

Scrubs Changed for Purebred Sires Sold for Slaughter

Thirty-One Bulls Collected in Nebraska by Livestock Special Bring Only $645 in Omaha Market.

All livestock receipt records at the Union Stockyards were broken Friday morning.

Not in the number received, but in the kind. There never was such a carload of cattle received before in all the history of the yards. It consisted of 31 scrub bulls collected by the Burlington purchased side train in exchange for an equal number of purebreds. Scrubby, deformed, irregular, vicious, vile and insignificant, they made a collection worthy of preservation in history. They will be temporarily preserved in the form of bologna.

One of the terms of the contract for exchange was that the scrub bulls should be sold on the Omaha market and immediately slaughtered, thus forever removing them from the state. Each of the 31 communities vied with the other in securing the scrabbiest scrub possible, and the result was unique. But Franklin won the blue ribbon for real scrub-biness.

The 31 purebred sires distributed were valued at $6,000, and the 31 scrubs sold for a total of $645.70. Ordinarily cattle for the market ride to their death in stock cars, but not so with these scrubs. They rode to their death in state, being housed in especially fitted cars and nicely bedded down. There were four exceptions. These were either too big or too vicious to be handled in the pens provided.

General Manager Flynn of the Burlington accompanied the special the last three days of the trip, and on arrival at Omaha expressed his satisfaction with the train's reception at all points and with the interest shown by the people everywhere. He was also highly pleased with the final disposition of the scrubs.

Griffing, both of Table Rock.

Thieves Frightened Away.

Thieves who entered the South Side drug store, Twenty-fourth and L streets, early Friday morning, were frightened away without their loot. A pile of cigars, toilet articles and other small articles was found in the center of the floor, apparently ready to be carried away. Police believe that the thieves were in search of drugs.

DILLER PIONEER FOUND DEAD IN BED

Diller, Neb., Oct. 24.—A. L. Tinstman, 72, was discovered dead in his bed Wednesday. He had been in his usual good health the previous day and was not known to have been ill. Local physicians gave the cause of death as heart failure.

Mr. Tinstman was born in Pennsylvania and came to Nebraska in 1880, settling near Diller. He was principally responsible for the platting of Diller, paying a difference in the price of the land and settling a dispute over a townsite two miles west of the Diller site. He did considerable grading and location work in this vicinity, both for the town and for the Burlington railway when it built into Diller from Wymore. He was a former member of the board of education, having been on the board when the present schoolhouse was built in 1895, and also served several terms on the town board.

For the past 23 years he has been manager for the Central Granaries company and Harris Brothers elevators. He is a heavy property owner here and is widely known and respected. A wife, two sons and two daughters survive him.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD IN BOX

Albion, Oct. 24.—Mrs. A. J. McKelvie, 75, living at St. Edward, was found dead in a large box in the attic of her home.

She lived with a granddaughter who attended school. Upon the girl's return home at noon her grandmother was missing and persistent search failed to find her. The whole community joined in the search, and the river near by was dragged. Late in the afternoon her body was found. It is supposed that as she was transferring quilts and comforters from the box to a shelf overhead, she was taken with a fainting spell or stroke and fell into the box and the bed clothes fell on top of her and may have smothered her to death. She was one of the oldest residents of St. Edward.

Woman Injured in Fall.

Beatrice, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Arthur Black of Liberty sustained a severe injury to her spine and ugly contusions about the head when she slipped and fell down the cellar stairs at her home.
