ITEN'S FIG BARS

Modern China.
Educate the Educator.
Worry About the Body.
Even Kings Learn.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

The Chinese are getting a touch of modern war, and don't like it. Some time ago the energetic Chang, who wants to boss China, was dropping explosives from flying machines. Now he has blown several thousand Pekin troops into the air, exploding mines under them.

While the Chinese fight each other it doesn't mean much to what we are pleased to call "western civilization."

But what will happen one of these days, after the hundreds of millions of Asiatics have thoroughly mastered our western war methods and decide to use them in extending their territory?
An "educator" of Minnesota is accused of punishing boys in the high schools by causing them to sit in an "electric chair," causing severe burns.
In New York state, another "educator" of the same gorilla type, confesses that he had beaten a little negro girl with a rubber hose. Her body was black and blue.
It might cure the man with the rubber hose to let him spend half an hour in a closed room with Wills, the negro fighter, the latter also equipped with a piece of rubber hose.

The Minnesota educator could be enlightened by a brief stay in a real electric chair, but that would be too drastic, even for that kind of stupid brutality.
Moses H. Cone, worth many millions, feared that criminals would steal his body after death. So when he did die his body was sealed up in a great grave of reinforced concrete.
In spite of all precautions ghoulies have opened the grave. They thought it must contain something very valuable.
Have you noticed how little men seem to think about their souls while they are alive, and how much they think about what will happen to their bodies after they are dead? A corpse left behind is no more important than a pair of worn-out shoes thrown aside. Yet men of power, from the Pharaoh that built the first pyramid to Millionaire Cone with his concrete grave, have worried about their bodies.
The question interesting to one thinking of death should be, "Where do I go from here?" Not "Who is going to steal my body?"
Kings, in Europe seem to realize that men and conditions change. For instance, here's King Alexander, who according to dispatch from Belgrade, says it isn't treason for his subjects to demand a republic, or to express the opinion that they ought to get rid of him. "I do not ask any man to relinquish his principles," says he. "We live in modern times."

Hungarian students, demanding the expulsion of Jews from classes in anatomy, have caused the closing of an important college. The students, if you please, complain because in the anatomy class, where bodies are furnished for dissection, no Jewish bodies were furnished. The reason is that the Jewish community guarantees decent burial to all unidentified Jewish dead. Therefore, none drift to the dissecting room. Plenty of Christian bodies arrive to be cut up, because nobody cares to bury them.
Nevertheless, the anti-Semitic students demand that Jewish as well as Christian bodies shall be dissected. The minister of the interior says: "While the students act unlawfully, I sympathize with them. I cannot punish Hungarian youth for a few Jews."
That's too bad, but, as you remember, the whole of Europe was punished, 20,000,000 lives were sacrificed, Hungary and Austria were reduced to beggary and humiliation, all because a Serbian happened to shoot one rather worthless grand duke. What about that?
While Dr. Benes of Czecho-Slovakia talks peace in the league of nations and discusses Japan's right to regulate immigration laws and other domestic affairs of the United States, the Czecho-Slovak newspaper Tribune brags with good reason about the military power of the "little entente." Czecho-Slovakia, Jugoslavia and Roumania have 400,000 soldiers among them. They could mobilize 3,000,000 on short notice.

Those little nations, very hard up, but very brave and not willing to stand any nonsense, are earnest seekers of loans from the United States. Perhaps the best way for the United States to encourage peace in Europe would be to stop lending money to Europe.
Distribution of German bonds in this country will cause many Americans owning the bonds to interest themselves in European affairs. European securities are mercurial. At any minute a war cloud as big as the kaiser's hand might cause the value of such bonds to crumble. If your money is invested in European securities, watch European news.

Dixon Couple Start Auto Trip on Their 30th Wedding Anniversary

Dixon, Neb., Oct. 25.—"Grandpa" and "Grandma" McGowan, according to their annual custom, left their home here to celebrate their wedding anniversary without stating definitely where they were going. They began their first honeymoon in a horse-drawn vehicle 30 years ago and have lived here during their entire married life. It was learned that they intended to buy a new automobile in which to travel while celebrating their 30th anniversary and it was predicted that before their 50th anniversary they would be making their yearly honeymoon trips in an airplane.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE SAYS:
We do not need to import any foreign economic ideas of any foreign government. We had better stick to the American brand of wages. Americans had better stay American.

A competent housewife chooses sensible food

Old Mother Hubbard might have been popular in her day, but as you all will admit, such an improvident housewife would not stand the "ghost of a show" today with the homemaker who takes a pride in providing a sensible, well balanced diet for her family.

Peter Pan Bread is a sensible, well balanced food that will satisfy you. It is made from best ingredients, and by a bakery that has served faithfully for over thirty-five years.
