Our Prison for Life. If Monkeys Used Fire. Race Horses and Radio. Insulting Mohammed. By ARTHUR BRISBANE

H. G. Wells, for the time being stops writing weekly articles. Too much of a strain, he says, to write an article every week. He ought to try writing three every day.

Wells' farewell article asks, "how can we escape from the prison of modern life?" He tells how he made a little prison of paper, when he was a boy, put in a beetle, and heard the poor creature butting its head against the sides. Wells doesn't like things as he finds them. "I am against the clothes we wear, the food we eat, the houses we live in, the schools we have, our amusements, money, trading." He is even against the British empire and the American constitution.

The answer to Wells' question is: "You can't escape from the prison of modern life."

A turtle might as well discuss, "how can I escape from my shell?" Being what we are we have this kind of "modern life." When we change our civilization our "prison of modern life" will change with it.

We are changing, but Mr. Wells is in a hurry and perhaps doesn't notice it.

He might be comforted by Rafael Sabatini, also a philosophical novelist, who says: "A $25 stenographer today is better off than a seventeenth century queen."

So she is. The queen had more dresses, but no bathtub. The $25 stenographer has a bathtub and uses it.

Lloyd George warns the world "China is waking," and its knowledge of flying machines, explosives, poison gas and their possibilities is a danger to the world's civilization.

It will be bad for the world when the Chinese discover that, instead of dropping girl babies into the river to keep down population, they could drop bombs on western peoples and take their land.

Lloyd George says: "The Chinese took thousands of years to ascend to philosophic serenity; it has not taken them long to descend to the level of 'superior races,' whose highest court of appeal is abided over by death."

Human beings rule the world and find it worth living on, because, with all their intelligence, monkeys never learned to make a fire or keep one going. Scientists tell you that if monkeys had understood control of fire they would have burned off all the forests, ages before man arrived. Chinese, learning the use of TNT and poison gas, may be worse for our civilization than fire-using monkeys would have been to the world in general.

Colonel Green, son of the late well known, very rich Hetty Green of New York, is spending his great fortune on investigation of radio possibilities, building laboratories, making experiments with the help of experienced scientists.

That's better than spending your inherited money to build up a racing stable, and bringing up your own children to be a little more worthless than you yourself are.

Mustapha Kemal, new boss of the Turks, offers to his celestial boss, Mohammed, the last final deadly insult.

Having uncovered the faces of women, and allowed his wife to appear in riding breeches, after depriving Mohammed's Caliph of temporal and religious power, Mustapha Kemal is now raising money to build a huge statue to himself.

The Mohammedan religion absolutely forbids any kind of graven image of a human being. When the Turks captured Constantinople, and changed the magnificent church of St. Sophia into a mosque, they took away all the statues of saints and covered up all the sacred pictures on the walls.

Mr. Borglum, who will probably make the statue, ought to show Mustapha Kemal with a crowbar, opening the doors of the harem, and saying "come on out."

Georges Clemenceau celebrated his 83d birthday yesterday in his little house on the French coast, looking out on the wild waters where ancient Basques used to catch whales.

Clemenceau's health is good, because he is wise. A fighter all his life, he avoids all controversy now. Anger poisons men always, and in old age it kills them.

Picking a rose in his garden, he said, "I like flowers; they have an advantage over men, they are silent."

Typhus is raging in Leningrad, formerly St. Petersburg, 100 new cases a day, and they usually die. "This, added to the recent flood, discourages the Russians. The flood they cannot help, nature sent that. Typhus, however, could be prevented by cleanliness."

Rosebud Boosters Will Arrive Here as Honor Guests

Wednesday Set Aside for South Dakotans by Ak-Sar-Ben Festival Officials.

The Rosebud country of South Dakota, represented by a band and 150 boosters, will not be unhonored nor unrepresented during Ak-Sar-Ben week. The Rosebud special train, arriving over the Chicago & Northwestern at 5 this afternoon, will have aboard a delegation which intends to make a lot of noise in Omaha tonight and tomorrow.

J. W. Zerbe of Colome, S. D., president of the Rosebud Community Clubs' association, will be in charge of the visitors. The towns represented include Fairfax, Bonesteel, St. Charles, Herrick, Burke, Gregory, Dallas, Colome, Winner, White River, Mission and Witten.

Wednesday Rosebud Day. The Rosebud band will make its bow before the radio audience of WOAW during the dinner hour tonight. The boosters, who will be met at the station by local business men, will devote the evening to getting acquainted with Omaha and renewing old friendships. They will hold the center of the stage Wednesday, which has been designated as Rosebud day at the fall festival.

The South Dakota visitors will be entertained at the Chamber of Commerce at noon Wednesday. In the evening they will be guests at the electrical pageant and their band will participate in the event.

The Rosebud boosters sing their praises of the district along the Chicago & Northwestern line between Bonesteel and Winner. Although the several communities vie with each other in friendly rivalry, they have also co-operated. The results achieved by this co-operation have been remarkable and demonstrate, according to the members of the association, the effectiveness of unity.

Executive Committee. The executive committee of the Rosebud Community Clubs' association consists of a member from each town: They are Mr. Zerbe, E. E. Kvitrud of Fairfax, P. J. Donahue of Bonesteel, Archie Maxwell of St. Charles, W. S. Slaughter of Herrick, D. W. Forbes of Burke, H. L. Millay of Gregory, Jack Walton of Dallas, E. G. Barnum of Winner, A. Olson of White River, Wade Wickersham of Mission and J. C. Thompson of Witten.

AUTO CRASHES INTO WINDOW

An automobile with plenty of speed, but no direction, smashed to bits Sunday a plate glass window in the office of Harrison & Morton, realtors, 1921 Faunam street.

The car was driven by Mrs. F. E. Randall, 4123 South Twenty-third street. The car had been left in gear when it was parked in front of the company's office. When Mrs. Randall started the motor the car shot over the curb and into the window. Damage is estimated at $200.

JEWISH LEADER IS COMING HERE

Dr. Leon Branson, head of the Ort reconstruction fund for the promotion of the agricultural and technical trades among the Jews of Russia, will arrive in Omaha in a few days to assist in the campaign for funds here, members of the Ort association announced Monday.

Dr. Branson founded the association soon after the world war, and the organization now has branches in 11 countries. The association expects to raise $11,000,000.

It would require 100 milkmen....

One hundred men, one hundred wagons and one hundred small bottling establishments would be required to bottle and deliver the same amount of milk we sell from our plant in Omaha and deliver with fifty-seven wagons and trucks.

Our organized delivery service eliminates the waste of duplication as each route covers a separate and definite part of the city.

Because of the large capacity and efficient machinery of our modern dairying plant, we are able to reduce our "over head" cost on each unit of product handled. We enjoy a large volume of business because we share these savings with the public.

Just as good creamery butter is more dependable than butter purchased from individuals, so is ROBERT'S MILK more dependable than milk purchased at random. Bet better and more dependable milk at the same price by using ROBERT'S MILK.
