Medill McCormick.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

Medill McCormick, who died suddenly yesterday, was an exceptionally able, brilliant man. He inherited through his mother the genius of his grandfather, Joseph Medill, and especially the latter's newspaper talent.

Before he left newspaper work for politics, Medill McCormick, although a very young man, showed extraordinary newspaper ability and energy. He was a newspaper editor of the early American type, thin, keen, concentrated, knowing what news is, how to tell it, and how to impress himself on public public affairs.

President Coolidge, it's said, means to veto the increased salaries for congressmen. The total amounts to $1,376,000 a year.

The salaries are not high. Congressmen cannot live decently at

Washington and at home on today's

Congress could earn the increase in five minutes, by creating a great irrigation and power plant at Boulder canyon on the Co.orado river. That project to irrigate 2,000,000 acres of desert land, supply con tinuously 600,000-horsepower and protect the Imperial valley from floods, would pay the congressmen's increased salaries 10,000 times every year and leave enough over to pay for the dam.

F. B. Kellogg, retiring as ambas-sador to Great Britain, will be welcomed home as secretary of state by all who like a genuine American of old-fashioned type.

Kellogg is cheerful about Europe and says the world is returning to the gold standard. The world knows little about money. Professional financiers, as Bernard Shaw says, know even less than anybody else. But gold, "yellow and cold," for which men struggled, searched, dug and killed each other 5,000 years ago, still retains its power.

And this country has most of the gold. That is one reason why Europe doesn't like us.

One important proof of booming prosperity. In New York, our big-gest city, the rush to get married before Lent comes exceeds all records. Not fewer than 50 couples have been standing in line all day, waiting for licenses.

This guarantees the most important of all our crops, the crop of native-born babies, on which the country and the future depends. Rome. The only real wealth is human intelligence. The mothers create it. man lives.

The reliquary with the sacred finger was saved fortunately, also another treasure almost as precious, one of the sacred vessels made by Benevenuto Cellini.

You admire the power of faith, revealed in the fact that the worshippers are not shaken by the fact that fire, destroying the old church, was caused by a stroke of lightning, of divine power. Such a man as their biggest paintings, and sell material for unpleasant comment there.
