

Coolidge Choice Needed to Avert Chaos in Europe

Former Cabinet Officer Declares La Follette Election Would Undermine Present Government.

La Follette, between whom the contest seems to lie.

I depreciate all personal attacks upon La Follette, but I simply cannot accept his constitutional policies and principles. He demands that the Versailles treaty be revised, and to judge him by his following, he repudiates the Dawes report. I regard the Versailles treaty as an iniquity—a treaty of revenge, the temporary chairman of the republican convention called it. But we know that it cannot be revised. At best it may be reinterpreted, and then only by degrees. This is the way pointed by the Dawes report. It, too, may in the end prove impossible. But if so, time enough will have elapsed to take counsel with past experience and with future prospects. For the present, the best basis for a general conference could be found. As a result the conference has been held, and much has been achieved.

Provides Way Out of Chaos.

All the nations, including France and Germany, look to the Dawes plan for a way out of chaos. Under these circumstances, the defeat of Coolidge would be disastrous. Foreign governments would despair of our ability to sustain any continuity of purpose.

The plan would be embarrassed or even abandoned, and protestors against past injustice to Germany, however sincere, would lay themselves open to the charge of having encouraged the junker faction at the expense of the liberal German government, and of the overwhelming majority of the German people. Ramsay MacDonald has wisely said that it must be our purpose not to rewrite, but to write history.

Even more grave to my mind are the constitutional amendments proposed by La Follette. The arguments are familiar, and space does not allow their detailed discussion. I would even admit that any changes, however radical, may be in a measure restrained by conservative interpretation. But this seems clear to me.

If the ultimate decision upon the constitutionality of a measure is once left to congress, then our dual system of government is down to the integrity of the states is destroyed, and every constitutional guaranty of personal liberty which La Follette has so patriotically championed, is at the mercy of the first hysterical spasm that may seize a majority in congress.

Courts Must Be Maintained.

For illustration, free speech and free press embrace the right to speak and to print in foreign languages. It means the right to teach such languages in parochial schools. It means, generally, those personal rights that were not, as we must regretfully admit, adequately guarded by the bar and the courts. True, injustice suffered can never be corrected; but there is a vast difference between the temporary abatement of sacred principles and their permanent forfeiture. Our experience must have taught us what legalized arrest and search without warrant might and would mean. If compelled to choose, I am therefore much more interested in the constitutional preservation of these rights for the future than I am in an indignant dis-

Entirely Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mart, Texas.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build me up as was all run-down, nervous and sick. I ached and hurt all over so that I was often compelled to go to bed, and I had to have most of my work done. No medicine seemed to help me until one of my neighbors who was taking the Vegetable Compound insisted on my trying a bottle of it. The medicine helped me from the first, and the best of all is that I can even sew again without that awful, nervous feeling I was used to having. And I used to take crying spells, with such a blue feeling that I cannot explain. Now all that has left me. I feel so cheerful, and I have gained in weight, sleep well and eat hearty. Oh! I wish I had words to express what this medicine has done for me! I am a housekeeper and do every thing from the sewing to the washing now and it doesn't hurt me. You may use my letter in any way you wish. I will be glad to help any suffering woman to the road of health and happiness."—Mrs. B. F. BRANNON, 404 Travis Ave., Mart, Texas.

discussion about their administrative disregard in the past.

If I agreed with La Follette upon every other point, which I do not, I should have to oppose him upon this ground alone. We are told that if elected he would present no danger, because he could not secure the adoption of these amendments. True; but that explanation overreaches itself. His following is made up of a collection of discordant protesters. He has not done what Ramsay MacDonald did in hammering his following into shape upon the axvil of conviction. But be that as it may, I would not if I felt ever so secure, stultify myself by giving support to constitutional amendments that in my judgment strike at the foundation of our institutions.

War Passions Are Past.

Again, La Follette is applauded as the champion of personal liberty; and rightly so. No true American can forget his record in the days of blind intolerance, cowardly oppression and vindictive persecution by public and by private agencies; when it could be truly said that "War hath no fury like the noncombatant." I can not be unmindful of the injustice suffered by men and women during that distressing period. But that is past. It has ceased to be the issue. Much has been done by the present administration to remove that complaint; and today the question is, not who was right, but what is wise.

Those who upon mature reflection conclude that our institutions would be improved or safeguarded by the adoption of the proposed constitutional amendments, should of course support La Follette. But to vote now in memory of war experiences, unmindful of the tremendous issues immediately at stake is to indulge resentment, than which no more dangerous motive for public or private conduct can be accepted. To act upon resentment is, in some measure, to justify the treatment complained of.

When whole sections of our people threaten to adopt this as their guide, they inevitably make for the political segregation of race groups that must prove so disturbing to our community life. I do not assume to criticize old associates who differ; but the movement for concerted race action is so significant and is, in my judgment, fraught with consequences so grave, that I venture to appeal to the individualistic spirit that prompts men and women to regard the exercise of independent judgment as the best proof of American freedom.

Coolidge or Chaos.

To repeat, I assume that Coolidge is the only candidate who can be elected by popular vote. Indeed, in many quarters it is the accepted purpose to defeat him, only to throw the election into the house. That would mean resort to the

Daughter Finds Father's Body; Suicide by Gas

Two Children Find Door Locked, See Prostrate Form Through Kitchen Window.

C. J. Peters, 64, 2815 North Twentieth street, was discovered dead upon the kitchen floor of his home Wednesday afternoon when his daughter, Eva, 17, returned from work at the Johnson Baking company.

The girl found the doors of the house locked, and peering through the kitchen window, saw her father's body.

The room was filled with gas pouring from the set of the oven. Cracks beneath the door and about the windows had been stuffed.

Police broke down the door to gain entrance to the house. At this point Ethel, 12, another daughter, arrived home from Lake school. She broke into tears at the sight of the body.

The mother was visiting in Council Bluffs Wednesday. Peters was at home alone because the rain prevented him from going to his trade as cement worker.

Ethel ate lunch with him at noon and told police he appeared in a jovial mood, although he ate nothing.

The children said that their father had frequently threatened to take his life after arguments with the mother over the advisability of selling the home.

The Peters came to Omaha recently from Sholes, Neb. He is survived by his wife and 10 children.

G. O. P. CANDIDATES SPEAK AT C. OF C.

Johnson, Ray M. Higgins, Walter Korisok, Joseph V. Kasper, George B. Dyball, H. E. Kupfinger, Fay H. Pollock, Richard F. Wood and Charles E. Byars.

Next Wednesday, October 22, the democratic candidates for the legislature will be similarly entertained.

Wholesale Rum Plot Frustrated

Potach Seizes 180 Gallons of Alcohol, Expects to Nab 6,000 More.

Six thousand gallons of alleged government alcohol are on their way from New York to Omaha. The first shipment arrived Tuesday night.

With these statements, Police Sgt. Joe Potach replied Wednesday morning to the statement of Elmer Thomas, Nebraska prohibition director, that there is little or no alcohol in Omaha. Thomas' statement was made recently after a squad of federal evidence men, sent out to mop up the town, reported that they could find no booze, it is said.

Sergeant Potach, former head of the central police morals squad, has been working independently for the last three days on a "tip" regarding the large liquor consignment.

Sergeant Potach seized 180 gallons of the first shipment of alcohol Tuesday night in a shed at 4020 South Thirty-sixth street.

Potach had information that the shipments would begin arriving Tuesday night or Wednesday in a certain neighborhood. He located the shed at 4020 South Thirty-sixth street and watched a heavily-laden truck leave it. He crept up to the structure and found about 320 gallons of alcohol.

He returned to the police station for assistance, and on his return found that the booze runners had removed all except 180 gallons of the liquor.

The rest of the consignment from New York will arrive Wednesday or Thursday, according to Potach.

Kellogg's Bran—because it is ALL bran—brings permanent relief. Nothing but ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective. That is why Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is universally recommended by doctors. They know it brings results.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to give permanent relief in the most chronic cases of constipation, or your grocer returns your money. Kellogg's Bran acts on the intestines exactly as nature acts. It sweeps and cleans and purifies them. It makes them function naturally and regularly. It allows you to discontinue forever the use of harmful, habit-forming drugs and pills.
