The liberals will fight on," the Chronicle says. "The tory majority will lead to warfare between extreme reaction and radical direct action...

The liberal London Daily News predicts that the victory will mean a renewal of "competitive armament, international distrust and suspicion."

The Daily Herald, labor organ, prints Premier MacDonald's statement declaring that "labor fought against all the interests—the press, the peers and the wealth of the land, yet polled an increased popular vote."

The Tories polled 7,597,804, while labor polled 5,536,828 and the liberals 2,944,081. The liberal figures fell off almost 1,500,000 from last year's totals.

Writes Dancer; Then Mate Finds Note Mysterious "Mr. English" to Figure in Divorce Suit of Gayle Burlingame.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 31.—Just how deeply Polly Day, the dancer, yearns for the ideal and beautiful things of life was described by her husband, Gayle Burlingame, who is suing for divorce.

Polly characterized the young man as a gross materialist in an interview today and said existence with him was impossible.

Burlingame laughed at the dancer's description of him and replied: "Gross materialist? Me? And she a yearning idealist? Oh, boy, page Mr. English! Wait, I'll show you some letters."

He went to a cabinet and withdrew a stack of correspondence. Shuffling through the leaves, he pulled out one and offered it for inspection. The letter, written to an unidentified friend on stationery from a New York hotel, was signed "Polly," and Burlingame said the handwriting was that of his wife.

"I met Mr. English tonight. He took me to dinner and a show. Honestly, I felt foolish with this old man falling all over me as he did—you know the funny old boy is falling for me. Gosh, these men!"

"He is the funniest thing I ever met. I laugh whenever I think of him—nevertheless, he knows Sam Harris very well, which is not going to hurt me in the least—and he is a senator, don'tcha know?"

"Oh, yes, I shall be very nice to him—perhaps he will pay my hotel bill for me. I laugh whenever I think of him—nevertheless, he knows Sam Harris very well, which is not going to hurt me in the least—and he is a senator, don'tcha know?"

"I have no work, no money, no friends. I am going to Fairmount cemetery to commit suicide."

At the cemetery the officers found Ferris wandering between the tombstones, apparently in a dazed condition. A loaded pistol was found in his pocket.

He was taken to the police station, where he was questioned. He told officers that he "hadn't really meant" what he said in his note, which he left Friday morning in the office of a friend, W. A. Raser, Smith building. Raser notified the police.

Ferris declared he had been trying in vain for months to find work of some sort. He was formerly an insurance man in Council Bluffs. He is being held temporarily at the city jail.

He is not married, and has no permanent home address.

from his twin." That sure is a great line and they do fall—daddy love him baby—only heaven help me when they find I'm married.

"I'm a wee bit worried, but I guess I can manage—I generally do. E. E. calls me a sweet little baby doll—will you get that from a man half a million years old? The other one calls me an angel child, and that from a man who is old enough to know better."

"Life is funny—it is also too much for my poor brain to grasp. Shall read until the phone call comes. Will write you more tomorrow. G night, dear grown up baby. POLLY."

Burlingame refuses to reveal the identity of "Neil Dear," but he remarked that he was aware of Mr. English's identity, address and other important details. He said other letters might be made public if necessary to demonstrate that Polly was not altogether an altruist in her act.

Mayor Urges Display of Patriotism; Omaha Women Win Prize.

Mayor Dahlgren today heartily endorsed the suggestion of William M. Butler, chairman of the national republican committee, that homes, business firms and public buildings should fly the Stars and Stripes on election day.

"Election day is really citizens' day," said Mayor Dahlgren. "Fly the Stars and Stripes from your homes on election day and make it a great patriotic occasion," said Chairman Butler in a telegram to Mrs. Draper Smith, prominent in republican politics here.

Mr. Butler in his telegram also lauded the work of the republican women in this election. Mr. Butler said: "An important election confronts us to uphold the constitution and preserve uninterrupted stability and prosperity. It is essential the full republican vote be cast for Coolidge and Dawes. The service of the women has been inspiring and unsurpassed. It deserves the grateful appreciation of the republican party as upholders of the constitution."

The organization work among the women has been carried on here by Mrs. L. M. Lord, vice chairman of the Douglas county central committee. "Mrs. Lord and her other women workers have been laboring faithfully from early morning until late at night for the great republican cause," said County Chairman O. E. Engler. "They deserve the excellent commendation of Chairman Butler."

COOLIDGE, DAVIS ON AIR MONDAY

Washington, Oct. 31.—The radio "hook-up" by which President Coolidge will make his final address next Monday night, also will carry a speech by John W. Davis, plans having been completed by telephone officials to make facilities available to the democratic candidate on the same night, but at a different hour.

Mr. Davis will begin his address at 9:15 p. m., eastern standard time and President Coolidge will follow. The democratic candidate will talk from New York, while the president's speech will be broadcast from the White House.

Twenty-three stations will be hooked up in the chain extending from coast to coast, and radio experts expect the two candidates to reach the largest audience ever to hear an address.

The presence of two major presidential candidates on the same platform, figuratively, and on the eve of an election, likewise will mark an epoch in political campaigning.

Guards Foil Plot to Free Prisoner

Bluffs Deputy Sheriffs Surround Building on Tip Accomplices Are Near.

All available sheriff's officers in Council Bluffs were rushed to the county jail Thursday night to forestall a supposed attempt to rescue Harry H. Raymond, held as a suspect in the robbery of the Little Sioux (Ia.) bank October 21.

The entire force of deputies guarded the jail building for three hours and an unusually heavy guard was kept throughout the night. The night passed without trouble, however.

Sheriff P. A. Lainsou ordered the guard when he received information from a secret source that companions of Raymond were assembling in the city and planned an onslaught against the jail.

Roland N. Fuller, 39, was arrested as he was loitering near the jail, but was not suspected of complicity in a release plot. He was dismissed when arraigned in police court Friday morning on a charge of being disorderly.

Ezra Brantine, assistant state counsel in charge of the prosecution of the Kansas bank bandits, arrived in Council Bluffs Friday morning and positively identified Raymond as Ed Carroll, who escaped from jail at Newton, Kan., after his confederates had blown open the jail with nitroglycerine.

Brantine declared that Raymond's gang consists of a dozen men, all of them desperate characters, and he warned sheriff's officers to guard constantly against an attempt to effect his release.
