

Candidate Sums Up Democracy's Case in New York Talk

"Third Party Has Absolutely No Chance," John W. Davis Declares in Closing Campaign.

By Associated Press. New York, Nov. 1.—John W. Davis summed up his case tonight and rested his campaign for the presidency, so far as he personally is concerned, with the jury of American voters.

His closing argument, delivered in Carnegie hall here, was an "appeal to reason and conscience rather than to prejudice," Mr. Davis said.

Summing up his arguments in behalf of the democratic national ticket, headed by himself and Governor Charles W. Bryan, Mr. Davis told his audience the decision before the country could not be left to impulse but should be arrived at "soberly, reverently and in the fear of God."

"We owe it to ourselves and to those who shall come after us to make sure that we are guided by no spirit of blind partisanship or political rancor, but that we act, as the prayer book has it, soberly, reverently and in the fear of God."

Claims New York "Safe."

In the same tone of seriousness, the candidate turned to the political situation in New York state, declaring the result there was not in doubt.

Regarding the national campaign, Mr. Davis said he had tried as the nominee of the democratic party for the last three months to "direct the public mind to the questions which should decide this election."

"Not the least of the moral issues which weigh upon us," he continued, "is the towering question of the contribution America shall make to the great cause of disarmament and world peace. There are solemn pledges to the men and women of this generation, to those who live as well as to those who fell in our defense, that we are still waiting for redemption.

There are duties that we owe to generations yet unborn. Is it enough for ourselves, is it enough for them, that we should live alone between our oceans in proud reliance on material strength, or shall we join with other free nations in doing all that can be done to create a new and better world?

"That it is proper to refuse to either powers the right to discuss or settle our domestic questions, no man will dispute. I am equally unwilling that they should discuss and settle in our absence foreign questions in which we have a vital interest. I apprehend that the interests of America will surely suffer if she deliberately withdraws when all the other nations of the world assemble to discuss matters of world wide concern. It is not necessary, in order to preserve her independence or protect her from the risk of being embroiled in alien quarrels, that she should occupy merely the role of a "spectator" when the nations come together.

Ambitions for Party

"I am not without great ambition for my party. I shall rejoice when it is called again to the service of the nation and given an opportunity to carry out the policies it has espoused. I wish to see it lead once more the forward march along the pathway illuminated by our ancient lights, but I would not have it to sell any portion of its birthright or purchase office at the price of any promises it was unable or unwilling or ashamed to perform. As the only instrument through which any change can be effected at this time, it has the right to demand and exact the free and voluntary support of all who are disaffected with existing conditions and hope for their improvement.

WIFE, MATE RUN FOR SAME OFFICE

By International News Service. Perryville, Mo., Nov. 1.—Perhaps the first contest of its kind in the United States is the race this year in Wayne county, Mo., between a man and his wife as candidates for the same office on opposite tickets.

F. C. Yates, an undertaker of Piedmont, Mo., was nominated at the primary election on the democratic ticket for coroner, and then the republican county committee placed Mrs. Yates on the republican ticket for the same office.

"Some think the case a case of 'heads I win, tails you lose.' But Yates is trying hard to win, supplying the gold-headed cigars to the republican party, and the ladies cordially wherever he meets them.

FINAL ELECTION DAY PLANS MADE

Final election day plans were made by 200 supporters of Sam K. Greenleaf for county assessor at a meeting in Odd Fellows temple Friday night. Men and women workers were assigned to voting places.

Winter Wheat Gets Poor Start in Pawnee County

Table Rock, Neb., Nov. 1.—Wheat in Pawnee county is not getting the start it should have, because of the long continued dry weather, according to reports coming in from farmers in this community. There has been no great amount of moisture all the fall, and some of the wheat which was put in the latter part of September and the first half of October, has sprouted and died, due to the drought of the last several weeks.

Shinkle Is Sentenced for Automobile Theft

Beatrice, Neb., Nov. 1.—Frank Shinkle, who was arrested here last August when he drove into a local garage with a stolen car, has been sentenced at Aberdeen, S. D., to five years in the penitentiary for auto theft, according to information received here by Chief of Police Acton. A girl, about 16 years of age, who accompanied Shinkle, was paroled to her father, the report from Aberdeen says.

Six Snappy White-Trousered Cheer Leaders Place Pep Into Central High Football Rooters and Inspire Team

Here are six Central High school cheer leaders working out for next football game, all dressed up in white trousers and purple belts and neckties. Left to right, they are Ernie Weymuller, Clarke Swanson, Bill Johnson, Charles Dox, Claude Mason and Bartlett Quigley. Inserted are three of them in other typical postures which draw enthusiastic cheering from Central High followers.

"Fight, Central! Fight!" This cry rings out with fervent volume from several thousand throats, dancing dizzily about in the crisp October air, and the 11 youths in mole-skins obey. There is unanimity in this appeal to the gridiron warriors of Central High which actually inspires, and that unanimity is made possible by 12 young men who swing megaphones and caper joyously, or otherwise (depending on the tide of battle) before the loyal Central students.

These young men are not leading the cheering, by chance. They are there because they demonstrated their fitness. Tryouts were held recently, and more than 10 boys competed for places on the cheer-leading team.

All Classes Represented. Charles Dox is president of the organization. He is a senior, and has been leading cheers for Central for three years. Ernie Weymuller, Gay Holmquist and Bartlett Quigley are the other seniors in the organization. Four juniors are being groomed to step into their shoes next year, and the other two classes also are represented.

JUDGE RICE DIES AT CENTRAL CITY

Central City, Nov. 1.—William H. C. Rice, 78, pioneer resident of Merick county and Central City, died Wednesday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. F. C. Ratcliff. For the last three years he had been in failing health.

In addition to serving two terms as county clerk, he held the offices of county treasurer, county judge and county attorney. For many years he was active in the practice of law retiring in 1914.

At the time of his death he was prelate in the Knights of Pythias, an office he had held for a quarter of a century. He was also a member of the G. A. R.

He is survived by his widow and six children, all of whom survive their father. They are: Mrs. F. C. Ratcliff, Miss Margaret Rice, Mrs. Minor Ford, Robert Rice, all of this city; Will Rice of St. Joe, Ark., and Rev. John D. Rice of Portland, Ore.

THANKS RECEIVED FOR "GUEST CARD"

The publicity bureau of the Chamber of Commerce received the following letter Saturday from Miss Margaret Singmaster of Keota, Ia.:

"Through the offices of the Omaha Council of Catholic Women we were directed to your office to inquire regarding your guest card for the 'Guest Card' which I wish to tell you how safe and secure and how much at home we felt all of that time on our various shopping expeditions, as well as matinee and evening affairs."

"Let me add that we feel we owe to you this acknowledgment of our pleasant experience while there."

Tulips Will Be Omaha's Flower

Thousands of Bulbs Now Being Planted Throughout City, Says Sonderreger.

Omaha is preparing to win a new name for itself. Soon after the snows disappear next spring Omaha will be "The City of Tulips."

This is the prediction of seed and nursery men, who have been swamped with orders for thousands of bulbs for fall planting. Omaha, they say, will literally "blossom out" in tulips with the first breath of spring next year.

Tulips have been winning favor steadily in eastern cities for several years, but no city, florists say, has become so enthusiastic as Omaha regarding these flowers.

Nine thousand tulip bulbs are being planted now in a single addition. Rockshere. They were purchased in a single lot from the Sonderreger nurseries, 1912 Farnam street, by Shuler and Cary, owners of the addition. They will be planted in the parkings and at street intersections throughout the addition.

Leo Sonderreger, manager of the nurseries, said yesterday that several customers had bought more than 1,000 bulbs each this fall, while scores have purchased from 100 to 1,000 bulbs.

Among those who are planting large numbers of bulbs this fall are Dr. Harold Gifford, Duchesne college, and the owners of the Helen and Alma apartments.

Dr. Gifford was among the first to introduce the planting of tulips on a large scale in Omaha. His gardens at his home at 3636 Burt street were rife with color with tulips last spring, and he is adding 1,200 bulbs this fall. Two thousand bulbs are to be planted on the campus of Duchesne college, and 1,200 on the grounds around the Helen apartments. Another 1,200 will be planted on the grounds of the Alma apartments.

Among those who had large beds last spring and are adding to them this fall are Dr. William F. Callias, whose garden contained 2,500 bulbs, and Gene Melady, who had 1,400 bulbs.

Nebraska News Nubbins

Columbus—Platte county real estate is beginning to move again and at prices that reflect the old-time condition in its future, according to Eric Luedtke, cashier of the Citizens State bank at Creston, who cites several recent land sales in the Creston vicinity as proof of fact that there is a renewed spirit of optimism evidenced in the land market. Within the last week the following sales were made: A 40-acre tract was sold to Greghard Kapels at $125.50 an acre, unimproved; an improved farm was sold to George Michaelson for $200 an acre; a 160-acre farm, improved, brought $215. Columbus—Tuesday, December 9, was the date fixed by the city council as the day on which the people of Columbus will vote at special election on the proposition of issuing bonds for $70,000 to buy the sanitary sewer system. Columbus—Church benevolences at home and abroad and the church organization financial program for the coming year were principal themes of discussion at a special meeting of the Columbus District association of the Congregational churches of Nebraska here. Bridgeport—All American Legion posts in Garden county will unite in a big celebration of Armistice day on November 11. The celebration will be held in Oshkosh. "Don Quixote" Pup Loses in Battle With Airplane Bridgeport, Neb., Nov. 1.—Pat, the house dog of A. M. Ginn of Scottsbluff, was almost instantly killed when he got too close to the propeller of an aeroplane of the Yerex flying circus which gave an exhibition at that city. The flying machine was put out of commission for a time. Hunters Bag Five Cranes; Mistook Them for Geese Beatrice, Neb., Nov. 1.—Ben and Donald Falk of this city drove to the Plymouth vicinity early in the morning in quest of ducks. Neering a small pond they thought they spied a number of geese and quickly opened fire. They were surprised to find they had brought down five cranes.

CLIFF WOLFE IS CLIFF SMITH NOW

Clifford Warren Wolfe, Dudley Francis Wolfe and Gratton Wolfe, sons of Mrs. J. M. Baldridge of Omaha, have changed their names to Smith by proceedings in the Maine courts. They did this at request of their grandfather, Benjamin F. Smith of Rockland, Me., reputed to be worth $75,000,000. He has only one grandson bearing his name, Mrs. Baldridge is the only other child and he requested that her sons change their last names so that the family name may be in no danger of dying out. PRESIDENT COOLIDGE SAYS: I do not favor a corporation Government, a bank Government, a farm Government or a labor Government. I am for a common-sense Government by all the people according to the American Constitution.
