

Republican national committee women from the midwest at the Chicago headquarters to confer with Chairman Butler. Left to right: Miss Bina West, Michigan; Mrs. Edgar P. Penney, Nebraska; Mrs. Paul E. Rewman, South Dakota; Mrs. John G. Battelle, Ohio.

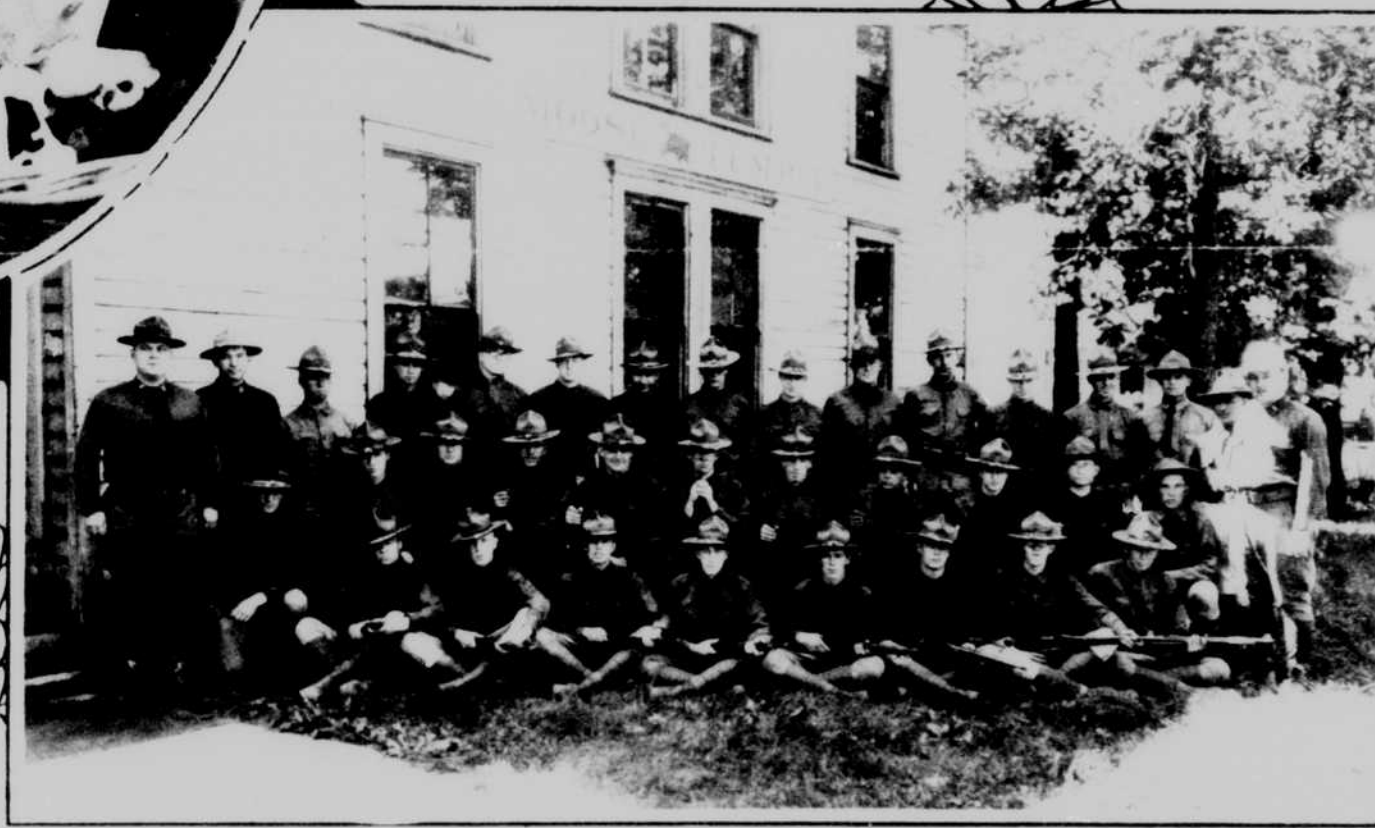

New commanding officer of Fort Omaha, Major W. T. Pigott. Photo by Dewell.

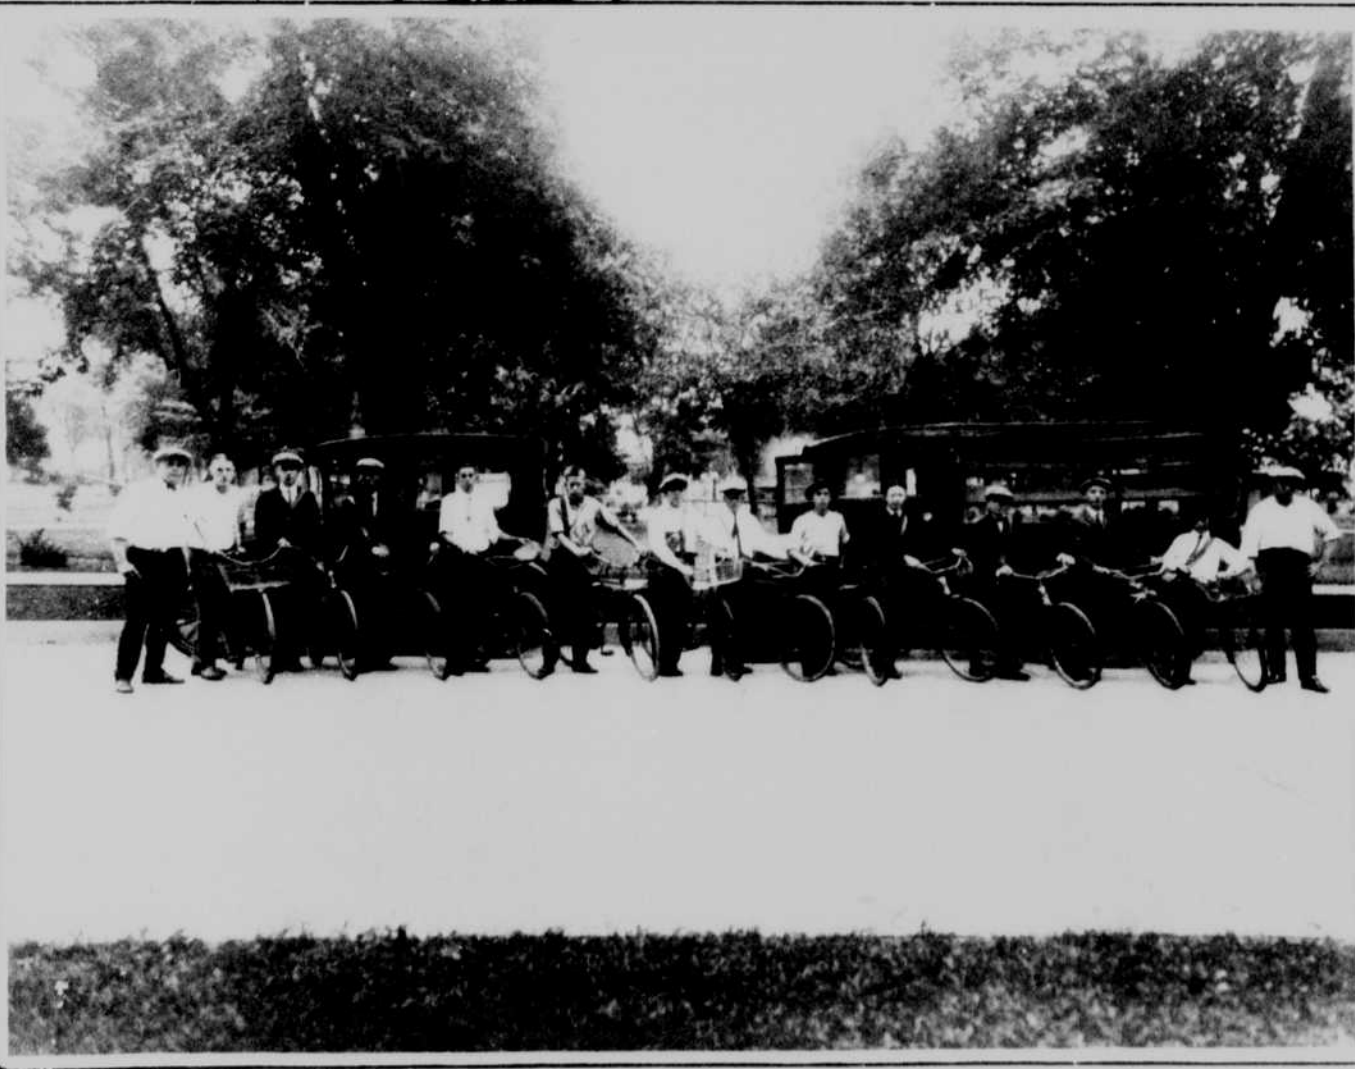

This little girl may have the best of intentions in picking up this puppy, but you'll notice the mother of the brood keeps an eagle eye on the youngster to make sure the puppy is returned to its proper place in the basket.

A striking photograph of Brig. Gen. Hulstead Dorcy, commander of the 17th infantry brigade, on his charger. Photo by Dewell.

Motor transport corps of the Nebraska National Guard, composed of Fremont young men. Top row, left to right: Lieut. Olson, Capt. Chambers, Hanson, Scherer, Douglas, Evans, Berry, Lillie, Hartsock, Hahn, Muller, Christensen, Yakish, Larsen, Trachtenberg, Lieut. Williams, commanding. Middle row, left to right: Edloff, Hall, Chambers, Carmody, Stork, Barrett, Jobb, Funk, Verbin, McArthur, Reed. Bottom row, left to right: Dahl, Peterson, Hill, Waterman, Simonsbergen, Winkelman, Metzinger, Rier. Photo by Yocom, Fremont.

These boys carry The Omaha Bee in Fremont. Left to right: A. W. Peters, agent; Virgil Peterson, Tom Mullally, Charles Stuart, Donald Meistrick, Arthur Peters, Lovell Edwards, Floyd Rosebach, Dick Herne, Michael Mullally, Arthur Mullally, Nathan Eells, Thomas Frede, driver. Photo by Yocom, Fremont.

A bit of Nebraska scenery. The Platte river viewed from the bridge at Fremont, looking west. Photo by Yocom, Fremont.