

Comings, Goings
of People You Know

Mrs. Walter Wiley is in Denver for two weeks.
Theodore A. Leisen is at the Chalfonte, Atlantic City.
Mrs. Augusta Kunne has returned from a Minneapolis trip.
Mrs. T. Hilton Fonda, Jr., returned Friday from Milwaukee, Wis.
Mrs. Helen L. Seymour will arrive from New York City early this week.
Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Osborne have taken an apartment at the Carberry.
Mrs. W. D. Brown is home from a trip to New York and Philadelphia.
Mrs. Wallace Shepard will visit Miss Florence Hyde of Kansas City in December.
Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Hyson have returned from Chicago where they attended a convention.
Rabbi Louis J. Kopald and Mrs. Kopald will arrive from Buffalo to visit Mrs. William Feller.
Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Adams and the Arthur Allens are home from two weeks in Excelsior Springs.
Mr. and Mrs. Ward Burgess left New York on Friday of last week to motor to Omaha for a visit.
Miss Sara Lipman of Sioux City arrived last evening to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Victor M. P. Ganz.
Miss Ann McConnell is spending the week-end in Lincoln at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house with her cousin, Miss Dorothy Sherman.
Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Beveridge, Misses Dorothy Norton, Rita Holland, Messrs. Clarence and Harold Moore made a sixsome at the Colgate game.
Mrs. Lillie Meyers of Louisville, Ky., with her granddaughter, Florie, en route to California, are the guests of Mesdames David Wells and A. Hene.
Dr. and Mrs. George F. Simanek left for New York City Friday, where the doctor will attend the clinical congress of American College of Surgeons.
Adah Klopp Rutzen leaves Monday evening for an extended eastern trip. En route Mrs. Rutzen will remain in Chicago for a short period of vocal study.
Dr. W. L. Shearer left Friday night for New York to attend the meeting of the American Society of Plastic Surgeons and the American College of Surgeons.
Mr. and Mrs. William R. Blum, who have been in Beatrice for the past six months, will return to Omaha this month to make their home.
Rev. and Mrs. T. J. Gallagher and small daughter, Patsy, returned Friday from Louisville, Ky., where they motored to visit Mrs. Gallagher's mother.
Dr. and Mrs. John R. Nilsson left Friday for New York City, where they will attend the clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons, October 29 to 25.
Mrs. C. Dean Glover leaves Monday for New York City where she will spend a month. Her sister, Mrs. W. J. London, of Chicago, will join her for the trip.
Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Hullman of Independence, Ia., who have been the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Fallon, left for their home Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Fallon attended the Colgate game Saturday.
Miss Mary Urs and Miss Marguerite Fallon and Miss Dorothy Guckert, are weekend guests at Kappa Kappa Gamma house in Lincoln. They attended a house dance at Alpha Tau Omega Friday night.
Mr. and Mrs. J. Adams entertained at a birthday party Saturday evening at their home in Sioux City Friday with their little daughter, Katherine, who has been staying with grandparents, Mrs. W. Slabaugh, while her parents were guests at a houseparty in Dayton, O., their former home.
Mr. and Albert M. Walsh will make their future home in San Francisco, Cal. Mr. Walsh leaves within the next ten days and will be joined in about three weeks by Mrs. Walsh. Until her marriage last summer Mrs. Walsh was Miss Ruth Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Thompson of the Merriman hotel.

Misses Beatrice Constant
AND Jean Palmer

"Will Peacocks Strut on C. T. Kountze Lawn?"
Queries Gabby

SOCIETY is wondering which of the rooms in the beautiful C. T. Kountze home will be done over into a peacock bower.
One will have to be if it's new mistress does any re-decorating, for it is well known that Miss Maud Borup, who will take her place there early in the new year, as Mr. Kountze's bride, has a decided penchant for these exotic birds as a decorative motif.
In her studio apartment in Aquila Court, the peacock flaunts his feathers in every medium from wrought iron to gaily tinted wools, and woods.
On an old table set direct from Brittany for this balconied room, the latest novels are imprisoned 'tween bookends of rosewood converted into handsome peacocks.
Flung carelessly across the railing of the balcony is a white hooked rug from South America, where a peacock in the raw colors and primitive outlines of the native concept, preens himself for the delight of the visitors. On the glazed chintz which covers the chairs and davenport are peacocks in Chinese tints.
Over the fireplace one of these birds is found, made of wrought iron, a wonderful thing, which though conventionalized into a figure with a wing spread of five feet in diameter, is still an ornament in which the lightness of this unearthly creature is not lost.
Those who have seen Miss Borup in her tea room, have noted the becoming costume she wears, which includes a blue and a green gown and a bronzed horsehair hat trimmed with burnt goose of the same metallic tone. The key to this attractive combination was found one summer day, when Miss Borup gracefully waved a tiny fan of peacock tips. The feather's bronze, blues and greens synchronized perfectly with this outfit.
Miss Borup's whim is so well known that people smiled knowingly when they saw one of her headwaitresses wearing a black gown on which a huge silver bird glittered conspicuously. It was the latter's silent tribute to her mistress' fancy.
Gabby hears that Mr. Kountze is negotiating the purchase of a number of these birds, who will strut inside the walled garden, past the clear little pool, just as tourists have seen the famous birds of Warwick castle, picking their way daintily over royal lawns.

His right hand is bandaged and she has a black eye!
This is not a leaf from the South Side police court reporter's notebook, but an observation Gabby has made in effete Omaha society.
Coincidence only. And fortunately for them, their reputation for domestic felicity is sufficiently well established to allay all suspicion.
A balky starter compelled him to crank his car the other day. A sprained hand resulted.
She suffered a capillary hemorrhage of the eye at the same time, achieving from it a superb effect in purple and blues.
Sherlock Holmes and his esteemed friend, Dr. Watson, would have made some damaging deduction over this business, as we fear, were they still doing business at the old stand.

When society women go into business the same imperious treatment they have used in social affairs is used in the organization of their mercantile efforts.
So when Miss Daisy Doane and Mrs. W. E. Martin decided that they must have a quaint little house as a setting for their book shop, they had it.
Far from withdrawing to the residence section where houses, after all, belong, they built it in the heart of the downtown section, within a florid's shop. Nevertheless it is complete. The first house within a house in town.

First of all, a brick floor was laid, but after the fashion of quaint old floorings, with the brick uneven, laid straight some places and fanwise in others. Then cream-colored walls, almost hidden under black cupboards, and book shelves were raised with a black-beamed slanting ceiling to roof them.
An iron cart wheel with candleholders is hung on rough chains for lighting, and the other fixtures are in keeping.
Yes, Gabby reiterates, they wanted a house and they have it.

BOYS will be boys, we say indulgently, waiving any effort to prove the obvious.
Gabby advances as her thesis for the moment the less frequently heard and more proof-requiring statement that girls will be girls.
Three of our city's most highly respected women attended the Daves' meeting a week ago, an educator, a philanthropist and a welfare worker. You would know them all by name. They attempted to hold a fourth seat for a dear and belated friend.
"We're holding this seat for Mrs. Daves," they said ominously, to any one who approached the vacant chair with acquisitive eyes.
It would please Mrs. Daves, surely, could she know the attitude of respect with which seat hunters relinquished claim to the well-located seat.
The hour grew late and the friend who was to have "Mrs. Daves'" seat had not arrived. A hasty conference and the trio decided to abandon the chair, giving it to the next comer, who happened to be a dear old lady, thin, and rather pathetic in appearance. She sat down, grateful for what seemed to be a friendly welcome.

A titter, craned necks and interested glances from those around who thought that they, "in the know," were seeing the wife of a celebrity.
THE tired business man comes in for some humorous treatment in a current magazine article. He gets down to work at 9 or 9:30, poor fellow, and is obliged to knock off at 12:30 or so, to attend the Kangaroo or Cosmopolitan luncheon club, where for two hours he is regaled with good food, music, singing or dancing, anything really diverting, until at 2 or 2:30 he pulls out his watch and utters the words "It is just time to get in 18 holes before dinner. So do the days hear down upon him."
So much for the article. It caused considerable discussion in a group one evening, this week and brought forth the following interesting comment.
"Those may be surface facts," said (Turn to Page Two, Column One).

Tang of Fall
Urges
Social
Doings

Miss
Lucile Morrison

Young Omaha A'Traveling Goes

Among the young Omahans who are spending their week-ends traveling over the east, is Miss Josephine Ellick who will go to Providence, R. I., October 25 to visit her roommate, Miss Natalie Howard, whose guest she was for a week last spring.
Miss Ellick and her hostess are students in the Emma Willard school.
Miss Eleanor Bonnie Browne, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Browne, will go to the Military academy at West Point for one of the football games and hops. She will go down from Smith college with a party of her freshman friends.
Miss Julia Caldwell, who is also a student in Smith, spent last week-end in Springfield, Mass., the guest of former friends in the Emma Willard school.
A week-end in New York at the Vassar club with Miss Gertrude Gaston of Dallas, Tex., was on Miss Helen Rogers' calendar last Saturday. They saw "What Price Glory," Saturday evening.
A young foursome luncheon yesterday with Mrs. W. M. Jeffers in Washington, D. C., and attending a theater party following, included, Misses Dorothy Davidson, Patricia Healey, who was Betty Paxton's guest here during Ak-Sar-Ben week; Elizabeth Roberts, Miss Ann Young. The girls attend Mrs. Somers' school. When Mrs. Edgar Scott resided in Washington, her home was the center for girls from the school, and now, more recently, Mrs. R. Beecher Howell has become a patron social saint for the Omaha girls at Mrs. Somers'.

Fossoms Visit China.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fossom of Manila have written Mrs. Fossom's mother, Mrs. Henry S. McDonald, that they have just returned from a three-weeks' trip to Hong Kong, their first visit to that city.
Hong Kong is a mountain island, Mrs. McDonald explains. The Fossoms stopped at the Peak hotel, which is on the summit of the mountain. They enjoyed daily swims in the famous bay.

Armistice Dinner-Dance.

Among the first affairs scheduled for armistice night, November 11, is a dinner dance to be given by members of the American Legion auxiliary at Burgess-Nash tea room. Bridge will be provided for those who do not dance.

Former Omahan Visits.

Miss Luthera Egbert of Batavia, Ill., formerly of this city, will arrive this week to visit Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Komer. Nothing has been planned in honor of this visitor who is recuperating from an illness.

For the McFaydens.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hansen entertained eight guests at dinner Friday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Miles McFayden who returned last week from San Francisco.

The Cuscadens Visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Cuscaden of Chicago, who will be remembered as frequent visitors here, will arrive Thursday to be the guests of the A. G. Ellicks.
Mr. and Mrs. Ellick are planning to drive to Minnesota the first week of November to visit their son Robert, who is a senior in Shattuck Military academy.

The Ingerswens, Jr., Return.

Robert Ingerswens of Elgin spent the week-end in Omaha as the guest of his father, C. J. Ingerswens. Mr. Ingerswens, Jr., will return in two weeks with his wife to make their home here.

The Boyds Hosts.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boyd entertained at dinner in their home last evening for Mr. and Mrs. Arthur English, recently returned from the west.

Hallow'en Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Busch will entertain Friday, October 24, at a Hallow'en party. Twenty guests will be present.

At the Cavers Ranch.

Miss Almarine Campbell will leave Thursday with Miss Marjorie Cavers to spend a week on the Cavers ranch in Chadron.

The C. E. Blacks Plan a Florida Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Page of Omaha, N. Y., will arrive early next month en route to California to visit Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Black, Miss Halcyon Cotton, niece of Mrs. Black, who has been in California for the past half year, may visit the Blacks this month on her way to her home in Chicago.
Mrs. Black will leave in December for Florida, where she will take a furnished apartment, where Mr. Black will join her later for a six weeks' stay.

Dr. Hull to New York.

Dr. Charles A. Hull will go to New York this week for the Congress of Surgeons, and to return home with Mrs. Hull November 1. Mrs. Hull has been in New York for several weeks. She saw the dirigible circle over New York, after making the journey from Germany in three days.

Wednesday Visitor.

Mrs. J. J. Brown of Hannibal, Mo., will arrive Wednesday to visit Mrs. E. W. Bedford, who will entertain six tables at bridge on Thursday in her honor.

Mrs. Nash Hostess at Tea.

Mrs. Louis Nash entertained at tea at her home Friday afternoon.

Mrs. James E. Davidson
RINEHART-MARSDEN

Mrs. Wilbur
S. Davidson
AND Cornelia
Turner Davidsons

Drama league members consider themselves especially fortunate in having Mrs. James E. Davidson for their chairman of courtesies this year. She possesses unusual charm and experience for her duties. Just now she is planning a luncheon for Miss Ruth Hale, who opens the Drama league course on October 31. If Miss Hale accepts, the luncheon will be given that noon at Hotel Fontenelle.

When her guest, also pictured on this page, leaves for home, Mrs. Davidson will go as far as Chicago with her. The Davidson family plans to Christmas at Port Huron, Mich.

For the last four years Miss Beatrice Constant of New York City and her hostess, Miss Jean Palmer, have been almost continually in each other's company, as students at Bryn Mawr, where both were graduated last June. This summer they journeyed to Honolulu, where they were guests of another college friend. Miss Palmer returned 10 days ago, for the first meeting of the Junior league, to which she has just been elected. Miss Constant followed her from Denver, on Wednesday. She will be the guest next week of Miss Mary Morsman, whom she also knew at Bryn Mawr.

Miss Palmer will entertain this afternoon at a picnic for Miss Constant. Monday afternoon Miss Mary Morsman will entertain her at bridge and Friday she will be honored by Miss Peggy Reed.

Mrs. Wilbur S. Davidson, with her little daughter, Cornelia Turner Davidson, visiting her brother-in-law, J. E. Davidson, and Mrs. Davidson is from Port Huron, Mich., where she makes her home with her parents, and where her 6-year-old son, Billy, is now in school.

Mrs. Davidson formerly made her home in Detroit. She was a Smith college student and will be honored at the next luncheon given by the alumnae here. Mrs. Davidson will be honored guest this evening at a supper given by Dr. C. A. Hull at the Omaha club. Early in the week she visited the Tom Woods in Lincoln. Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wheeler will entertain for Mrs. Davidson.

Miss Lucile Morrison of Lincoln, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Morrison, is betrothed to Ray F. Stryker, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Stryker of this city.

Their marriage on Nov. 11 will bring to this city a charming young woman who is already well known here through her affiliation with the Alpha Phi sorority of the University of Nebraska, where Mr. Stryker was a member of Phi Delta Theta, and the Innocents.

Miss Stryker will build this fall for his bride at 4438 Pine street. Miss Morrison has chosen her sister, Madge, to serve her as maid of honor, and Floyd Stryker, sophomore in the university, will be his brother's best man.

Affairs of Week

Seventeen hundred invitations have been issued to the wedding of Miss Helen Hoagland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hoagland, to Loring Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Elliott, which will take place Wednesday night, October 22, 8:30 o'clock at All Saints Episcopal Church.
On the same evening Tito Schipa, tenor, opened the season for the Tuesday Musical club at the Brandeis theater. Otherwise the coming week is a quiet one socially.
The Drama league opens its season with a lecture on October 21 by Miss Ruth Hale. Mrs. Anthony French Merrill begins her series of six lectures the following week also, Monday morning, October 27 at Hotel Blackstone. Norman Angell appears for the Omaha Society of Fine Arts the first week in November.