Johnson, veteran hurler and hero of the dead-end game of the last season, after the Oakland club, here attending the annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Baseball league, announced today that Walter Johnson, Washington American league pitcher, has virtually completed arrangements to purchase the Oakland club of the Coast league.

This assurance was understood to have been given by a resolution passed yesterday which Ewing offered and for which Oakland, Portland, Seattle, Los Angeles and Salt Lake voted, restoring a provision of the constitution of the league that a franchise cannot be revoked except by unanimous consent of the directors of the league.

This resolution was declared to preclude a proposal that the Salt Lake club should be shifted to Long Beach.

HASTINGS TRIMS CENTRAL COLLEGE

Hastings, Neb., Nov. 11.—Hastings college won its fourth conference game here today when the Broncos defeated Central college in a one-sided contest, 44 to 6. Straight football was used throughout. Central college made its single touchdown in the fourth quarter on line plunges. It was the only time that territory was penetrated beyond the 30-yard line.

Huffman and Croft carried the ball for the best gains for Central. Reed started for Hastings. He made the longest run of the tilt when he intercepted a pass on the 40-yard line and raced for a touchdown. Hastings did not open up an aerial attack as Conell Holste saved his yasses for the Wesleyan game next Saturday.

Gloom Again Casts Its Forlorn Rays in Dawson's Camp--Mandery Injured

LINCOLN, Nov. 11.—It was thought that two weeks would be sufficient for the recuperation of Nebraska's crippled football team, but with the time drawing near for the annual Notre Dame classic, it appears that the fortnight of rest is not half long enough. To add to the discomfort of Husker followers came word Tuesday morning that Avar Mandery was hurt in Monday's practice. He is limping with an injured foot. It was at first thought that he had broken a small bone in it. At best it will probably be sore Saturday.

OKLAHOMA BEATS HUSKERS AND GETS NEW STADIUM.

OMAHA alumni of University of Nebraska are still scratching their heads and wondering how the lovely Oklahoma university team happened to beat the doughy Cornhuskers in the second game of the season.

A group at the University club last night came to a conclusion that Nebraska team was suffering from a reaction from the terrific struggle of the week before when it stopped the great Gramme and held the powerful Illinois team to one touchdown.

Entering the conversation at this point a Nebraska student who had witnessed the game at Norman, Okla., and had spent the evening after the game at a fraternity house there, spoke as follows:

"In the first place it was too hot for football at Norman. In the second place those Oklahoma boys played like a bunch of demons, and they had reason for it, too. It meant everything to them, for like the rest of the Valley teams Nebraska was their big game. But there were two additional reasons: "The Oklahoma Alumni association promised that if the team beat Nebraska funds to build a big new stadium would be raised immediately. The second reason was a more personal one. The Oklahoma team had got away to a bad start, losing the first two games of the season. So, on the day before the Nebraska game, every man on the football squad took a pledge not to shave until they had won a game. I tell you, that was a desperate bunch.

"But, despite all this, Oklahoma wouldn't have beaten Nebraska but for a lucky break when they blocked a Nebraska punt and turned it into a touchdown in the first few minutes of the game. Then they fought like super-men to hold their advantage.

OMAHAN SLIPPING AS WELTER FIGHTER-INACTIVITY, CAUSE OF "KID'S" SLUMP IN RING

Malone's Showing Against Schlaifer Throws Shadow on Former's Bout Here With Charlie West, English Middle-weight.

MORRIE SCHLAIFER's beatings at the hands of Jack Malone in Minneapolis last night has caused followers of the Knights of the Cauliflower war on Omaha's fight rials to voice their opinion about the referee's handling of his fighting career.

They base their argument on the fact that Schlaifer finds it a mighty hard job to get into condition and that he is losing what little footwork and ring science was his.

According to reports from Minneapolis, Malone was declared the winner over Schlaifer in the third round of a scheduled 10-round bout after Morrie had twice fouled Jack. The reports of the fight also say that Schlaifer had been floored and was on the verge of being knocked out when he was disqualified for hitting Malone in the groin. In the first two rounds Malone easily outboxed Schlaifer, but in the third started out to hand the Omahan a good beating and was succeeding until he was fouled.

against the ropes. The reports do not, however, that after outboxing Schlaifer for two rounds, Malone waded into the Nebraska in the third and after jabbing Schlaifer's head back several times with a straight left to the mound, shot over a right cross that landed flush on the point of Schlaifer's chin.

Schlaifer sank to the floor as the result of the blow, but started getting up as the referee started to count. Malone then rushed in to finish Morrie and the latter is claimed to have struck Malone in the groin.

The St. Paul middleweight refused to accept the bout on a foul and the fight continued. Jack continued his assault on Schlaifer and was handing Morrie a good beating at close quarters when the Omahan, according to reports, again fouled Malone. The referee then gave the bout to Malone.

Malone's fight against Schlaifer also brought out another interesting bit of information for Omaha fight fans. The reports of last night's fight say that Malone knocked Schlaifer down.

It takes a mighty hard wallop to knock Schlaifer down. When Malone fought Charlie West, Englishman, in a bout at the Auditorium recently, the bout was stopped because of no fighting on the part of the principals. At a meeting of the boxing commission, West's purse was held up. Malone's wasn't.

Malone claimed he was hitting West as hard as he could, but it's a cinch that if Jack can knock Schlaifer down, he wasn't hitting West as hard as he could. We are sure Schlaifer can take more punishment than West.

The Minnesota boxing commission meets this afternoon to decide on what to do with Schlaifer's end of his purse from last night's bout.

Game Between Nebraska and Notre Dame in 1920 Remembered for "Freak" Stunt of Hoosiers

NOTRE DAME forward passes and the open field running of the late George Gipp gave Coach Rockne's men a 16 to 7 victory over Nebraska in 1920. The Irish scored in the first five minutes of play. Notre Dame carried the ball to the Nebraska two-yard line, but the Huskers held and Weller dropped back for a punt. His kick was blocked but he recovered for a safety, giving the visitors a two-point advantage.

In the air and Weller recovered for Nebraska. The Scarlet and Cream carried the ball down the field and Hubka went over for a touchdown. "Bill" Day kicked the extra point, giving Nebraska a 5-point lead. Two long passes, Gipp to Eddie Anderson, followed by Brandy's line smash, gave Notre Dame a touchdown toward the end of the second period. Shortly after the kickoff Notre Dame pulled a play that will long be remembered by Husker football fans. The ball was on the Notre Dame 45-yard line in Notre Dame's possession. Brandy fell to the ground as though injured. Before anyone could realize it, Brandy picked up the ball and tossed it over his head into the waiting hands of Gipp who went through the puzzled Nebraskaans for a 55-yard run and a touchdown. Swanson, Nebraska left end, saw the play and made for Gipp. A Notre Dame man held "Swannie" and prevented him from making a tackle. An official saw the play and called the ball back.

The third period was fairly even, with Notre Dame assuming the offensive again.

Nebraska went to pieces in the final period and Notre Dame carried the ball down the field on straight football for its second touchdown. Gipp taking the ball over on an end run. ## STAGG AFTER 'INSPIRED PLAYERS'

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Coach Stagg of the University of Chicago football team made a plea for "inspired players" at the annual football dinner before the Illinois game and assailed in withering terms an unnamed player on the team.

He called him an enigma without even the loyalty to attend the dinner. "Eleven inspired players could beat Illinois," said Stagg, "but I do not expect to see him inspired Saturday."

Alumni present considered he was speaking of Austin McCarty. Next morning a delegation met the Maroon fullback. He explained his absence from the dinner. The delegation suggested that McCarty see "the old man."

At Stagg's home McCarty and the veteran coach held a long conference. No one knows what was said but at the end they shook hands. They understood each other and the result? Friends of both point to the way McCarty, seemingly inspired, pounded his way through the astonished Illinois line.
