator Robert M. La Follette, has a woman directing his speaking tour. She is the only woman with the party traveling in the private car "Republic" which arrived here Saturday morning over the Rock Island.

The senator has known this woman for a period of years and has considerable confidence in her ability to direct a tour of a vice presidential candidate. She is a typical western woman, dressed in simple taste, hair not bobbed, and with a smile that just seems to say that she is glad to meet you if you are her husband's friend.

She is the mother of five little Wheelers—three boys and two girls—and she believes that being the wife of Burton Wheeler and the mother of five children is about the greatest honor that she could have.

Mrs. Wheeler is making her private car as much like "home, sweet home," as possible for the senator. She has a radio in the rear reception room and she looks after the commissary. The party carries a cook-

Mrs. Wheeler looks after the senator's shirts just as she does when at home and Saturday morning she advised him to wear heavier underwear when going down to the stock yards for a noonday open air meeting.

Wheeler Chortles as He Recalls Joke Played on Family of Omahan

"I Always Think of Jesse Palmer When I Think of Omaha."

Senator Burton K. Wheeler enjoyed a hearty laugh Saturday morning when he emerged from his private car at Union station and sniffed the cool morning air on the platform before Mrs. Wheeler summoned him to the breakfast table.

"I always think of Jesse Palmer when I think of Omaha," the senator said. "Palmer and I attended Ann Arbor together and on one occasion our debating team defeated the Palmer team. Palmer at that time was operating a boarding house, so during the still hours of the night, when we thought all residents of the Palmer hotel were asleep, we dropped their home with black and white to convey the idea of mourning."

Jesse Palmer is an Omaha attorney.

Harrop Quits Vice Presidential Race; Wheeler Appears Pleased

One of the sidelights in connection with the arrival of Senator Burton K. Wheeler Saturday morning was (1) greeting of Roy M. Harrop of Omaha, who was candidate for vice president on the people's progressive party ticket.

Mr. Harrop decided that he did not care to be burdened with the responsibilities of vice president, so he has withdrawn and will lend the support of his organization to assist La Follette and Wheeler in 17 states.

Harrop announced that he will be the progressive candidate for congress in this district.

The senator grasped Harrop by the hand and expressed thanks for support and seemed to be pleased that Harrop is out of the running as a vice presidential candidate.

"What's the charge against these women?" asked City Prosecutor A. F. Brungardt.

"Smoking cigars in a closed car at Thirtieth and Douglas streets Friday night," answered Detectives Trapp and Munch.

"Evening sake," answered Brungardt, in effect. "If that's all, why are they here? There's no law against women smoking."

He recommended that they be dismissed, and Judge Patrick agreed.

Wealthy Widow Is Slain in Home

Police Seek Grain Miller, Deceased Over Finances.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 27.—Police throughout the midwest were asked today to aid in the search for Vinton Perin, 50, of Norwood, a suburb, sought in connection with the murder last night of Mrs. Frances D. Rawson, 77, wealthy widow of Warren Rawson, Cincinnati meat packer.

Perin, according to witnesses, to furnish financial backing to Perin in a grain-milling business at Indianapolis.

Miss Nina Rawson, 40, a daughter, was wounded, and another daughter fled from the house when the intruder opened fire.

Perin, believed to have been defeated by financial worries, was said by police to have come to the Rawson home shortly after dinner last night. He demanded money, police say, threatening to "start a scandal" if his demands were refused.

When asked the nature of the scandal he is said to have started shooting. Mrs. Rawson fell dead at the first volley.

Perin fled. The only clue to his whereabouts was from a conductor on a Big Four train who reported at Bellefontaine today that a man answering Perin's description had boarded his train at Winton Place, a suburb.
