

On the hillside of Goat Island at Niagara Falls in winter.
—Wide World

The U. S. Submarine, S-19 which ran ashore off Nauset Beach, Orleans, Mass., Cape Cod. Note the man in the tower just to the right of the breaking sea.
—Wide World

Captain Charles Nungesser, greatest living French "Ace" who was woundedsevententimes in action and who was honored by all of the Allied powers that participated in the World War. Captain Nungesser has just come to the United States to star in motion picture, "The Sky Raider".
—Wide World

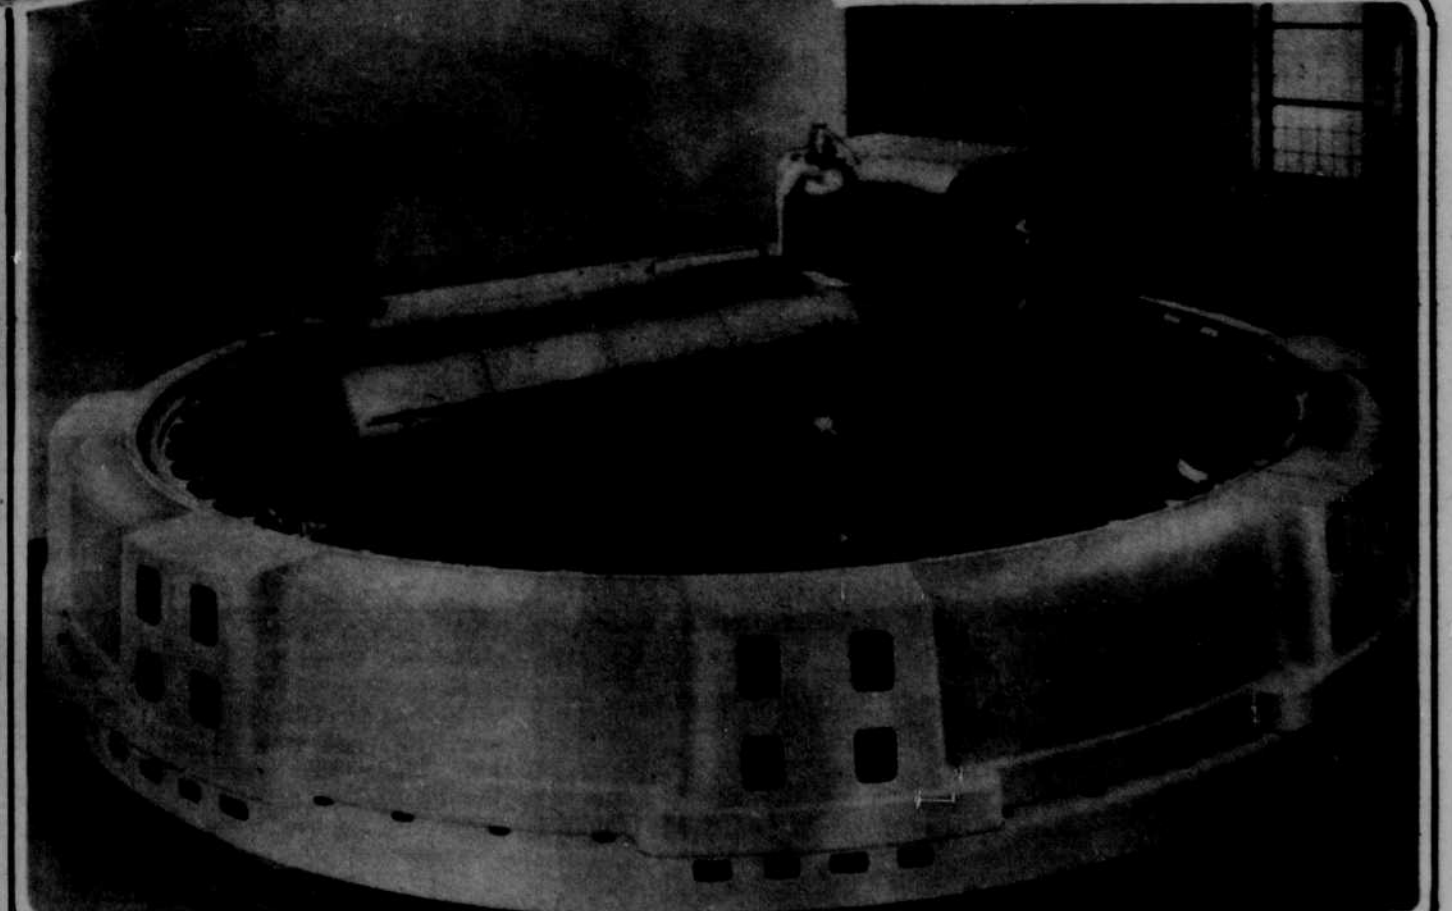

This strikingly original painters' board is said to be the most peculiar and attractive thing of its sort in the world. Each of the artists belonging to the Academy of Spain in Rome has painted a bit of this palette for use as a souvenir.
—Wide World

This ordinary looking walking stick has a cleverly arranged .32 caliber rifle concealed in the inside that shoots hard and straight. The trigger arrangement is a small push button. Sheriff Earle Brown of Hennepin County, Minn., holding the cane. It was taken from a murderer.
—Wide World

The mask of this dangerous rogue hides the face of Tom Mix, the famous star of the Fox Studios. As "Dick Turpin", the dashing and witty coach robber of England Tom has the greatest role of his career. William Fox promises an early showing in New York.
—Wide World

One of the dynamos of the new power plant which is to supply Leningrad, Russia with light and power. Four of these huge dynamos each of 8,750 kilowatts and 11,000 volts, have been delivered by the Swedish General Electric Company.
—Wide World

Benny Jane Bessinger, four years old, who has the distinction of being the world's youngest radio announcer.
—Wide World

World's oldest necklace believed to be 75,000 years old being shown at the Chicago Art Institute.
—Wide World