

Honolulu Beaches Win 'Gainst Ice and Snow

Just after Christmas Omahans are leaving this land of ice and blizzards for a month on Honolulu beaches.

Mrs. Byron Smith leaves Saturday, December 27, for Los Angeles. where she will join Mr. and Mrs. Holmes Updike, former Omahans, who will entertain in her honor at a New Year's eve party there. Later they will go to the Pasadena rose festival, sailing for Hawaii January 3. In the Updike party will be Mrs. D. F. Lowell and Mr. and Mrs. Hemenway of Colorado Springs. The party will stay at the Moana hotel until for Honolulu, where they will be guests in a private home until April. Miss

Mrs. Palmer Findley and her daughter, Mary, will leave early in January for California and will remain there until February 18, when they sail I feel that he is the right man for me. Findley will be wed on her return to Fred Teigeler of Fremont. The wed in remarks that she wishes she had a ding will be an important early summer event.

ding will be an important early summer event. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Creighton Allison, Mrs. Albert Sibbernsen, the B. J. Scannells, Miss Katherine Dolan of Atchison, Kan., and Mrs. Elizabeth Ware of Blair leave the third week in January to join Mrs. C. C. Allison, who is in Santa Barbara, Cal., and they will sail with her February 8 for the Islands.

Mrs. Sevilla Bradford is also making plans to accompany this group, and it is said that Mrs. Frank Colpetzer, who has been in California since Thanksgiving will be a passenger on the same boat.

Dicky returned gallantly, and in the next minute or two I think he satisfled even Mrs. Durkee's grandmotherly pride in the enconiums he pronounced upon the baby and the apparently absorbing interest he displayed in the newest member of the Durkee family.

But no sooner had he finished than he returned again to his grievance. "Why didn't you bring Jim, too?" he asked with an ironio intonation which made my hands contract involuntarily into fists. "He could have run errands and made himself use ful in many ways, I should think Then, too, the family picture would have been complete. You have every body else here. And oh, yes, I am forgetful! Surely some of the Ticers were at home, and they would have so enjoyed this little outing."

"Alfred, hold this baby," Mrs. Durkee commanded, depositing the young lady in her son's arms. Then, with swift sure movements, she ran to Dicky, raised herself on tip-toe and boxed his ears soundly. "Let Me Talk."

"That for you," she said a bit breathlessly when she had finished "What's eating you, anyway? You knew Madge had brought the children and Katle along yesterday Why the sudden scruples?"

They're not sudden," Dicky said, sulkily. "I was astonished yesterday when I saw the procession. But I was too much upset over mother to start anything then. Besides there wasn't this-other-complication yes terday."

"Sirrah! Don't you dare call my daughter a name like that!" Alfred thundered. "Ods Zooks, also Zounds, what do you mean by such scurvy

"Shut up, Alfred," his mother said peremptorily, "and let me talk to him. Now look here, my Dicky bird'-this with her arms akimbo and her head set perkily to one side "I don't know what we would have done this morning without Kalle And you know, if you have an atom of gray matter in that alleged brain of yours, that Madge couldn't comto your mother unless she brought the children with her. So where's your argument?" "But you must be horribly incom
