

Heart Balm of $25,000 Asked by Omaha Girl

Iowan Is Sued for Alleged Breach of Promise; Unjust Criticism Blamed by Plaintiff.

Margie Hess, 1717 Park avenue, filed suit for $25,000 in federal court, Council Bluffs, against Arthur Ernstorf, Logan, Ia., charging breach of promise, Friday.

She charges that because of his failure to marry her she has lost the confidence of her friends and has been subjected to unjust criticism.

Trip to Colorado. According to her petition, she met Ernstorf in April, 1922, and he paid marked attentions to her. On August 1, 1923, they entered into a marriage contract, she said.

She went with Ernstorf on a three-weeks' trip to Denver and Colorado Springs, living, she says, under her own name.

In April, 1923, they went to Rochester, Minn., where the Iowa man was treated for cancer. He was in the hospital there seven weeks, she said.

They returned to Rochester again in June, 1923, for five weeks. She accompanied him to the Rochester hospital again when he was operated upon in September, 1923, the petition states.

When she approached the subject on October 15, 1923, however, Ernstorf flatly refused to marry her, she declares. Since then he has refused her request many times.

TRIP CALLED OFF, WIFE ASKS DECREE

Sam T. Fisk asked his wife, Elizabeth, Florar hotel, how she would like to go back to California, their former home. She said "fine," and he promised to come around with the car the next day and they would start. That was five years ago.

Since then he hasn't seen him, she testified Friday in domestic relations court, where a divorce was awarded her. They were wedded in 1909.

HUBBY KISSED HER, NEVER RETURNED

Thomas J. Layton kissed his wife, Annie Layton, 2521 California street, one morning in September, 1921, when he left for work. She has never seen him again, she testified in domestic relations court, where she was granted a divorce by Judge Day Friday. They were married in 1918. She said she ate and slept well, but had an aversion for work.

Druggist Asks Bankruptcy.

A petition of voluntary bankruptcy was filed in federal court by Charles McDermott, druggist, 3301 Cuming street. McDermott lists his liabilities at $2,398 and his assets at $173.49.

Bryan Cripples Labor Department, Injured Workers Lose Over $250,000

"Injured workers have been cheated out of more than a quarter of a million dollars during the first year of the administration of Governor Bryan so that Bryan and his so-called economy program could save less than $20,000," Frank A. Kennedy, former state labor commissioner, charged Thursday.

"This happened in spite of the fact that employers are willing to pay for the compensation and anxious that their injured employes get all they are entitled to from the insurance companies," said Mr. Kennedy.

"Governor Bryan's so-called 'economy' has made it physically impossible for the present working man of Nebraska hundreds of thousands of dollars a year, which they are legally and morally entitled to. The wage earners of Nebraska would do well to compare Bryan's pretense of interest in their welfare with his actual performance in their behalf."

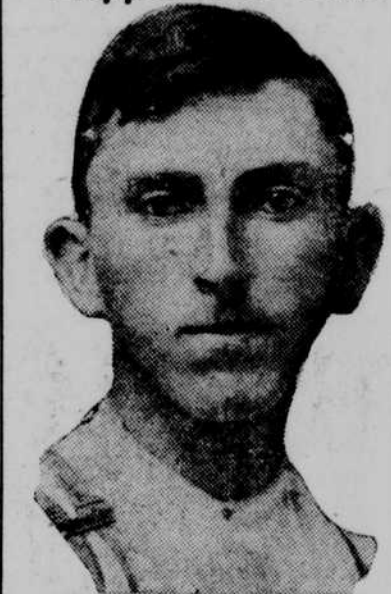

"When Bryan became governor in 1923, he found the department of labor functioning better than ever before. During the four years prior to Governor McKelvie's administration injured workmen of Nebraska received $470,413 as compensation for injuries. During McKelvie's administration they received $2,213,969. This was brought about by adequately financing the department so that it could investigate all accidents and see that proper settlements were made by the insurance companies."

Department Crippled. "After his election, before which he posed as a friend and benefactor of labor, Governor Bryan immediately demonstrated his friendship for labor by crippling the labor department so that it was no longer able to function properly. As a result of this Bryan's 'economy' 16,122 accidents during the first year of Bryan's administration brought to the injured workers of Nebraska $125,243 less than the 14,032 accidents during the last year of McKelvie's administration."

Mr. Kennedy says that an adequate department of labor must be maintained, as many insurance companies do not treat injured workmen fairly under the compensation laws. He cited as an example the case of Herman Sell, 18-year-old boy of Columbus, who was injured during McKelvie's administration.

"Sell was working in the ash pit of the Columbus Beverage company and suffered severe burns about the body and arms, crippling him for life. Under our law the company has to make a report, and settlement and adjustments must also be reported. After much delay the insurance company reported that it gave the mother $450. The mother of the boy said that the compensation laws were not explained to her and that the insurance adjuster said he was giving her the money 'out of the goodness of his heart and just to help her out.'"

New Settlement Obtained. "Here is where the compensation commissioner began to function. The department was adequately financed so we could make a thorough investigation, and as a result thereof the injured boy and his mother received $1,568. If this boy had been injured under the program which Bryan is carrying out, Heaven only knows what would have happened to him."

Mr. Kennedy said that because of his former position as state labor commissioner he is intimately acquainted with the details of compensation during Bryan's first administration.

Mr. Kennedy added that it should be borne in mind by wage earners coming under the compensation law that employers do not pay the compensation, the employers pay by the insurance in bulk, so to speak, and their interest is not in saving the insurance companies money but in getting for their injured employes all that is coming to them.
