

Airplane vs Battleship

Not the largest battleship in the world, but a perfectly good one—until the airplane bombers went to work.

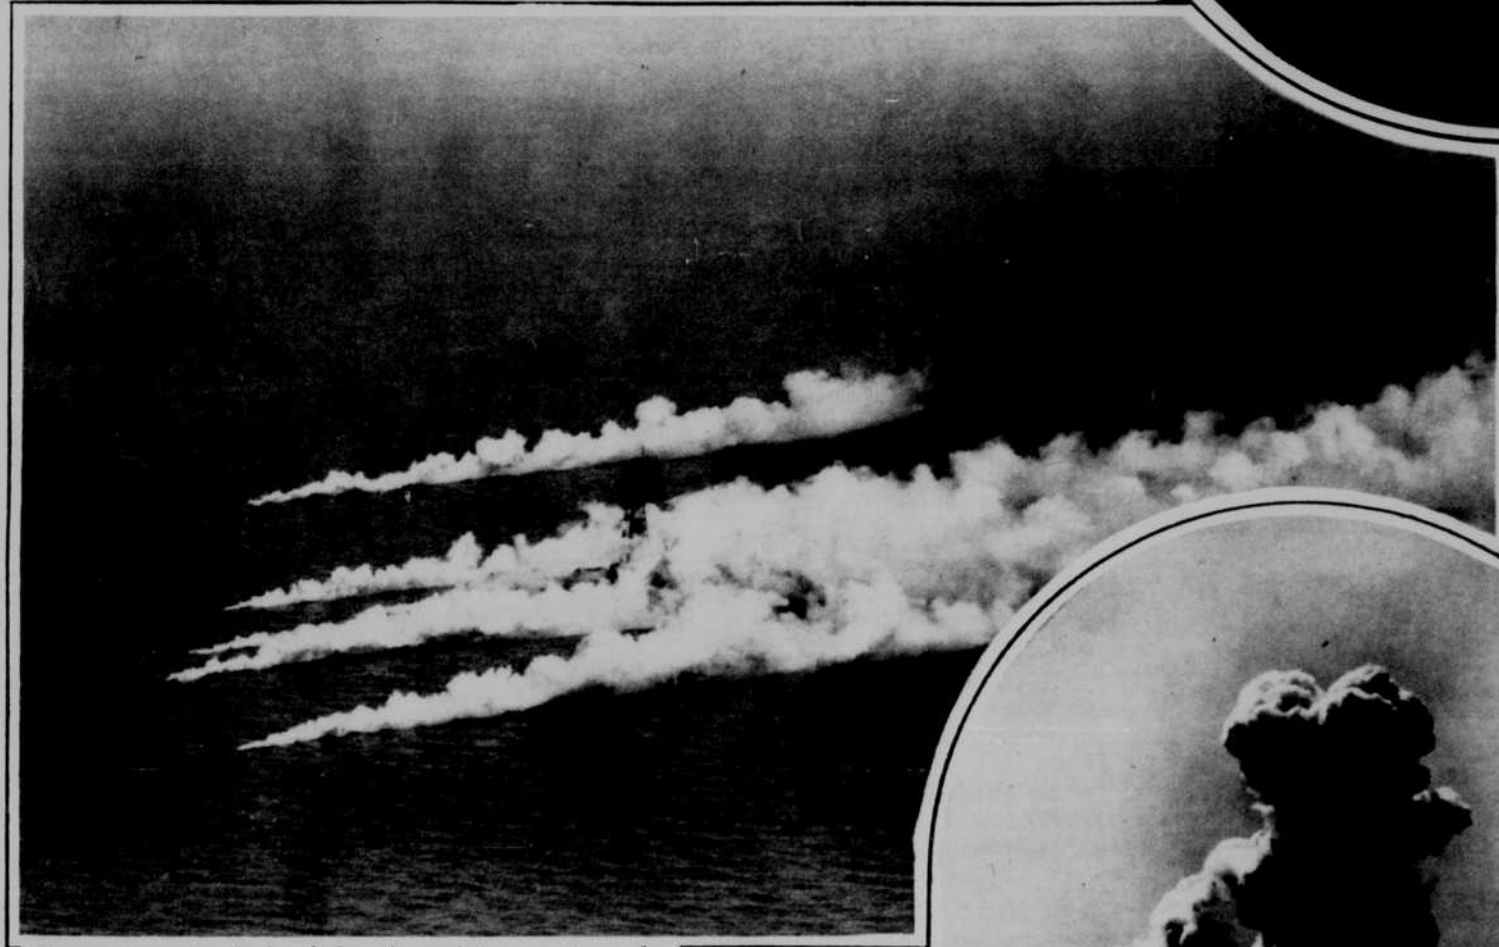

A phosphorus bomb drops into the crow's nest.

Two phosphorus bombs drop together.

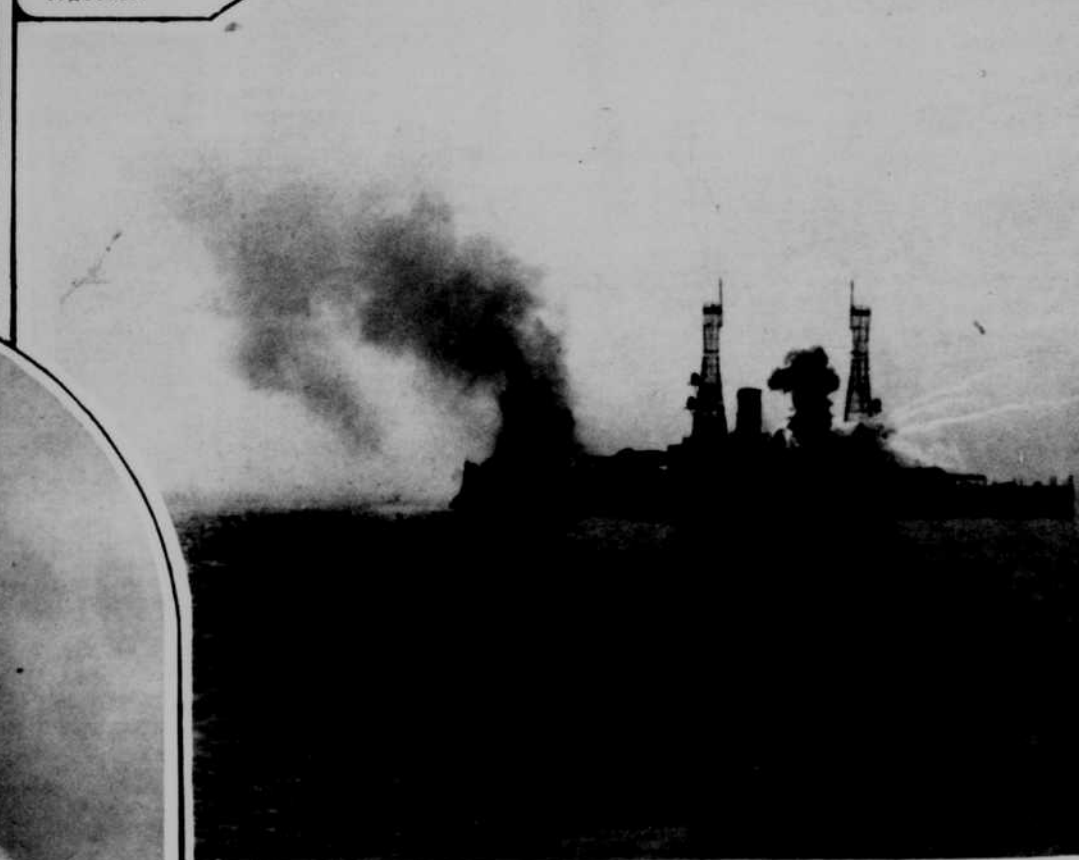

Not a direct hit, but uncomfortably close.

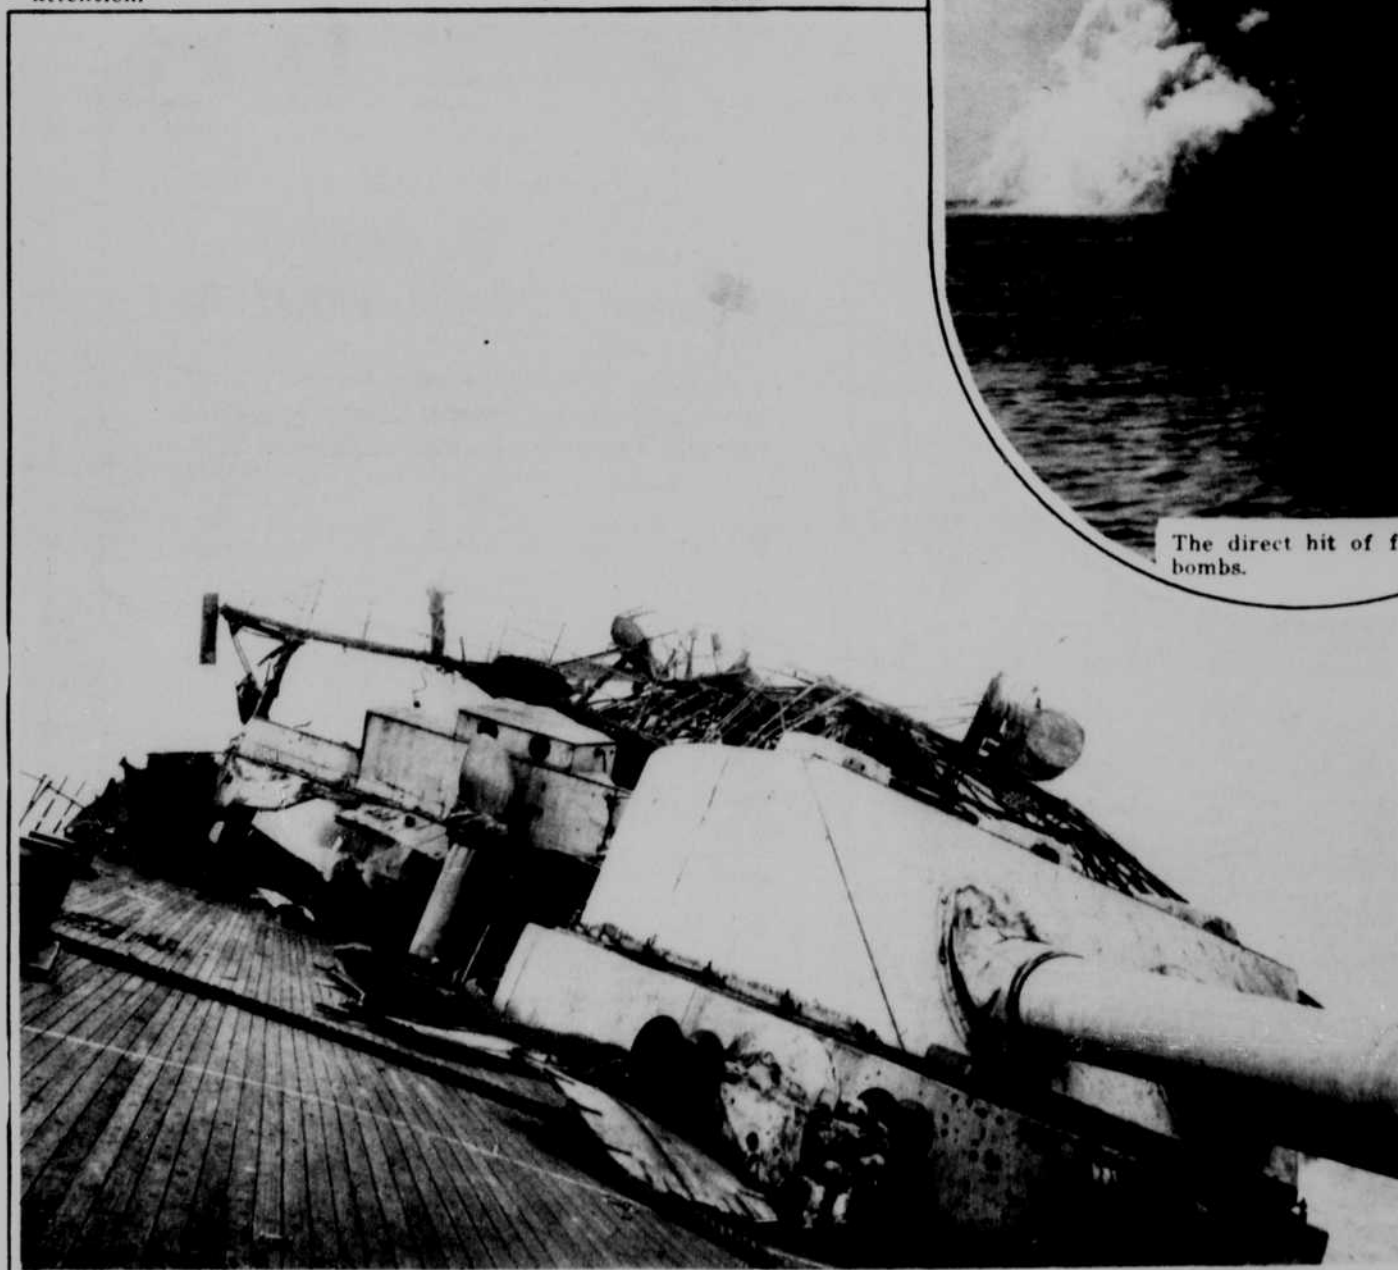

Trying to make it hard for the aviators with smoke screens. But the bombers didn't even pay any attention.

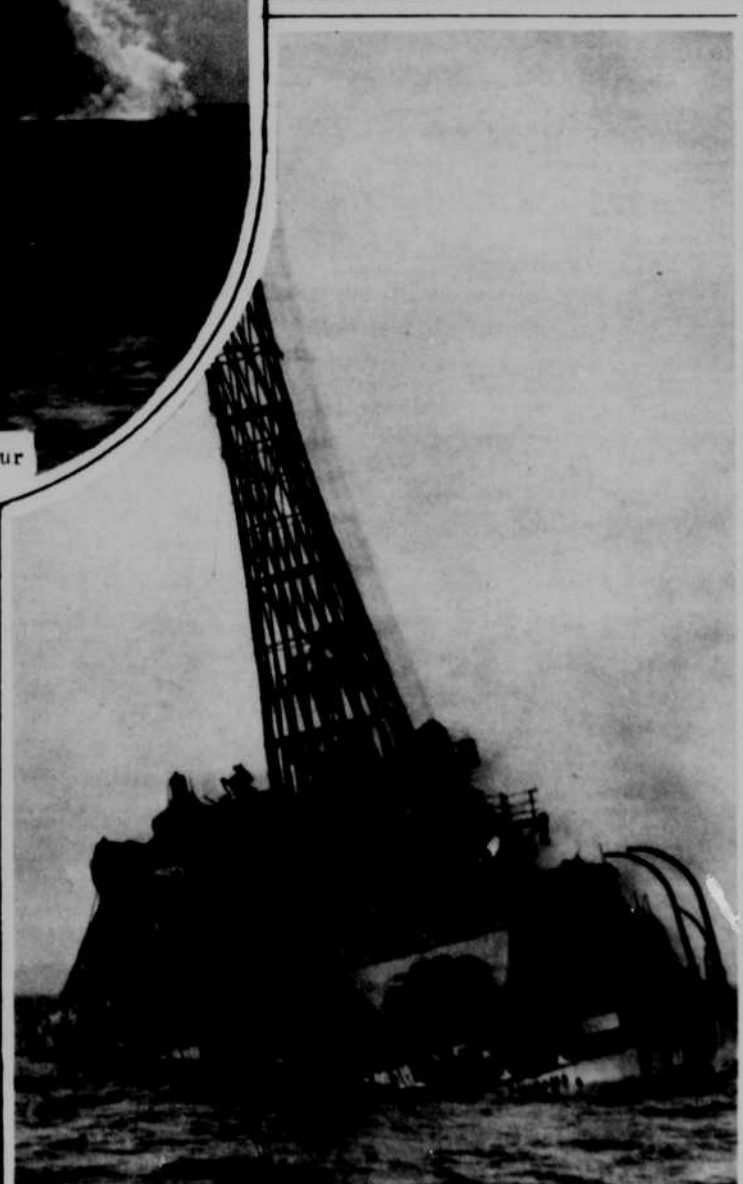

The direct hit of four bombs.

Still closer.

Looking aft before the battleship sunk, giving an idea of the damage a few little bombs may do.

How the battleship looked following the direct hit.
