

Howell Defeated in Fight Against Rail Labor Body

Senate Refuses to Eliminate Appropriation From Independent Offices Supply Bill.

Washington, Feb. 14.—The senate today refused to eliminate appropriations for the railroad labor board from the independent offices supply bill.

A motion by Senator Howell, republican, Nebraska, to throw out an appropriation for the board, was defeated, 42 to 21, after a debate occupying all of today's session and most of yesterday's.

The amendment was supported by five republicans: Brookhart, Iowa; Gooding, Idaho; Johnson, California; Howell and Norris, Nebraska, and the two farmer-labor members of Minnesota, Shipstead and Johnson.

Twelve democrats opposed the proposal, while the following 14 voted for it: Ashurst, Arizona; Copeland, New York; Dill, Washington; Smith, South Carolina; Harris, Georgia; Keelin, Alabama; Jones, New Mexico; Kendrick, Wyoming; King, Utah; McKellar, Tennessee; Sheppard, Texas; Simmons, North Carolina, and Walsh and Wheeler, Montana.

Laws to Punish Idle Gossipers

Shoe Workers Ask Council to Pass Ordinance Similar to Kentucky.

Endicott, N. Y., Feb. 14.—If the common council grants a petition received by officials today, one will have to stop talking about one's neighbors—or go to jail—for the petition asks that the aldermen enact an ordinance similar to one which is working out successfully in several other cities, making it a misdemeanor to gossip.

The petition, signed by "A Group of E. J. Workers," makes the specific request that the council follow the lead taken by the town of Owensboro, Ky., and enact a law which would provide a penalty of fine or imprisonment, or both, for conviction upon a charge of "scattering false rumors, or spreading lies about people both in public and private life."

The law is being enforced in the Kentucky town, the petition says, and Judge Emmett Watkins recently fined a woman $10 for saying that she could bribe any policeman with a dram of "white mule."

VALUABLE INDIAN POTTERY IS FOUND

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Feb. 14.—Forty-three different kinds of pots have been made from 800 fragments of pottery unearthed by Max Schrabist, archaeologist of the Wyoming Historical society, who has been making excavations at Rock Cabin, on Wyoming mountain. The pottery was the work of the Lenape tribe of Indians, who frequented this valley. The designs on the vessels vary on nearly every piece.

Several Boy Scouts interested in Indian lore are assisting in the work, and Rock Cabin has proved a repository of Indian relics. Mr. Schrabist believes that it was used as an Indian shelter rather than as a permanent habitation of the tribe, which many erroneously believed to be a tribe of the Delawareans.

Mrs. Paul Donnelly to Be Here Monday

Mrs. Paul Donnelly, the creator of Nelly Don apron frocks, will be in Omaha Monday and Tuesday.

She will display her frocks to Omaha housewives who visit the Brandels store.

The first Nelly Don frock was made by Mrs. Donnelly for her own wear about her home. The cut and "different" touch of the garment, which elevated it from the apron class, pleased her friends, and Mrs. Donnelly soon conceived the idea of marketing her needlework.

A factory employing 500 persons now has replaced the little cottage in which she first began tailoring her aprons.
