the proprietor to tell her her name. The proprietor believed her to be insane and called police. She was taken to the police emergency hospital and is apparently a victim of amnesia. She declares that she does not know her name, nor whether or not she has a husband.

Married in January.

She was positively identified Friday by Detective Sergeant Paul Haze, who has known her for four years, but insists that she has never seen him before. The Bruskas were married just last January 25.

Mrs. Bruskas has been living since Monday at the home of Mrs. Tom Nelson, 1821 Cass street. According to Mrs. Nelson, the young woman came to her home at the direction of her husband, after he had ordered her to leave his home, had said he would file suit for divorce in district court. A note which the young woman evidently wrote Thursday afternoon, although it was dated "February 20." was found in the young woman's

Mitchell Talks on Air Defense

Brigadier-General William Mitchell, assistant chief of the army air service, vortex of a controversy raging in congress over America's aerial om at Mrs. Nelson's house. It was defense, spoke over the radio from a New York station while Mrs. Mitchell ddressed to "Dear Lulu" and read: sat beside him. Mitchell told his invisible audience that New York City would be defenseless against an aerial attack "because the United States has not taken aviation seriously."
