

'Greeters' Named to Meet Visitors

Greater Omaha Committee Endorses National Guard Financing Program.

Visiting delegations and prominent visitors will be made to feel at home while in Omaha under a plan launched Tuesday by the Greater Omaha committee.

Members of a committee headed by J. E. Davidson of the Nebraska Power company will be the official "greeters" of Omaha and it will be their job to see that strangers and visitors in Omaha receive a good impression of the city. The other members of the committee are Walter Head, Omaha National bank; Ballard Dunn, editor, The Omaha Bee, and E. C. Eppley, Fontenelle hotel.

The Greater Omaha committee at its meeting endorsed the financing program launched by the Omaha units of the Nebraska National Guard. The fund is seeking $8,000 for a permanent headquarters.

The campaign to raise $100,000 for a building fund and money for a proper endowment for the University of Omaha is progressing rapidly, according to a report made to the committee by W. F. Baxter, chairman of the university subcommittee.

The Yankton bridge celebration will attract many Omahans, according to the report made by E. Buckingham. "We should have a delegation of more than a thousand at the bridge opening in order to make a good impression for Omaha," said Mr. Buckingham.

T. C. Byrne of the good roads committee reported that delegations from many nearby towns are appealing for the support of the committee in their plans to gravel or hard-surface the roads leading from their communities to Omaha.

"These people are anxious to make good trade connections with Omaha," said Mr. Byrne. "We must do all we can for them."

Skeleton Unearthed.

Beatrice Oct. 14.—A skeleton supposed to be that of a man, was unearthed by workmen under the old I. X. L. barn at Fifth and Market streets, which was dismantled last week. The body is thought to have been buried on the site long before the building was erected there.

Fair Held on Rum Charges.

Callaway, Oct. 14.—C. O. Tappan of Gandy and Charles McClure of Arnold were arrested, charged with the illegal possession, giving away and sale of intoxicating liquor. Their bond was fixed at $600. Trial will be held October 22.

POLICE COURT RECORD TOTTERS

The second largest docket in the history of Omaha police courts consisted of 100 cases at central police station Tuesday morning. One hundred twenty cases, ranging from vagrancy to auto theft charges, awaited his honor.

The heavy docket was due to the prank of a practical joker who disbanded police court Monday before the judge's arrival, assuring attendants that there would be no court in observance of Columbus day.

A hundred ninety cases were on the docket on Monday during Commissioner Dan B. Butler's jurisdiction over the police department. The commissioner had supervised a score of raids in Omaha and South Omaha over the week end.

SOLDIER FREED, GIRLS ARE JAILED

Roderick Mesecar, soldier at Fort Omaha, was dismissed, and Edna Flander and Louise Lovely sentenced to 10 days in jail on charges of disturbing the peace Tuesday morning.

Mesecar said he was with Harold Metcalfe, 2520 Templeton street, when he met the two girls. Later, he said, they were accosted by two men who claimed to be detectives. One of the men pulled a gun and shot at Mesecar, the bullet scratching his thigh.

Metcalfe and the two strangers fled, but the girls and Mesecar were arrested.

La Follette Aide Fired, War Rages

Mutz, Ousted, Refuses to Quit; Nebraska Chances Get Body Blow.

La Follette followers in Omaha were thunderstruck Tuesday by the action of Frank A. Harrison, chief of the La Follette forces in Nebraska and adjoining states, in dismissing Otto Mutz, chairman of the La Follette state committee.

They were further perturbed because Harrison in his notice of dismissal to Mutz declared he was acting upon direct orders from the La Follette national committee.

Mutz was chosen state chairman at the convention of La Follette followers at Grand Island, and he refuses to be "fired." He maintains that he owes his selection to a higher authority than even La Follette himself—namely, the rank and file of the La Follette party members in convention assembled under the laws of the state of Nebraska. Just what steps Mutz will take to regain his power he has not yet decided, but from Lincoln Harrison to depose him.

"Harrison is merely a hired man," said Mutz. "I was chosen by a convention of party members regularly called under the law, and I will not permit the authority of the convention to be flouted by any hired man, no matter how close he may be to La Follette."

Fight Is Second Body Blow.

Those La Follette followers in Omaha who could be reached refused to be questioned for fear that any extension of the row might still further weaken the La Follette chances in Nebraska.

The Harrison-Mutz fight coming on the heels of the apologies that have been made by La Follette supporters in Omaha for the chief La Follette plank, the proposal to emasculate the constitution, has taken much of the enthusiasm out of the La Follette movement in this city and state.

The first blow dealt the La Follette scheme by Charles G. Dawes in his Omaha address, in which he exposed the La Follette-socialist deal, has been followed by a Kilkenny cut fight within the ranks of the party itself.

Harrison, in his notice of dismissal, charges Mutz with riding hobbles of his own, with seeking to advance the candidacy of men who had not been endorsed by the La Follette forces, and with generally neglecting the La Follette cause in Nebraska.

Mutz Is Without Office.

Harrison has assumed charge of the state headquarters and directs that all money for campaign purposes be sent to him. He has the advantage of the fight with Mutz for the reason that the headquarters rooms in Lincoln were rented and paid for by him. Thus Mutz, no matter how authoritative may be his credentials as state chairman, is out in the cold. It will be that he will secure new quarters

BRIDGE HEARING BEGUN IN COURT

Hearing of the suit of Harry Cowles and John Copenhaver against the commissioners of Saunders and Douglas county to enjoin building of a bridge over the Platte river at Center street began Tuesday before District Judge Goss.

The plaintiffs allege that the cost of building the bridge in that location will be much greater than the cost of building it at Q street.

Charles Ashe of Kansas City, an engineer, testified that he made a survey of the cost of constructing the bridge and found it would be $156,500 at Center street and only $143,500 at Q street.
