

YOU'VE HEARD OF MR. GALLAGHER AND MR. SHEAN— Here they are together with a few of their fair young assistants in the Greenwich Village Follies. Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean and the Greenwich Village Follies will be in Omaha for a four-day engagement at the Brandeis theater beginning February 15.

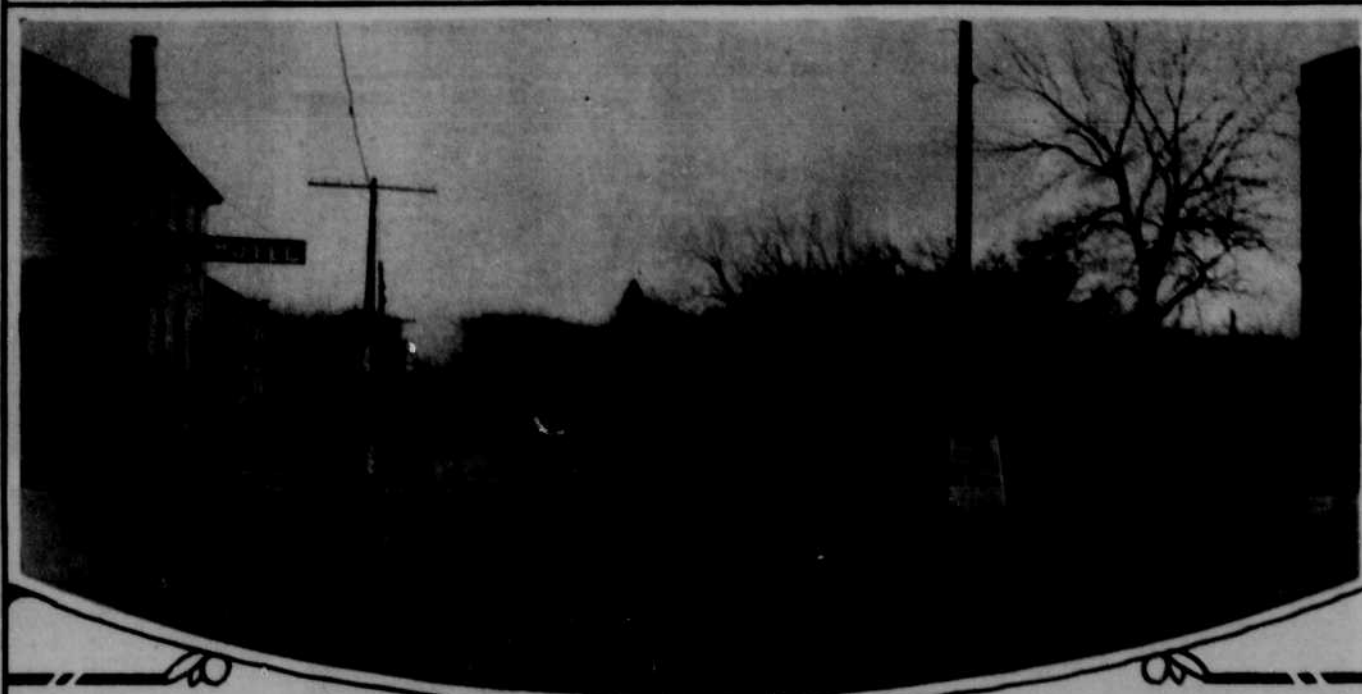

NATIVE COSTUMES OF RUMANIA IN OMAHA— These women of the Rumanian Orthodox church, Twenty-ninth and T streets, made their own costumes, even to the weaving of the cloth. The manufacture of the apparel took two months' time. The costumes are native of Transylvania, formerly a Hungarian province, but now of Rumania. First row, left to right: Mrs. J. Bigha, Mrs. I. Moisa, Mrs. J. Files, Mrs. M. Vlaicu, Mrs. S. Babutia; second row, left to right: Miss M. Demian, Mrs. E. Plesa, Mrs. V. Arion, A. Demian, 6; Mrs. A. Muncson, Mrs. Nich Sanko, Mrs. J. Critian.

$150,000 ANNEX FOR FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH— Having outgrown its quarters, this Omaha church was compelled to add a large annex to care for growing Sunday school classes and greater church attendance. Photo by Dewell.

MORE THAN 50 YEARS IN THE SERVICE— For 56 years Joe Kragakow (left) has been an upholsterer in the Union Pacific shops in Omaha, while Tom B. McMillian has been a hammer operator in the shops for 53 years. They were recently retired on pensions.

THERE ARE ROADS AND ROADS— These pictures of an intersection in Gretna, Neb., were taken just 60 days apart. The camera tells eloquently why Nebraska needs a comprehensive highway program. Photo by C. A. Warren.
