"Man Who Played God" to Be Shown on Screen Sunday Evening.

A new series of sermons will be given at the regular morning worship of the First Central Congregational church, beginning with tomorrow morning. At the very urgent request of many in his congregation, he is giving next an entire morning to each separate one. Tomorrow morning the subject will be "A Morning Meditation About God: Did God Make Man or Have Man Made God?" All who do not attend elsewhere are cordially invited. In the evening the third in the series of moving picture services will be given. The film for tomorrow night will be "The Man Who Played God." Dr. Smith has received letters from all parts of the country from those who have used this film and they all testify that it is a great picture with a great message. The evening service begins at 7:30, with community singing from the screen.

Omaha Girl in Operating Chair Shows How Violet Ray Is Used to Reduce Criminal Tendencies in Convicts

Hair for Bald and Tan for Bathing Girl Also Possible.

Possibility of eradicating criminal tendencies through ultra-violet ray treatments is an interesting Omaha authority, who have been informed that eastern prisons use the ray on prisoners with real results. The ray eliminates diseased conditions of the gums, which, it is asserted, are frequently responsible for crime and suicide. Applications are now administered with elaborate accessories, which enable the rays to be either air or water cooled. Ultra-violet therapy is now being used successfully by doctors in stopping the progress of tuberculosis and in curing scores of other serious conditions, according to officials of the Sells Surgical company of Omaha. The ray also furnishes a ray of hope for the bald. Dermatologists are applying it on shiny scalps and hair sometimes appears, "it is said. The girl who would gain a becoming tan without the bother of going to the beach also finds the ray a quick means to an end.

No, the young woman is not having a tooth pulled. She is Miss Antonia Lavarez of the Sells Surgical company, and she's merely posing in an operating chair to permit an expert to demonstrate how the ultra-violet ray is applied to the gums of men in eastern prisons to reduce their criminal tendencies.

A Cornhusker in Washington

With congress again in session, the usual lull for apartments and living quarters is on. One woman who pays $20 a month for an apartment is condescending enough to offer one room of her place for $50 a month. Hotel and apartment house owners put the "giz" on strong when congress convenes. Between sessions the apartment business is a dull affair. Congressman Willis G. Sears arrived in Washington for the opening session sporting a new hat and overcoat. It is hinted around the Congress Hall hotel, where the judge lives, that some Nebraskan paid an election bet. The number of deaths in the ranks of the house and senate were taken up mostly in recalling the members who had died and offering resolutions for special memorial services. A prominent Washington physician says the death rate among congressmen is higher than any other class. Traffic direction in Omaha is perfect, compared with Indianapolis, Baltimore and Washington. In Indianapolis it's everyone for himself. In Baltimore there are plenty of cops all every turn but not enough observance of the traffic rules by the drivers. At one end of one of the most dangerous curves in the white pole road there is an advertisement for an undertaking firm and at the other there is a huge cemetery. Eighty thousand persons shivered through the annual Army-Navy game at Baltimore last week. Deba and subdeba, society folks, to whom this annual grid classic is duck soup; the high hat squad and the frills in furs suffered for the sake of being able to say they were present and cheered for the "Army" or the "Navy." The Cornhuskers could have defeated either team hands down and without a tenth as much fuss as Baltimore put on. Baltimore is a town of more than 500,000 but the additional 80,000 in the city that day stood this staid old city on its ear. A Cornhusker notices the absence of the good old letter "R" from conversation in the east and the presence of the broad "a" of Harvard. How wonderful it is to have someone "breeze" into this office from the west and hear him roll out his "r's." New-comers to Washington attempt to tape the "ah" of the native, but are soon found out. One little miss from Nebraska who has been here for a short time "gets away" with it. But now and then an "r" will ripple out and proclaim her as being from the west. Washington boasts of 53 holes of public golf. Omaha, less than half as large, has almost as many "munny" golf courses. Rumor has it that there will not be an extra session of congress immediately after March 4. The "dopa" is now that President Coolidge will not call an extra session until June, after the end of the fiscal year. The opening day of congress reminds one of school days when we went around and greeted all the old "kids" and staid up the new ones. Congressmen and senators can be just as hot-crotch as school boys, but heaven help the poor taxpayer in the gallery if he lets out a "peep." One time I attempted to applaud a particularly worthy address by a congressman and almost got the bum's rush out of the gallery by one of our national pensioners. I felt sorry for the clerk attempting to call the roll of the house at the first session. He had to shout over the confusion being made by the lawmakers, who were greeting each other as though they had been apart for years instead of weeks. The Congressional Record will soon be in the mail and the world will be able to keep track of Mr. Blanton of Texas, who got in the Record last session through various methods, speeches and objections, about 10 times more than other members. In Washington, paper money is used almost entirely. A hard dollar is as scarce as roses in December in Nebraska yards. Pictures of Omaha and Nebraska, recently presented to Congressman Sears, will soon grace the walls of the congressman's office. This will be the only office in the Nebraska delegation that has anything showing the wealth and magnificence of the Cornhusker state. These pictures are the gift of the Omaha Kiwanis club. Wayland Magee, owner of Summer Hill farm near Bennington, has shipped to Congressman Sears sev-

First Christian Church Growing

Dr. George Miller Begins Third Year of Pastorate Here.

Dr. George A. Miller will begin the third year of his ministry with the First Christian church Sunday. He came to this church from Washington, D. C., where he had ministered to one church for 16 years. His work with the First Christian church of this city has been successful. During the last year 154 persons have united with the church, a net gain of 104 to the membership. During the two years 268 persons have joined the church, a net gain of 183. The average attendance of the Sunday school for the last year was 420, a gain of 57 in average attendance over the previous year. The attendance at all services has increased, especially Sunday night audiences. Besides keeping up all the regular expenses of the home church, the congregation gave last year over $6,000 for missionary and benevolent purposes. Dr. Miller has been in demand for special addresses since coming to Omaha, and has delivered during the two years 115 addresses outside of his own church, principally to schools, colleges and civic organizations. Sunday morning will be an anniversary service. The outlook for the future of this church is promising.

Catholic Bishop Who Has Preached for Half Century in Mission Fields Around Mt. Everest Visits In Omaha

Engaging a real, snowy winter for the first time in more than 20 years, Bishop Louis Van Hoek, S. J., of Patna District, India, will arrive in Omaha Saturday, December 13. The prelate is in this country on a vacation from his duties in India. He will speak at St. John church, Twenty-fifth and California streets, at all the masses Sunday. He will tell of mission conditions there and the bearing the political situation has on foreign missionaries. Bishop Van Hoek is a Belgian by birth and has spent most of his 64 years in the mission fields of India. When a youth he had a desire to go to Africa as a missionary but he was persuaded by his superior to choose India. He went there to finish his studies. He taught as a scholastic in the Jesuit college at Calcutta. After the completion of his theology and tertianship he was put into the mission field in Bengal, where 250 Belgian Jesuits are now working. Less than 20 years had passed since the Belgian, Rev. Constantine Lieveens, S. J., had been making wholesale conversions in this mission. In seven years, according to his reports, he made 100,000 converts, but he was forced to return to Belgium, where he died soon after. Omaha Aids in Work. Father Van Hoek was assigned to care for some of the converts of Father Lieveens. In 1919 the territory comprising all of the independent monarchy of Nepal, and part of the province of Behar-Orissa, a section formerly served by the Austrian Capuchins, was entrusted to the Missouri province of the Jesuit order, in which Omaha is located. At Shambaganur, where the novitiate of the Toulouse Jesuit province is located, five novices who are studying for the priesthood and one who has entered as a lay brother.
