

Coolidge Will Visit Chicago

President Decides to Attend Army-Navy Football Game and Livestock Show.

By International News Service. Washington, Nov. 8.—President Coolidge will attend both the Army-Navy football game at Baltimore and the Chicago Livestock show. It was learned at the White House today, but the president has not yet decided on which day he will visit Chicago. Representative Martin B. Madden of Illinois conferred with the president at his request today concerning plans for his Chicago trip. It was said a definite date for the president's visit would be announced later. It is thought probable that he will leave Baltimore following the football game and go direct to Chicago.

The president arranged to leave during the afternoon for a cruise down the Potomac river aboard the Mayflower. It was the birthday of Frank W. Stearns of Boston, intimate friend of Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge, and the trip is planned in his honor.

Historic Omaha Well Goes Dry Once in 62 Years--- When Thirsty Union Soldiers Were Mustered Out

Still Serves Family in House Built From Hewn Logs.

Tennyson's brook may go on forever, and the same may be said of the well at the Counsman home, 2216 North Sixteenth street. This cooling font, reminiscent of Silcam's spring of old, has served the Counsman family 62 years, and shows no signs of failing. J. M. Counsman has lived in his present home 64 years. He is shown taking a drink at his beloved well.

The well went dry only once in its long history. That occurred in 1862, when the Nebraska soldiers from the civil war were being mustered out of service. The men were encamped north of Locust street and east of Sixteenth street. On that occasion this well was used to the straining point by the soldiers.

Mr. Counsman, who will be 87 years old on November 2, is a native of Pennsylvania. Shortly after he came to Omaha he went out to Florence and hewed trees from which he cut logs for beams and sills for his house. The timbers are now serving in the only home Mr. Counsman has had since he left the east for the great west.

When he built his home and established the well, Omaha was a western frontier town. The present Counsman address was "out in the country" from the business section of the city. At Twenty-fourth street and Ames avenue was another settlement known as "Saratoga." The corporate limits of Omaha was a small tract of land compared with the present area of 37 1/2 square miles. Half a century ago the old oaken bucket at the Counsman well was popular with the outdoors who drove out Sherman avenue with their two-horse shays and one-horse phaetons.

New Congress to See Changes

Few Major Committee Chairmen to Be Named, However, in Either House.

Washington, Nov. 8.—While there will be a general shakeup in the personnel of house and senate committees as a result of Tuesday's election, fewer than a dozen changes of importance in chairmen will be necessary. At least three vacancies caused by death, however, will have to be filled before the expiration of the present congress.

Death of Senators Colt of Rhode Island and Brandegee of Connecticut leave the chairmanships of the immigration and judiciary committees vacant, while in the house the merchant marine committee is without a chairman due to the death of Representative Greene of Massachusetts.

Senator Sterling of South Dakota is ranking republican on the senate committee, but he will not be in the senate after March 4. Senator Johnson of California will then be in line for chairman. Senator Borah of Idaho is the ranking republican member of the judiciary committee, while on the house merchant marine committee Representative Edmonds of Pennsylvania, who was not a candidate for re-election, is in line for chairman during the December session, with Representative Scott of Michigan next on the committee's republican roster.

Senator Bunker of New Mexico, who has been defeated for re-election on the face of incomplete returns, is chairman of the senate pensions committee on which Reed Smoot of Utah is the ranking republican, while Senator Moses of New Hampshire will be in line for chairman of the postoffice committee at the expiration of Senator Sterling's term.

After March 4 Senator Cummins will be relieved of the duties of senate presiding officer and will be in position to resume chairmanship of the interstate commerce committee if the republican majority sees fit to displace Senator Smith, democrat, of South Carolina, who has been serving in that capacity.

There is considerable speculation here as to whether an effort will be made by the republicans to read Senator La Follette of Wisconsin and his followers in the senate and house out of the party, depriving them of their committee assignments and of the privilege of attending committee conferences.

Des Moines News Sold to Tribune

Former Sister Paper to Omaha Daily Merged With Cowles Publications.

By Associated Press.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 8.—Consolidation of the Des Moines News with the Des Moines Evening Tribune, effective next Monday, was announced today by Gardner Cowles, president of the Register and Tribune company.

The Des Moines News, established 44 years ago, was owned by the Scripps-Howard company. Roy C. Howard represented the syndicate in the sale.

Mr. Cowles said that all the News' features would be included in the consolidated paper, which will carry a double banner line and will be known as the Evening Tribune and the News.

The Des Moines News was formerly one of the Clover Leaf syndicate of papers. The other two are the Omaha Daily News and the St. Paul Daily News. They were owned principally by St. Paul capital.

Several senators, among them Smoot, have declared in favor of such action, while privately some of the democratic leaders in the senate have advocated disciplinary action against Senator Wheeler of Montana, vice presidential candidate on the La Follette ticket.

Senator La Follette is chairman of the senate manufacturers committee and is listed as ranking republican on the finance and interstate commerce committees.

Senators Brookhart of Iowa and Frazier of North Dakota, who usually have lined up with the Wisconsin senator on political issues, have committee assignments but are chairmen of none, while Ladd of North Dakota, another senator identified with the La Follette bloc, is chairman of the public lands committee. Shipstead, farmer-labor senator from Minnesota, is a member of five committees and Norris of Nebraska, who has repeatedly differed with the republican organization, is agriculture committee chairman.

In the house, the La Follette insurgents, all of whom have been re-elected, have committee assignments as republicans, some of them serving as chairmen.

LEGAL WAR OVER BODIES IS ENDED

Columbus, Neb., Nov. 8.—After a hard-fought series of legal battles the bodies of Mrs. Martha J. Kinnan and her husband, Joseph R. Kinnan, are finally resting in the same burial place in Columbus.

Joseph Kinnan died 20 years ago and was buried at Osceola, Neb. Mrs. Kinnan died in Goodland, Kan., October 31, 1921. Her body was placed in a vault in Forest Lawn cemetery, Omaha. Two daughters, Dollie and Jessie Kinnan, aided by another sister, Mrs. August Groves, all of Columbus, erected a costly mausoleum in Columbus.

When they got ready to bring the body to Columbus two years ago, three other children, Herbert S. Kinnan, Joseph R. Kinnan and Mrs. Harry Ellsworth, sought an injunction against the sisters from burying mother any place except beside the father in Osceola.

Judge A. M. Post, now dead, was then on the district court bench here. The case came before him. The three sisters who built the tomb said they were willing to have the father's body placed in it but testified that they had promised the remaining spaces to other relatives. They produced, H. V. Clark, an Osceola undertaker, who testified on the witness stand that the father's remains as well as the rough box were too far decayed for removal.

Henry Gass, Jr., Columbus undertaker, testified that the removal could easily be made. Judge Post finally ruled that the mother's body could be placed in the tomb if the father's body was placed there, too, and that keys to the tomb were turned over to the cemetery sexton so that all of the children could visit the tomb when they choose.

During the past two years Miss Dollie and Miss Jessie Kinnan filed separate suits to divide the $23,000 estate left by the mother between them. They said the mother had made an oral agreement they were to have the estate for taking care of her during her old age. Final results of the litigation on the estate favored the sisters. The bodies of the father and mother have been placed in the tomb in Columbus.

Smallpox Takes Nine by Death

Nine persons died of smallpox in Omaha during the last week, figures in the bureau of vital statistics show.

There were also 12 deaths from diphtheria and 12 from chicken pox, one from measles and two from scarlet fever.

The pupils in two public schools and one parochial school were vaccinated during the week in the effort to stop smallpox.

Total deaths in the city were 50 for the week. Four were caused by pneumonia and four by tuberculosis.

Ten of the deceased were nonresidents.

A remarkable fact is that there was not a single death during the week of a baby under 1 year of age. This has never occurred before in the last 20 years, according to August F. Specht, registrar of vital statistics. Usually there are four to 10 baby deaths every week in Omaha.
