

Girl Writes Ode to Police Monk

Sergeant Jocko Jiggs' Athletic Feats Are Recorded in Verse.

Sergeant Jiggs has made such a name for himself at Central police station that a poem has been composed in his honor by Margaret Plotts, 16, daughter of Jailer Charles Plotts, 3224 Fowler avenue.

Sergeant Jiggs is a monkey, said to be the only monkey at Central station though this statement is disputed by some.

When he first was brought to the station after escaping from Krug park a cage was built for his dwelling in the garage.

The sergeant, a lover of liberty, escaped from his cage the first night and broke into a bottling works across the alley, where he terrified a cat half to death by chasing the feline all over the place.

Margaret Plotts is a friend of whom he is most fond. He greets her with every show of affection. So Margaret has embodied him in poetic memory as follows:

JOCKO JIGGS. A native from distants. As skinny as a rail. Came driving into town one day And landed right in jail.

He seemed to be a nameless kid. But he liked to play with "migs." They wandered across the street. And finally named him Jiggs.

Sergeant Jiggs was sure polite. His manners were good of course. He kept right on to-go. Now he's the only monkey on the force.

He shakes a wicked shoulder. He loves to play with dice. He sure does love funny things. Such as picking out the lice.

Sergeant Jiggs is the queerest thing. He leaped from his cage. He hopped into an office room. And got ink for evidence.

Sergeant Jiggs likes onions. He eats them with the pair. And also likes apples. Such a funny little fare.

I wonder if Sergeant Jiggs gets lonely and thinks of the folks back home. I wonder if he ever begins to roam.

Poultry Disease Due to Rail Cars

Bryan Writes Al Smith Transit Company Failed to Fumigate Property.

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Lincoln, Dec. 13.—Insanitary rail cars are responsible for the spread of the poultry disease which recently caused the New York City board of health to lay an embargo on Nebraska fowl, Governor Charles W. Bryan asserts in a letter of protest which he sent today to Governor Al Smith of New York.

Governor Bryan announced in his letter that he has issued an order to the department of agriculture to fumigate all poultry shipping cars entering Nebraska from the east to protect Nebraska poultry against the epidemic.

He asserts that the fowl recently shipped out of Nebraska did not have the disease because they left the state but that it developed while they were in transit in cars of the Live Poultry Transit company. He asks that this company and other poultry carriers be ordered to fumigate their cars.

Governor Bryan's letter says the embargo of the New York City health department is "unnecessarily rigid" and will cause a loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars to Nebraska farmers unless rescinded. He asks Governor Smith to urge that the embargo be lifted.

Famous Frontier Gambler Is Dead

"Three-Fingered" Jim Marshall Breathes Last in Denver Hospital Bed.

Denver, Dec. 13.—"Three-Fingered" Jim Marshall, who won his title by quick trigger work in the gold mine camps of the stage coach days of the west, is dead.

His last breath, which carried with it the spirit of the frontier days when gambling was a legalized profession and quick, straight shooting an art that added to the years of life, died in a general hospital here last night after having served the last 10 years of his checked career as a deputy sheriff in a west side court.

In the booming days of the famous Cripple Creek mining camps, whose only law was that which stern-faced men carried in leather holsters around a gambling table, he would go to the streets and give away a small fortune to those less fortunate than himself.

Later, Marshall is said to have practically controlled the gambling enterprise in El Paso, Tex., and also in Del Norte, now Juarez, Mexico.

Still later, when the west was shaking some of its frontier habits, Marshall bought a string of fine race horses and invaded the tracks of the east. He was a familiar figure for several years in Louisville and eastern track circles.

Mr. Swaffar recounts a lengthy spirit conversation with Lord Northcliffe at a seance which included Conan Doyle, Sir Robert MacAlpine, the contractor who built Wembley; Miss Louise Owen, for 20 years Lord Northcliffe's personal secretary, and other well known persons.

The first message came through the medium, Egan Powell, formerly a Welsh miner, strapped securely in a chair with his thumbs fastened by cotton to the slightest movement would break the thread, Lord Northcliffe's voice came clearly and was easily recognized by his friends.

"I wish I had paid more attention to what you said, Doyle," said the spirit voice of Lord Northcliffe. "I distrusted your judgment, although not your sincerity, but I see now how wrong I was."

Accident Rate Low in Nebraska

State's Record Surpasses All But Mississippi, Census Figures Show.

Although 766 persons were killed in accidents in Nebraska during 1923, this state held the second lowest accident death rate for the year, according to a survey made by the bureau of publicity of the Chamber of Commerce from figures released by the Department of Commerce.

Mississippi, with a death rate of only 57 per 100,000 persons, holds first place, but Nebraska is a close second with a rate of 57.4 per 100,000.

Of 766 persons who were accident victims in Nebraska in 1923, 123 were killed by automobiles, giving the state a rate of 9.2 per 100,000 persons. Only eight states hold a lower rate.

All of the eight states which rate better than Nebraska are in the south, and while Nebraska stands third in per capita auto ownership, these eight range from 32d to 49th in this respect.

One-fifth of Nebraska's accidental deaths, or 152, occurred in Omaha. Of these, 40 were caused by automobiles, 10 by railroads, 5 by street cars, 4 by other vehicles, and 93 by other accidental causes.

Thus Omaha, with 15 per cent of the state's population, suffered 20 per cent of Nebraska's accidental fatalities.

In comparison with nine other cities of 200,000 or more population, Omaha stands lowest in point of total number of such deaths and third lowest in point of its death rate per 100,000 population.

Among these 10 cities of Omaha's class, Columbus, O., had the greatest number of accidental deaths, with 228. Totals for the other cities are: Omaha, 152; Oakland, Cal., 169; Portland, Ore., 195; Providence, R. I., 204; Birmingham, Ala., 214; Atlanta, Ga., 220; Louisville, Ky., 229; St. Paul, Minn., 224; Toledo, O., 226. The accident mortality rate of Birmingham, of 109.2 per 100,000, was highest.

Oakland, with 70.4, was lowest, and Portland, Ore., with a rate of 71.3, and Omaha, 74.4, follow closely.

The romance of William A. Gurnett, police detective, and his bride of five months, formerly Winola Winslow, turned sour two months ago, and he threw it overboard Saturday.

He asked the district court to give him a divorce, asserting that the wife left him early in September and has since refused to live with him. She is now living, he says, at 657 South Twenty-sixth avenue.

Gurnett's petition marked the ending of a romance which was begun through the friendship of his daughter, Corinne, 7, for a pretty young divorcee who lived across the hall in a Farnam street hotel.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon, apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone. After two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find that this itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

Health Questions Answered

By DR. LEWIS BAKER. An Advertisement. Reproducing Extracts of Patrons' Letters Relating to Cadomene, Baltimore, Sulphur, Arbolone, Su-toh, Mentho-Laxene, Minyol, Hypo-Nuclene, Vilane, Etc.

I wish to mention a comforting discovery which is likely to attack every person at some time in life. Generally, it is certain to trouble those who are fond of eating rich food, but especially prone to it is taking tea through the day. It seems to give little annoyance at night, but it causes a distress through loss of sleep, as its victim is compelled to get up and down to relieve the bladder of its contents. This unnatural and tedious weakness of the whole body. It is often due to weak-ness of the bladder.

Correcting the trouble is a simple matter in nine cases out of ten. I recommend the non-surgical remedy, Balmwood Tablets to be taken as per directions. Relief follows quickly, much to the delight of those who have thus suffered.

Mrs. K. I. Baker: "I have had a continuing attack of bladder weakness for years. Aching stiffness and soreness keeps me confined, and having to get up every few minutes, please advise at once." Answer: I advise that you try Cardinal Tablets as per directions. This will relieve you in ten days. Balmwood Tablets afford quick pain relief and may be taken with cardinal tablets.

NOTE: For many years Dr. Lewis Baker, Medical Director, The Black-burn Products Co., 1112 College St., Dayton, Ohio, has been recommending the Balmwood Tablets. He has used them through the medium of the newspaper, and doubtless has helped in relief of thousands of cases. He has written a book on the subject, "The Balmwood Tablets," which is an inexpensive method. The medicine is mentioned by him as being a "free from habit-forming drug. The treatment is a natural and effective one. The Balmwood Tablets contain no opium, but they act quickly in relieving pain.

Answer to Miss C.: "The use of plain yellow alcohol is quickly effective in stopping dandruff. It will fall out of your hair. After using the hair becomes beautiful, lustrous and healthy."
