New King and Queen of Ak-Sar-Ben in Audience With Royal Retinue.

Nearly 4,000 persons attended the military and civilian horse show at Ak-Sar-Ben field Saturday afternoon and watched some of the most famous mounts in the army, including the veteran high jumper, Whisky, do their stuff.

John L. Kennedy, king of Ak-Sar-Ben, and Miss Emma Hoagland, the carnival's 30th queen, occupied the royal box as guests of Louis Nash. The following duchesses and ladies-in-waiting were in attendance on the queen: Miss Josephine Platter, Lenore Pratt, Gertrude Kinsler, Eleanor Scott and Dorothy Carmichael.

Also in the box were Mrs. John L. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Pritchett, Miss Hilda Hammer and Mrs. Reed.

Bishop Tells His Fledgling Pastors to Avoid Soiled Collars, Overeating

Sterling, Ill., Oct. 4.—In his address to young ministers coming into Rock River conference today, Bishop Hughes laid some of the brethren rather hard and created a storm of applause and laughter when he probed without mercy the follies and weaknesses of the clergy.

"Don't fool with oil and mining," said the bishop. "If you young men ever do have any money, take it in a good reputable banker and let him invest it for you."

"Can't get on such fasting," said the bishop. "But the trouble with some preachers is that they eat too much and the people are worse than the preachers. Nine-tenths of them"

Coolidge Given Endorsement of Church Council

Bishop Tells A. M. E. Conference La Follette Candidacy Is Plot to Deprive People of Franchise.

The Nebraska annual conference of the A. M. E. church closed its sessions Saturday evening by turning from its deliberations of church administration to the consideration of political questions. At the conclusion of several stirring addresses resolutions were adopted giving the endorsement of the conference to the reelection of Calvin Coolidge as president and the election of Charles G. Dawes as vice president.

Endorsement was also given specifically to the reelection of Congressman Sears, and the election of Adam McMullen as governor and in general terms the entire national, state and county republican tickets were endorsed.

Bishop A. J. Cary, speaking for the pastors of more than 100 colored people's churches charged that the La Follette candidacy was a conspiracy to take away the election of a president from the people and turn it into congress where it would become the prize for a disgraced struggle that would keep the entire country in a turmoil.

He also charged that the democrats were a party to this conspiracy, and that particularly Governor Charles W. Bryan was interested in furthering it in the hope that he might be the beneficiary through his becoming president by default.

Bishop Cary also called attention to the record of the republican party as a friend of the colored people and particularly criticized the democrats for their refusal to take any steps to stop the lynching evil in the southern states. Bishop Cary is a resident of Alabama and he gave first hand experience with the efforts to get the democrats to stop this illegal practice. The resolutions were signed on behalf of the conference by Bishop Cary and by Dr. L. E. Brit of Omaha, president of the colored Coolidge and Dawes club.

The meeting was held at the St. John A. M. E. church, Twenty-second street and Willis avenue, where John Williams, pastor. There were more than 300 in attendance.

All is quiet on North Twenty-fourth street, but the Finkenstoler family feud is not dead. It only sleeps.

The feud was rocked to sleep by Police Judge Dines Saturday, when he sentenced four of the feudists—three from Clan Stoler and one from Clan Finkenstoler—to 15 days in the city jail. Then he suspended the sentence on condition that the warriors should bury the hatchet, and not in each other's heads.

The four were charged with disturbing the peace, following a free-for-all on September 15, when meat cleavers and pop bottles laid low several members of both clans. The Stoler and Finkenstoler are proprietors of rival grocery stores.

Those sentenced Saturday were: A. Stoler, Harry Stoler and John Stoler, 110 North Twenty-fourth street, and J. Finkenstoler, 1102 North Twenty-fourth street.

"DOG HEAVEN" IS REAL, SAYS DOYLE

London, Oct. 4.—"Do dogs live in the beyond?"

The inquiry by the "dog world" was addressed to some of the most distinguished Britons, who replied as follows:

G. Bernard Shaw—"I've never had a dog stupid enough to want to live forever and I've never had a dog enough to wish him such a horrible fate."

Conan Doyle—"I have heard the scene room filled with the barking of dogs and they have occasionally appeared in psychic photographs. All of our pets of every sort, especially dogs, are with us in the next life. The bond of affection is one that survives death."

Sir Oliver Lodge also gave a strongly affirmative reply.

SMITH FORMALLY ENTERS N. Y. RACE

Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Declaring that the coming state campaign would be fought out on "the record" and not in "backing behind the United States navy," Governor Alfred Smith tonight accepted the renomination for governor.

While the governor did not mention his republican opponent, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, by name, it was believed he referred to the colonel when he declared:

"You can't explain what happened at Albany last winter by talking about the navy."

CARNIVAL TOTAL FOR WEEK 85,758

The crowd which packed into the "Bullfinch" Jubilee grounds for the closing night of the carnival exceeded those of any previous year. And there was merriment till the final hand of confetti was cast in the direction of some sleazy but pretty face.

The carnival closed shortly before midnight and scarcely had the entertainment seekers dispersed when the amusement tents were being removed and debris dispatched.

One unfortunate circumstance marred the closing night of fun. It was too chilly for the bathing girls, who refused to bathe, even when the Saturday night bathing argument was advanced.

Attendance at the carnival for the week totaled 85,758, as compared to 85,959 last year. It was, according to Charles Gardner, Ak-Sar-Ben secretary, a complete success.

A short cruise down the Potomac, continuing probably until Monday morning is planned. They were accompanied to the game and on their trip down the river by Frederick H. Gillett, speaker of the house, and Mrs. Gillett, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston.
